DEATH PENALTY FOR JORDAN

Philadelphia Union League His Host.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—Fifteen hundred Republican voices shouted a cheer of fealty tonight and fifteen hundred pairs of Philadelphia's bluest blooded hands clapped in loyal excitement as the Union League, sanctum of standpat Republican aristocracy, gave President Hoover a welcome that brought to his usually impassive face smile after smile.

The President liked the welcome, and he said so. He felt, he told the Union Leaguers, that to shake their hands was to receive a grip from "the hand of encouragement."

The Union League was born in 1862 out of the stress of the civil war. The President spoke of the preservation of our Union and loyalty to our government.

He Finds Solace There.

It was "a grateful occasion," he said, and in the club which has entertained every Republican President except one since the civil war, he found "restfulness, security, faith in one's country."

The President smiled reflectively, perhaps in memory of some of the bitter words that have spouted from Capitol Hill, and finished:

"Public officials need encouragement."

At that, the fifteen hundred loyalists clapped and cheered again, and in the front row in the club's Lincoln hall, from whose paneled walls the portraits of the Republican great looked down, Mrs. Hoover smiled happily.

While the fifteen hundred applauded, five hundred other Philadelphians were nursing opposite feelings. These were radicals, who had sought to stage a demonstration along the line of march when the President arrived in the city but were crowded into the background by the police. Banners besought such relief as the President had once carried to the Belgians.

A placard hinted "Give Us a Week End on the Rapidan." Three of the more insistent demonstrators were arrested but later released.

City Troop Turns Out.

The disturbance was not allowed to spoil the arrival of the President's party. The presidential parade was escorted from Broad street station to the Bellevue-Stratford hotel by the First city troop. The privilege of wearing the First city troop's high shakos, white pants and gold laced jackets, is a passport into the social heaven of the truly-truly.

From the Bellevue-Stratford, where the President is staying, the party walked, evening dress and all, to the league club house between the lines of another organization, the State Fencibles, gentlemen with white mustaches, wearing military costumes patterned after the uniforms of 1812. Then Mrs. Hoover was spirited away to dine with the ladies, while the President entered the club's venerable portals. In addition to the welcome the club presented the Hoovers with a portrait of the President by the Greek artist, Fillies Costa.

Praise for President.

In making the presentation George S. Patterson, president of the Union League, told Mr. Hoover that he had met the economic crisis "with courage and ability and in accordance with the principles upon which this government was founded."

"There is a vast amount of hard, common sense hidden away in the minds of the American people," he said, "and that common sense teaches them to have confidence in you."

And that was a signal for more cheers.

The President's speech in reply was in a light vein. He thanked the club for not calling on him for a set speech upon public affairs.

"In these times," he said, "when a large number of segments of our population are seeking relief, that was, indeed, the greatest and most considerate relief ever extended to the President of the United States."

Refers to His Portrait.

"Your generous reception," he went on, "has gone beyond even the frontiers of hospitality. You have presented to Mrs. Hoover and myself a portrait by a skillful artist.

"It is difficult for me to express, with my natural modesty, that it gives me pleasure to see one's self presented in a better fashion than the normal snap photographs, and perhaps a jus-

CHICAGO TO PAY HOMAGE TODAY TO HEROIC DEAD

The Boys of '61

Chicago today will pay homage to its war heroes with military services in cemeteries, and with its annual Memorial day parade in Michigan avenue, a tribute to the living as well as the dead.

Beginning at 8 o'clock this morning veterans' organizations led by members of the Grand Army of the Republic will decorate the graves of their dead comrades with wreaths. Rifle salutes will be fired and taps sounded.

At 2 o'clock the parade will start at Chicago avenue and swing down Michigan avenue to Roosevelt road, past the thousands of spectators who every year line the boulevard. The weather will be favorable, according to the official forecast. Showers predicted for early morning are expected to be over by the time the parade starts and the afternoon will be cloudy and cool, the forecaster said.

Notables to Review Parade.

The parade will be reviewed by state and city notables from a stand in front of the Logan monument at 9th street. Among those in the stand will be Gov. and Mrs. Emmerson, Senator Lewis, Mayor Cermak, Lieut. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the 6th corps army area; Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, Brig. Gen. Frank S. Dickson, and Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, and other dignitaries.

The march will be led by Capt. William P. Wright, the successor to the late Brig. Gen. James E. Stuart, for many years grand marshal of the parade.

Five major divisions will participate in the parade, with veterans of the civil, Spanish-American, and World wars having leading rôles. Many of the G. A. R. veterans will ride in automobiles, but a number of them will march as they did in 1861, at least from Chicago avenue to the reviewing stand. Units of the Red Cross, cadet corps, American Legion auxiliaries, and foreign veterans will also take part in the procession, with their bands. More than 400 cadets from St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis., will act as escort to the colors.

Ceremony at Great Lakes.

At Great Lakes naval training station, colorful ceremonies have been planned for today to commemorate the men who died on land, on sea and in the sky. Forces of the station will be massed at 9 o'clock this morning against the flower bedecked background of the United States Naval hospital grounds, where the cemetery is situated. The Great Lakes band will be heard in a funeral march, and a salute will be fired by the marines.

Chaplain C. V. Ellis will offer a prayer at the cemetery, after which the graves will be decorated by navy nurses. The company assembled will then march to the boat basin, where a boat will be launched, carrying the chaplain and nurses. A service for those who went down at sea will be held and flowers strewn on the waters. Navy planes will fly aloft during the program both at the cemetery and at the boat basin, scattering flowers in memory of the heroes of the aviation forces.

Masses to Be Celebrated.

Military masses scheduled for this morning include that of the Boabdil caravan of the Order of Alhambra, at 9 o'clock in Mount Carmel cemetery; one at Sauganash Community center at 9:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Advertising Men's post of the Legion, with the Rev. W. J. Stephenson, C. F. V., a veteran of two wars, as celebrant; one at St. Thomas Aquinas' church, at Laramie avenue and Washington boulevard, at 10 o'clock, for James J. Brophy post of the Legion, the Rev. F. J. Ledwig, post chaplain, as celebrant, and one at 7:30 at St. Ethelreda's church, 88th and Paulina streets, in honor of the late John L. O'Donnel, chaplain of the 33d division and former pastor of St. Ethelreda's.

Theodore B. Sachs post of the Legion will have charge of the services at Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, which will include a parade at 10

OREGON DRY AGENTS IN GUISE OF MOVIE MEN DO A 'FADEOUT'

The Dalles, Ore., May 29.—[Special.]—Velasco Film Productions, which arrived here a week ago with the announced intention of filming an $80,000 thriller, "The Ghost of the Columbia," today did a quiet "fade-out" to the accompaniment of chuckles from local bootleggers.

The movie men were suspected of being prohibition agents in disguise when Will Hays, in answer to a local query, replied that there was no such company as "Velasco of Hollywood." Accordingly, when "Director" E. Fonsworth hired a large number of local men to remodel an old shack into the "The Last Chance Saloon," erected a director's platform and made other improvements at the company's "location," in Thompson's addition, the employés exercised great prudence. Some were paid $1 a day to grow whiskers for appearance as "extras" in the movie thriller.

When the movie men started making arrangements for the purchase of whisky, however, they found their employés entirely willing to accept the money, but not to deliver the goods. Director Fonsworth left town abruptly after that.

It was estimated "Velasco Productions" spent between $500 and $1,000 in The Dalles without nabbing even one "hip pocket" bootlegger.

DIVORCED BY 2D WIFE AS FIRST WAITS IN AUTO

While his first wife waited outside in his car, Edwin B. Keifer, son of a wealthy Highland Park contractor, was divorced yesterday by his second wife before Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Lake county. The brief divorce hearing was held at 7 p. m. in the judge's home in Marengo.

Keifer is a son of Benjamin P. Keifer, who owns a large estate near Antioch. Since May 18 he has been in jail in Waukegan for contempt of court for his failure to pay $500 temporary alimony to Mrs. Marie Keifer, his second wife.

The decree was granted on grounds of cruelty only, although Mrs. Keifer also charged infidelity in her bill and named Mrs. Norma Keifer, the first wife, as co-respondent. She charged that Keifer threatened to kill her unless she divorced him so he could remarry Norma. Under the terms of the decree Mrs. Keifer receives a $35,000 home in Highland Park in lieu of alimony and the custody of their three month old son. Attorney Lloyd Faxon represented the second wife.

Keifer was divorced by his first wife on grounds of drunkeness in 1927. He told Judge Shurtleff that they planned to remarry at once. Following the divorce hearing, Mrs. Marie Keifer was driven to the Antioch home of her ex-father-in-law. It was announced she and her child would make their permanent home with Edwin's parents.

Guinan, Held in French 'Ellis Island,' Rages

BULLETIN.

HAVRE, France, May 30.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—The Havre police announced today they had received instructions from Paris that Texas Guinan and her troupe would not be alloyed to enter or to work in France. The office of the French line said it had been ordered by the government to send the American night club hostess and her "gang" of thirty girls back to the United States. The party will embark for New York on the first boat, probably on the liner Paris next Wednesday.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVRE, France, May 29.—In a tiny barren room, sitting up in bed with ragged chunks of peasant bread, cheese, crumbs and orange peelings, leavings of her cheap evening meal, strewn over the coverlets, Texas Guinan, New York's queen of luxury, received THE TRIBUNE correspondent tonight.

TEXAS GUINAN.

She and her eighteen dancing cuties and other entertainers, totaling thirty-four are being detained in the Hotel Trans-Atlantique, France's Ellis island, to which they were escorted from the liner Paris by French police today pending a decision by the minister of the interior whether to overlook her failure to get a labor permit before leaving New York to appear in a Paris music hall. The authorities hold that she violated the French law forbidding foreigners to deprive natives of their livelihood.

Cuties Lodged Three in Room.

In neighboring rooms of the hostelry, which heretofore has harbored immigrants on their way to the United States, are the eighteen cuties, three in a room. Up to 11 o'clock tonight most of them lounged dejectedly in their thousand dollar fur coats on low wooden benches in the filthy hallways, talking it over, with here and there an irrepressible spirit injecting a good American wisecrack into the glum situation.

The best information from Paris is that the ministry of interior will refuse to allow Texas to enter, but she and her friends, notably Harry Pilcer, co-partner in ownership of the Florida club in Paris, where she plans to whoop it up, are confident they will be able to cut through the French red tape.

"Hell!" Says Texas.

"Hell!" Texas exclaimed from the depths of a red dressing gown, flicking ashes from her cigaret into a tobacco stained, sawdust filled porcelain spittoon at the head of her iron cotbed. "What have I done to be treated like this?

"I entertained at the front during the war on a permit signed by President Wilson. Why ain't I good enough to come here and sing now? I am a straight girl. I worked in New York for years and years. Didn't the prince of Wales come to my place once? Shakespeare said there's nothing in a name. That's a lot of hooey. My name's getting me into plenty of trouble."

Cop on Guard at Door.

"Things aren't so bad," the correspondent interposed.

"Yeah? Don't give me that," Texas countered viciously, her eyes flashing. "Look behind the window curtains and see the iron bars. Open the door and you'll find a French cop outside, watching to see that I don't get away."

The correspondent did both, verifying her statement.

On arriving at the barren building this afternoon under police escort, Texas went immediately to bed. Her kids—which the French press has been translating with dictionary correctness to mean young goats, assuming the latest in American night club stuff was a trained animal stunt—induced the French police guard to allow them to pass up the hotel meal and go down a dark, narrow, dubious street of Havre's tenderloin and eat dinner in a 10 franc restaurant. It was from there that they brought back the coarse bread, cheese and oranges for Texas.

Balloon Hero Visions 5-Hour Atlantic Hop

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OBER GURGL, Austrian Tyrol, May 29.—Prof. Auguste Piccard, the bespectacled, lean and lanky Swiss scientist, who on Wednesday penetrated the stratosphere almost ten miles up in a balloon with Charles Kipfer, his assistant, today fled into the forest to escape the hundreds beseeching him to reveal the details of his Jules Verne expedition into the sky.

Before marching off in the woods with Walter Mittelholzer, famous Swiss flyer, the professor revealed a few of the secrets hidden in his log books. Fabulous bids are being made by organizations from all parts of the world for possession of these books.

The log books he used are ordinary notebooks of the kind used by students in universities throughout Europe.

Finds Strength of Cosmic Rays.

"One of the most important sets of figures in them deal with the strength of cosmic rays," Prof. Piccard said. "I could not make use of all the instruments because we shot up into the air at a rate of more than 20 miles per hour. In 45 minutes we were 50,000 feet high and were traveling so fast it was impossible to carry out some special measurements for which Prof. Albert Einstein had asked me. Of the eighteen hours and thirteen minutes we spent in the air, sixteen hours were in the stratosphere. When we did try to carry out experiments for Einstein, we discovered that the gas release valve of the balloon was not working satisfactorily. This made it necessary to be particularly careful of our movements."

Thus, Prof. Piccard revealed the dramatic moment when he and his companion discovered that the valve, which was to help them get back to earth, would not work.

Still without fear, they carried on their scientific studies, inscribed figures in their notebooks, which, science believes, have brought man closer to the real mastery of the world.

Airmen Flock to Village.

Airmen from all parts of Europe are flocking to this village at the base of a mountain on which the balloon is resting. They are coming to hear Prof. Piccard declare that the stratosphere with "its relative stability of air currents and its rarefied air" promises greater speed for the aviators of the future.

"I am convinced that long distance flights in the fastest time are only possible when the machine rises as high as the stratosphere," he said when questioned as to the possibilities of regular trans-continental and trans-oceanic service. "But of course, the flyers must be hermetically sealed in a metal hull with a supply of oxygen like we were. I believe a trip from Europe to America could be made in five hours at a great height."

Asked if trans-Atlantic passengers could remain a long time in an air-tight cabin, Prof. Riccard replied:

"I just proved it was possible, didn't I?"

Kipfer today led eighteen Tyrolean Alpine soldiers to the balloon which was brought to rest on a glacier. The gas bag was stowed away, but the gondola was left where it had landed. The instruments were removed to a vault in Ober Gurgl's only hotel. Prof. Piccard and his companion intend to stay here until Sunday. The professor, before his precipitate departure into the forest, said he intends to make a second flight into the stratosphere this year.

Rushes Stratospheric Plane.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—Spurred on by the revelations of Prof. Auguste Piccard as to the possibilities of aviation in the stratosphere, Prof. Hugo Junkers, German airplane builder, today issued orders to speed up the work of a specially designed all metal airplane with which it is intended to invade the higher air regions. Engineer Asmus Hansen has been working on a stratospheric plane for over a year.

Prof. Junkers intends to place the motor, the pilot controls and passenger seats in a hermetically sealed cabin. He believes that this plane will be ready for flights sooner than the rocket planes, which are being built at several of Germany's experimental fields.

RUNS HOSE FROM EXHAUST INTO CAR; ENDS LIFE

Attaching a garden hose to the exhaust of his automobile and running the other end into his closed sedan some time last night, Rudolph Armer, 50 years old, 5529 Everett avenue, ended his life. His body was found early this morning by the South Chicago police when they investigated an automobile with the engine running they saw at the curb on Ridgeland avenue, between 87th and 88th streets.

All the windows of the car except the one through which the hose entered were tightly closed. Newspaper had been stuffed in the narrow opening of the window, through which the hose was pulled into the car. A note gave a telephone number and advised that Armer's family be notified.

JURORS DECIDE POLICE KILLER'S FATE IN 2 HOURS

Gunman Smiles at Quick Verdict.

Frank Jordan, bank robber, was found guilty of the murder of Policeman Anthony Ruthy late yesterday afternoon by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge John Prystalski. The jury imposed the death penalty. The crime, committed at Randolph street and Michigan avenue, occurred just a month ago. The victim, one of two policemen slain by Jordan, was an old time traffic officer.

The verdict was returned at 4:44 o'clock. The jury had retired for deliberation at 2:45. On the first ballot the jurors found Jordan guilty. On the second ballot three jurors were in favor of life imprisonment, while the others demanded death. All agreed on the death penalty on the third ballot. It was one of the speediest murder verdicts in the history of Cook county.

Smiles at Death Verdict.

Jordan received the verdict with a smile. He was led into the courtroom by four bailiffs, who have guarded him during the four days of the trial and the week consumed in the selection of the jury. As he entered the courtroom he looked at his handcuffs, then at his attorneys, and smiled.

During the reading of the verdict Jordan sat calmly in his chair. As the clerk concluded with "we fix the penalty as death in the electric chair" Jordan smiled. His attorneys, Daniel Wolf, Michael Brodkin, and George Bieder, demanded a poll of the jury. As each juror rose to affirm the verdict Jordan shifted nervously, swinging his feet against the chair.

As Jordan passed the jury box in being led out of the courtroom he muttered, "You dirty rats!" He cursed photographers who aimed their cameras at him. His attorneys made a motion for a new trial, which was set for June 5.

The closing arguments were begun yesterday morning by Assistant State's Attorney Nat S. Ruvell, who demanded the death penalty. After this argument the defense, in a surprise move, waived its closing argument, barring Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne from making the final closing plea for the state.

Gives Jurors Instructions.

Judge Prystalski read the instructions to the jurors, telling them that they could, if they found the defendant guilty, decide on the death penalty, life imprisonment, or imprisonment for 14 years or more. The judge also read a manslaughter verdict in the instructions, the penalty for which is one to fourteen years' imprisonment. The prisoner remained calm during the reading of the instructions and awaited the verdict without any show of impatience.

Story of the Shooting.

Jordan shot Policeman Ruthy at Michigan avenue and Randolph street April 30 as Ruthy and Policeman Patrick Durkin tried to arrest him. Jordan was wanted on a warrant charging him with a bank robbery in Neponset, Ill. Private detectives had trailed him to 158 North Michigan avenue, where he was to keep an appointment with a Miss Mildred Jackson. Jordan's wife waited in his automobile near the corner.

As Jordan purchased a newspaper at the corner of Randolph and Michigan the detectives asked Policemen Ruthy and Durkin to make the arrest. Ruthy threw his arms about Jordan. The latter drew a revolver and fired at Ruthy and Durkin, who was behind his fellow policeman. Jordan then fled through the crowd of homeward bound workers, firing as he ran. He was tackled at Washington street and Wabash avenue by a clerk who had joined in the chase. He confessed the crime that night to Mayor Cermak. Policeman Durkin died three days later.

Offers Freak Defense.

Jordan offered what his attorneys said was a freak defense. He said he fired because he was carrying $900, which police said he obtained in a bank robbery, because he thought he was being held up. He also declared he shot in self-defense because some one first fired at him.

Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne had been prepared to put Jordan on trial immediately for the murder of Policeman Durkin if the jury had failed to fix the death penalty for the killing of Ruthy.

TWO GUN CROWLEY GUILTY

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Francis ["Two Gun"] Crowley, the rat faced little desperado who shot Patrolman Frederick Hirsch to death when officers surprised him in a "petting seance" with a girl on a lonely road near Roosevelt, L. I., must pay for his crime in the electric chair unless fate intervenes in his behalf.

A jury in the County court at Mineola this afternoon found the 19 year old youth guilty of murder in the first degree and he was remanded to his cell for sentence next Monday. The jury was out less than thirty minutes.

As he was led from the courtroom after the verdict Crowley made a final desperate bid of snatching at the pistol in the holster of Deputy Sheriff Frank Davis, to whom he was handcuffed. Four other officers pounced on the young thug and he went down under a blow from a policeman's fist. Crowley scrambled to his feet, still full of fight, and received a severe beating before he was finally subdued.

FRANCIS CROWLEY.

The state closed its case in the whirlwind trial with the testimony of an alienist who pronounced Crowley a "moral imbecile" although "legally sane." The expert, Dr. Richard H. Hoffman, specialist in mental diseases, defined a moral imbecile as "one who from an early age exhibits some form of mental defect, accompanied by inclinations to evil conduct, upon whom punishment has no effect." Dr. Hoffman said his studies of the young thug had convinced him that the defendant was of a type that is plainly a menace to society.

Dr. Albert C. Mathews, another alienist placed Crowley in the "borderline" classification. New York state hospitals recognize the classifications as borderline, moron, imbecile and idiot.

Tells of His Crimes.

Crowley resumed the stand when court opened today, and told in detail of his brief but hectic career of crime. The list included two shooting affrays, hold ups, automobile thefts, and crap game robberies. Cross-questioned about his accomplices and companions and about "tips" for "jobs" that he received, he flatly declined to answer. It is his boast that he is "not a squealer." District Attorney Alvin N. Edwards did not press him.

Since his capture on May 7, after a machine gun and tear gas battle, with police in his former girl friend's 19th street apartment, just off Riverside drive, Crowley has lost most of his bravado, which won for him from his youthful and impressionable friends, at least, the appellation of "Two Gun."

MYERS PROPOSES TO PAY TEACHERS IN CERTIFICATES

Payment of the school teachers in salary certificates, which may be used as collateral for loans or possibly cashed by merchants, was suggested yesterday in a plan drawn up by Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board, and Joseph Savage, member of the board. The plan was admittedly an emergency measure and other trustees were doubtful of its value, although Myers and Savage said they were confident it would be adopted.

The school board will owe the teachers and the civil service employes $5,175,000 by next Monday, it was pointed out. The $3,775,000 pay roll of the regular teachers fell due yesterday with no prospect of any money to meet the rolls.

President Myers and Savage plan to form a trust fund with a trust company as holder and tax warrants on the school board as the principal of the fund. The trust company will issue certificates to the teachers in the amount of their salaries and it will then be up to the employes to find some way of cashing them.

The plan will be submitted to members of the board at a meeting of the finance committee next Wednesday.

NEW SUIT FILED IN DOG TRACKS' FIGHT TO OPEN

Another suit to recover money wagered and lost on horse races was filed in the Superior court yesterday by Attorney Edward H. Morris, counsel for promoters of the Thornton and Cicero dog racing enterprises, naming the Washington Park Jockey club as defendant. The suit seeks to recover $10,000 lost on the horses at Washington Park last year by Norman Redler, 1481 North Shore avenue.

Attorney Morris, who last Wednesday filed a suit in Circuit court to recover $30,000 that had been wagered and lost on the horse races at Hawthorne race track, said his latest suit was the second step in the dog race promoters' movement to force the operators of the horse tracks to support the campaign to legalize dog racing.

Canadian Girl Convinced Chicago Is an Honest City

RAIDERS SEIZE BOOKS OF MOVIE OPERATORS UNION

Racket Bureau Acts on Complaints.

A truckload of records of the Moving Picture Operators' union was seized by detectives from the state's attorney's racket bureau in a raid upon the union offices at 506 South Wabash avenue yesterday. Sergt. Michael Ahern made the raid under orders of Prosecutor Charles E. Lounsbury, who said he had received complaints that officials of the union were putting nonunion men into jobs and collecting 10 per cent of their salaries, which range from $100 to $175 a week.

SERGT. MICHAEL AHERN.

In the absence of Thomas E. Maloy, head of the union, who is in Washington, D. C., attending a meeting of the American Federation of Labor, Ralph O'Hara, his assistant, denied the charges.

Exhibitors Make Complaints.

O'Hara said every regular union operator now has a job in Chicago. Other complaints to the state's attorney's office have been made by independent exhibitors, who claim that the union is ruining them by insisting on putting two operators into each theater.

Judge Harry M. Fisher, on petition of the union officials, issued an order impounding the records until Monday morning, when there will be a hearing. The state's attorney's office will be asked to give reasons why it should not return the records.

O'Hara said he talked by long distance telephone to Maloy, who declared that the state's attorney's officials could have access to the union records whenever they wished. The union opposed taking the records out of the office, it was announced, because after a similar raid two years ago only half the records were returned.

Prosecutor Plans Indictments.

Prosecutor Lounsbury said he was planning to ask indictments against union officials charging them with conspiracy to restrain trade. More than 150 owners of moving picture theaters have complained that they are being forced into bankruptcy by the union's demands that they employ two operators where only one is needed, the prosecutor declared.

"The union claims that two operators are necessary to diminish the fire hazard, but the owners deny this," Prosecutor Lounsbury said. "In the early days of sound films two operators were needed to synchronize the film with the sound records, but this is no longer necessary."

"INTENT" TO RULE GRAPE INDUSTRY DRY LAW STATUS

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—[Special.]—California's grape industry will not be interfered with by the enforcement division of the prohibition department so long as "no intent" is shown to violate the dry laws, it was stated here today by Col. Amos W. Woodcock, commissioner of prohibition for southern California. Col. Woodcock arrived today from Honolulu, where he conducted an inquiry into the prohibition situation.

Col. Woodcock stated that so far no information had reached him that the California grape growers were supposed to be contributing to violations of the national prohibition act. He said the California dry forces would be increased, and that one-third more men than at present would function from this and San Francisco headquarters.

LINDY'S WIFE NOW A PILOT; PASSES AIR TEST

Hicksville, L. I., May 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, who was taught to fly here at the Long Island Aviation Country club by her husband, received her private pilot's license yesterday, after having successfully passed her flight examination.

Mrs. Lindbergh was required to make four landings, spirals from a height of 2,000 feet, and several figure eights.

SEARCY WANTS TAX EATING JOBS TO GET THE AX

Cites Farm Institute as Good Target.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—A proficient axman could lop a million dollars' worth of superfluous jobs off the state budget without half trying, in the opinion of Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield], who launched an onslaught tonight on overstuffed pay rolls.

He held that too many taxeaters is one reason for too heavy taxes. He charges that the assembly is now engaged in the good old pastime of passing the buck to the governor by putting through too many appropriations, leaving it to the governor to trim them with vetoes.

Senator Searcy's exordium that revenue reform be directed against taxeaters instead of taxpayers was a sequel to an attack he made yesterday upon the Illinois Farmers' institute, which he charged with developing into a propaganda mill against prohibition repeal.

State Pays the Bills.

He declared that the institute, which was established to encourage useful knowledge among farmers and help develop agricultural resources, has become a "peddler of panaceas and a booking agency for theorists" and is trying to run the universe, the legislature included, while the state pays the bills.

The Searcy attack led to a week's postponement of senate committee action on the "little omnibus" bill, which contains an item of $73,060 for the institute.

What precipitated the Searcy outburst was the action of the institute in its February meeting at Decatur. Searcy says it urged defeat of the prohibition repealer and advocated laws for state income tax and to stop the use of women's pictures in cigaret advertising on sign boards. The resolutions were sent out at state expense.

Senator Harry Wilson of Pinckneyville was elected president of the institute and he is said to have chopped the wet and dry plank out of the printed resolutions on the ground that the institute was getting outside its field.

Makeup of Institute.

The institute is composed of three delegates from each county, elected by the county farmers' institutes. The board of directors consists of the superintendent of public instruction, the dean of agriculture, University of Illinois; the state director of agriculture, the presidents of the state horticultural society and the state dairymen's association, and one member from each congressional district.

"In questioning the activities of the Illinois Farmers' institute," said Senator Searcy, "my thought was to help see that state departments, feeding at the public trough provided by taxpayers, should do the work they are created to do, without trying to shape the destinies of the universe."

"At its Decatur meeting the institute adopted resolutions which were printed and distributed at state expense. These urged the legislature to vote against repeal of the search and seizure act, urged an income tax, and condemned women's pictures in cigaret advertising.

Going Outside Province.

"The institute was created by the state to deal exclusively with farm problems. The institute is now to a large extent a booking agency for speakers, and these speakers do not hesitate to lambaste the legislature and to urge that the assembly ignore the public will. Senator Wilson, its new president, is against any performance of the institute which does not jibe with the purposes for which it was set up. But what will Senator Wilson's successor do?

"There is too much of pyramiding of jobs, bureaus and departments as matters stand. Taxpayers are groaning under a governmental load in Illinois that has all but ruined them. There are too many taxeaters. This government must subsist, but if the 'racket' isn't taken out of it soon a crisis is inevitable.

"Some day a meat ax is going to be used in Illinois, and taxpayers will get their first relief in many years. Then taxes will come down.

"The pending budget, projecting 1931-'33 state expenditures, probably could have two millions of dollars taken from it without impairing a single state department. But, it looks as if the legislature will, as usual, hand the governor the job of trimming, trusting entirely to his veto pen."

DEBTOR NATIONS MUST PAY, SAYS U. S. TREASURER

Maj. W. O. Woods, treasurer of the United States, explained the financial operations of the government to members of the Executives' club at the Sherman hotel yesterday, and declared that public sentiment in America would not permit reconsideration of the foreign debt settlement agreement.

W. O. WOODS. [Associated Press Photo.]

"The American people," he said, "will never agree to terms other than those fairly agreed upon. The debtor nations cannot repudiate, for their credit would be ruined, their securities would be discredited if not even denied a market in America, the only market where it is possible to procure imperatively needed funds, and their exchange rates would fall so ruinously that their credit would be injured more than the amount they would pay by meeting their present contract."

DIES IN HOTEL ROOM.

George W. Brewer, 48 years old, a shoe salesman, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday in his room at the Halwood hotel, 740 Englewood avenue.

tifiable admiration that may serve as an antidote to some of the current portraits under which I suffer. Yet I would not criticise that phase of the gift; otherwise it would seem something like the old term about the 'gift horse.'

"I have felt all evening that the club represents more than a comradeship. It is the sanctuary of a great tradition—the tradition of the preservation of our union, and the preservation of the tradition of loyalty to our government.

Steadfast in Peril.

"All those years the club has stood steadfast in times of public stress, with a confidence in the ultimate growth and security that distinguishes all thinking men.

"After two years of fever and tumult in Washington, I assure you this is a gratifying occasion. In these quiet halls there is restfulness and feeling of security—an inspiration of faith in one's country."

Pinchot There, Too.

And there was also Gov. Gifford Pinchot, not at all embarrassed to have only Mayor Harry A. Mackey as probably his only Progressive cohort at the banquet. And incidentally there was a lone Democrat, George Norris, federal reserve governor for this district.

Ostensibly merely an expedition to make a Memorial day address at Valley Forge tomorrow, the President's trip is being eyed through political as well as patriotic spectacles. It is an invasion of Pinchot land, where every one is watching to see what the governor will do about the reapportionment bill which the legislature passed yesterday. The stake, of course, is the Pennsylvania delegation which will go to next summer's convention 72 strong.

Gov. Pinchot, it is said, was asked to introduce Mr. Hoover at tomorrow's exercises; he declined. He was offered the job of introducing Vice President Curtis, who speaks tomorrow at Gettysburg; he declined.

AMERICAN TELLS BRITAIN U. S. IS IN CHASTENED MOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—The Pilgrims society today greeted three Americans at the conclusion of their two weeks' stay in London to gain a "true perspective of the British empire" and to aid in distributing $500,000 which was left annually to Canada and the British colonies by the Carnegie trust. The Americans were Frederick Paul Keppell, president of the Carnegie corporation; Henry Suzallo, president of the Carnegie Foundation, and Henry James, a trustee of the same corporation.

The earl of Derby, who is active in the British branch of the English Speaking union and who presided at the meeting, read a cable from Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the United States Local union, extending salutations for the Pilgrims' greetings. The earl pleaded for a closer association of all peoples, and he praised the trust which had been conferred on the English speaking peoples in the building up of an international brotherhood.

"America is in a chastened mood," Prof. Keppell said. "You will find us not so willing to preach efficiency and tell others how to run their affairs. So far as we have been able to discover during the last year our system is not better than any others."

Road 40 Feet Wide

Bids were opened by the state highway department in Springfield yesterday for a $1,250,000 project to extend Mannheim road southward across the Des Plaines river valley with its I. & M. canal and two sets of railroad tracks, connecting with 96th avenue and 79th street.

A forty foot roadway will be carried by a viaduct 2,700 feet long over the Santa Fe railroad; a bridge at normal level will cross the canal, and a subway will carry the pavement under the Chicago and Alton railroad.

There will be a grade separation at Archer and another grade separation at Mannheim road and Joliet road, probably will be built next year.

The Duffin Iron company of Chicago was low bidder at $351,347, on the superstructure of the Des Plaines river bridge and the railroad viaduct while E. J. Albrecht of Chicago, at $91,734, was low bidder on the superstructure. The Acme Engineering and Construction company of Chicago submitted the low bid of $9,732 for the substructure of the canal bridge, and also was low with a bid of $10,799 on the superstructure contract.

COUNTY MAYORS BAND TOGETHER FOR MUTUAL AID

Mayors and representatives of civic organizations in Cook county towns and villages outside of Chicago yesterday organized to improve the taxing system and attack joint problems. Mayor George B. Gold of Forest Park who called the meeting in the Morrison hotel, was elected permanent chairman.

Representatives charged the assessment of property in the country towns is out of proportion with the value of property. They moved to fight bills pending before the legislature, to unify the taxing system in the county and abolish the township assessors.

Mayor Gold suggested that the penalty date, now passed on 1929 taxes be extended to July 1, and that taxpayers be allowed to meet the obligation in quarterly installments. He also urged a reassessment of personal property to relieve the burden on real estate, and the summoning of a constitutional convention to draft sound principles of collecting revenue, to relieve small taxpayers.

Joseph A. Muir of Cicero declared the summoning of a constitutional convention to be a sound effort at reform, but declared that during the delay harm might be worked on the towns. He urged a united fight against the bills at Springfield.

AIR ALDERMEN'S PLEA TO ENFORCE PERSONALTY TAX

Would Hit Savings in Bank, if Obeyed.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Next Monday morning at 11 o'clock the board of assessors will listen to the demand of the city counsel committees on efficiency and legislation to "enforce the personal property tax laws." These committees unanimously decided to make that demand at their joint session last Thursday.

JOHN CONROY.

"Would enforcement of those laws mean a tax on all savings deposits?" John E. Conroy of the board of assessors was asked yesterday.

"Yes," he replied.

Total Savings $672,983,000.

On March 27, 1930, immediately preceding the assessment date on which the assessing bodies are now working, there was $84,749,000 in savings in the Chicago national banks and $588,189,000 in the state banks—a total of $672,983,000.

"Will you start assessing savings deposits if the aldermen request it?" was next asked Conroy.

"I'll not assess the poor people and let the rich escape," replied Conroy. "I'll not assess the savings deposits before there is an assessment on the contents of the safety deposit boxes where the wealthy have their bonds, stocks and other securities."

Not Possible to Assess.

"Is it possible to assess savings deposits?"

"No, that is silly," said Conroy. "Savings deposits earn three per cent, while the tax rate is from $6.15 to $6.29 on the 1929 taxes and will be higher on the 1930 taxes. How is it possible to tax a $100 savings $6.29 a year when it only earns $3? What court would approve of that? The constitution prohibits confiscation."

At the peak of 1929, Chicago savings deposits ran up to $693,303,000. At the last bank call in March, the savings were $661,611,000—a decrease of $31,692,000. This decrease almost equals the total savings in Chicago banks in 1898, when the present board of assessors and board of review were created because of the alleged fixing of taxes under the previous system.

At that time the savings deposits totaled $33,393,521 and no attempt has been made in Chicago in the intervening 33 years to "enforce the personal property tax laws" relating to savings deposits.

How Aldermen Acted.

The aldermanic demand was in the form of a motion adopted by the joint committee session. It was not written out. One argument for it was that it would show the state legislature that the aldermen are "on the square" when they descend upon Springfield next week asking enabling legislation which will permit the city to issue bonds in lieu of the 1930 taxes, which are expected to total $250,000,000 in Chicago.

Of Cook county's 1928 and 1929 tax bills, $171,000,000 remains unpaid and the local governments are hard pressed for cash with which to meet pay rolls. They have been unable to borrow money on 1931 tax anticipation warrants.

"The first step towards reestablishing credit," in the opinion of the mayor's advisory committee, is to pass through the legislature a modified house bill No. 28. Mayor Cermak has indorsed this bill on recommendation of his advisors.

Discuss Amended Bill.

Corporation Counsel Busch discussed the details of the amended bill No. 28 yesterday afternoon with Harris Keeler of the bureau of public efficiency, Hayden Bell, county attorney, and other tax experts.

The joint session of the council committees on efficiency and legislation did not mention that bill. The county board discussed the bill at two sessions, but sidestepped an expression either for or against it. The Democratic county central committee called a special meeting to consider it, and then no one even made a motion to indorse it.

Strawn Doubtful on Bonds.

"They can talk all they like about issuing bonds," said Silas H. Strawn yesterday, "but I do not see how they can ever sell the bonds until they first correct the defects in the local assessing machinery. There is plenty of time yet for the legislature to pass this first needed reform; and the citizens have done all they could by pointing out the urgent need of it."

Several of the local governments have had to issue tax anticipation warrants to get money with which to pay off bonds and interest. A bond issue such as the aldermen recommend will total an estimated $250,000,000. At 4 per cent the annual interest will run from $10,000,000 down to $500,000 the last year, or an average interest charge of $5,250,000 annually.

GETS CONTINUANCE

Mrs. Betty Dixon, 30 years old, of 158 North Central avenue, obtained a second continuance yesterday when she appeared before Judge Leon Edelman in the Town Hall court on charges of reckless driving and disorderly conduct. At the same time she dismayed photographers by wearing dark glasses and holding a large handkerchief over her mouth as she stood at the bar.

Her case was continued to June 10 because of the absence of her attorney. The case was first postponed last Monday. Mrs. Dixon, wife of a salesman, was arrested by Lincoln Park Policeman Frank Lewis. He charged that after he stopped her once she sped away and was caught again only after a 70 mile an hour chase.

4 SLAIN, 50 HURT AS GERMAN REDS BATTLE FASCISTI

Communists Ambush Foe from Dark Alley.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—Four persons are dead, four are dying and more than fifty others are wounded as a result of a day of violence in Germany today.

The greatest disorder occurred in Hagen, where a three hour street battle was fought between communists and Fascists. The riot began when a company of Fascisti, marching through the streets, was attacked by a mob of Reds. Three persons were killed and forty-two injured. The length of the battle and the strategy displayed by the Reds convinced the police that the attack had been systematically organized.

Steel Helmets Ambushed.

In Berlin one steel helmet follower was killed and eight persons, including a policeman, were wounded when a detachment of steel helmeters in uniform, while marching to the railroad station to entrain for the twelfth anniversary celebrations at Breslau, was ambushed by communists from an alley. After pouring a volley of shots into the ranks of the Fascists the Reds attacked with knives, clubs, and guns. Police reinforcements were called. The Reds fired on them and fled.

A second procession of Fascists was ambushed in Senefelder platz. Two policemen were wounded in this skirmish.

At Koenigsberg Fascist Deputy Krause was seriously injured when a rock which had been aimed at a group of policemen by his own followers struck him in the head. The Fascists were returning from a funeral of one of their comrades who had been killed by a Red. Passers-by complained that the Fascisti had threatened them. The policemen were trying to soothe the Fascisti by negotiating with their leaders when they were suddenly attacked with volleys of stones. Several policemen were injured.

Fear Riots Over Week-end.

Further serious trouble is feared over the week-end, when the Fascists hold their three day celebration at Breslau. About 150,000 Nationalists are expected to attend the ceremonies. They are pouring into Breslau from all parts of Germany, on foot, in motor trucks and in trains. They are quartered not only in Breslau but also in nearby towns, including Oels, the home village of the former crown prince. The strongly communistic population in the nearby mining district is in a rage and threatening to attempt to break up the celebrations.

Berlin had its first big food raid today when hungry jobless youths banded together and, mounted on bicycles, swooped down on several food shops in the working district. They made off with big packages of meat. The police are worried, fearing this is the forerunner of serious food riots.

Overcome by Fumes, Falls to Death in Gasoline Tank

Morris M. Hanna 31 years old, 4617 Dover street, a mechanic, died last night when he was overcome by gasoline fumes and fell into a 40 gallon open tank of gasoline on a speed boat harbored in Simmons' boat yard on the Chicago river near Irving Park boulevard. Hanna had been working on the boat's engine. Albany Park police found that his head and shoulders had been immersed in the fuel.

U.S. ENDS BUYING OF WHEAT; LOSS IS $90,000,000

Holdings Now Total 200,000,000 Bu.

BY PAUL POTTER.

With the close of the day's trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, the federally financed purchases of wheat that started the government's stabilizing activities toward farm relief in February, 1930, came to an end.

JAMES C. STONE. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Now in actual possession of over 200,000,000 bushels of grain, the farm board's Grain Stabilization corporation officials yesterday were reckoning on the loss entailed thus far.

Loss Totals $90,000,000.

At the closing price of July deliveries it was estimated by grain statisticians here the deficit would approximate $90,000,000 and that monthly carrying charges of $4,000,000 would be added until disposition can be made of the largest holdings any governmental agency has ever had in wheat during peace times.

According to grain traders, the stabilization corporation had a chance this week to effect a "corner" and send prices skyrocketing when traders who had sold short needed grain to fill their May contracts. However, no such move was made by the stabilization officials, and final sales yesterday were few and orderly in grain exchanges throughout the nation.

Holdings Cause Concern.

Efforts were made this week by officials of grain exchanges and by farm leaders to exact a commitment from James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, on whether the government wheat holdings would be sold in competition with the new crop, or held for a year. No promise was forthcoming. Audiences with President Hoover urging that some declaration of policy be made were likewise fruitless.

"In the face of the largest carryover of wheat in American history, the sixth year of mounting surplus, selling of the stabilization stocks now would be disastrous to farmers and banks, as well as to the administration's farm relief program," said an authorized statement issued by a group of Chicago grain merchants who met yesterday in the Board of Trade building to discuss the situation.

Yesterday was the last day of trading in the 1930 crop. The federal farm board announced in Washington two months ago that its purchases of wheat would cease with this crop.

Milnor Tells Results.

George S. Milnor, head of the stabilization corporation, issued a statement yesterday calling attention to the fact that quotations on May wheat closed at 83¼ cents a bushel, higher than the 81 cents at which the corporation had "stabilized" the crop. Present holdings of the corporation, he said, could be marketed "in an orderly manner at satisfactory prices" if there is a marked acreage reduction in winter wheat next fall.

"Since last November the price of No. 2 hard cash wheat has advanced in Chicago from 76 to 84 cents a bushel," he declared. "These prices, in turn, have been reflected throughout the entire country, with the result that farmers and others have been able to liquidate their wheat holdings at an average price of from 20 to 30 cents a bushel above world level prices.

"During the summer and fall banks throughout the entire country had made many loans based on the then prevailing prices of wheat, and maintenance of minimum prices during the winter and spring have permitted the orderly liquidation of such loans. The debt paying and purchasing powers of producers have thus been tremendously increased."

COOL AND CLOUDY FORECAST AFTER BREAK IN HEAT

Rather cool temperatures, cloudy skies and early morning showers were predicted for today by the government weather bureau last night. Tomorrow will be fair with moderate temperature.

Indications were that Memorial day outings over the week-end would not be affected seriously by inclement weather. Yesterday's heavy downpour cleared the air, it is believed, of any immediately subsequent weather threats. The rain lowered the mercury from 74 to 66 degrees within an hour.

One fatality was attributed by police to the heat of Thursday. The victim, John Wierzba, 45 years old, 1634 Augusta street, a peddler, collapsed when overcome, and died yesterday of skull injuries resulting from his fall.

WINDOW THIEF IS CAPTURED IN LOOP PURSUIT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Tony Cassack, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Philip Hart, colored, 37 years old, 5718 Langley avenue, who smashed a window in the I. C. Newman jewelry store at 133 North Clark street and seized two diamond rings valued at $800, was captured after a brief chase by Deputy Sheriff Harry Speaber yesterday. Hart smashed the window with a brick wrapped in paper and reached into the opening with his other hand to take the rings. Speaber, who was seated in a squad car in front of the county building, gave chase and captured Hart at Clark and Washington streets.

STRATOSPHERE? MAJ. SCHROEDER KNOWS IT WELL

It's Where He Froze His Eyeballs.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, early bird and aeronautical authority who eleven years ago soared in an airplane to the then undreamed of height of 38,180 feet above the earth, yesterday questioned European reports that the Swiss balloonists, Prof. Auguste Piccard and Charles Kipfer, had reached an altitude of 52,500 feet in their expedition into the upper regions.

In his record breaking altitude flight in 1920 Schroeder himself rose beyond the earth's atmosphere and was pushing up into the stratosphere when his eyeballs froze. As his plane hurtled earthward out of control he revived. Dazed and able only to distinguish light from dark, he miraculously brought his plane to a safe landing.

Must Await Correction.

"My altimeter reading showed that I had reached 45,000 feet and I thought I had really been some place," said Schroeder yesterday. "But when the instrument was calibrated and tested under temperatures which existed at the high altitudes it developed that I had only got as far as 38,180 feet."

"That same instrumental error may have misled Piccard and Kipfer into the belief that they had reached ten miles above the earth's surface. While I hope that I'm wrong in the assumption of error, their actual record cannot be established until their instruments have been calibrated.

"First readings of altimeters are always erroneous and especially is this true of high altitude flights. An altimeter is an atmospheric pressure gauge which usually shows correct altitudes when the temperature is around 60 degrees above zero. If the Swiss balloonists got as high as they thought they reached temperatures ranging about 70 degrees below zero. Corrections are also necessary for variations in readings in extremely rare atmosphere.

"Unless these errors have been accounted for final calibration of their instruments may bring their actual altitude down as low as 42,500 feet."

Maj. Schroeder explained that the stratosphere is the area of comparative calm and comparatively constant temperature, above the turmoil of the atmosphere with its winds.

"What's beyond the stratosphere?" the flyer was asked.

PERFUME FAILS TO HALT SLEUTHS; THEY FIND STILL

An ingenious apparatus which sprayed perfume about a greenhouse in which a large still was located failed to fool Du Page county sleuths yesterday. As a result four men were in custody and the largest still ever found in the county was uncovered. The still was of a modern type, with a capacity of from 500 to 700 gallons of alcohol a day. Thirty-five thousand gallons of mash was seized.

Farmers near Bensenville noticed last week a queer looking fluid flowing through their ditches. Allan Meyers, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, traced the fluid two miles to a drain pipe entering a ditch. He traced the pipe half a mile to the greenhouse owned by John Otte just outside Bensenville. In the greenhouse he found the still, with three men at work. They were arrested and gave the names of Arthur Wright, Tony Oror, and John Mayer.

Otte also was arrested. He said he rented his greenhouse some weeks ago to a man from Chicago, who said he intended manufacturing an insecticide. All four men were held on $3,000 bonds.

Examination of the greenhouse showed that most of the odors from the cooking mash were carried off through the high smokestack of the greenhouse. To be even more certain, the attendants had rigged up an apparatus which sprayed perfume about the greenhouse at certain intervals of the day and night.

CLARA BOW MAY QUIT PICTURES, FILM HEAD SAYS

Denver, Colo., May 29.—(AP)—B. P. Schulberg, managing director of production of Paramount pictures, says Clara Bow, film actress, wants to quit the movies and it is probable she will never make another picture.

"Miss Bow," he announced here tonight, "has told us she wants to quit making pictures, and we are now debating whether to release her from her contract," Schulberg said.

CHICAGO TO PAY HOMAGE TODAY TO HEROIC DEAD

o'clock and a commemorative service at 1:30. Thomas J. Bowler and Col. Alfred Wieck, commander of the Ninth district, American Legion, will speak.

Rear Admiral W. A. Crosley, commandant at Great Lakes, will be the speaker at a service at Navy pier sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, with Sea Scouts coöperating. A wreath will be dropped into the waters of Lake Michigan in memory of those who died at sea. Similar services will be held at the Jackson park coast guard station, and on the decks of the Sea Scout schooner Idler, at the foot of Randolph street.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom will be the main speaker at 10 o'clock this morning in Oakwoods cemetery, where services will be held by the Square post of the Legion.

Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder announced yesterday that the Chicago postoffice and all its branches will be closed today, with no deliveries to be made by carriers. All day service will be maintained at the special delivery and general delivery windows of the main postoffice.

LEGION CHIEF SPEAKS

Before the members of the Hamilton club in their annual Memorial luncheon yesterday Ralph T. O'Neil of Topeka, Kan., national commander of the American Legion, went back to the sentiments of Lincoln at Gettysburg to plead for a fitting observance of the anniversary. "That these honored dead shall not have died in vain," was Mr. O'Neil's message.

"Patriotism in time of war is a practical and destructive thing," he said. "Patriotism in time of peace is a practical and constructive thing. Out of the wreckage of the last war was born a determination to do what we could to do away with conditions that brought on war, and to see that the sacrifices of the world war should not have been made in vain."

Urges Adequate Defense.

Adequate national defense as a means of preventing war, and gradual education of the world to a better understanding and the development of the right spirit of international friendship were the two major points stressed by Commander O'Neil in his noonday talk.

Last night, as the principal guest at the 100th meeting and dinner of the Marshall Field post of the Legion, he discussed prospective and pending legislation affecting veterans and their families. Important phases of the Legion program should include the introduction in the next congress of bills to relieve the distress of dependent children of hospitalized veterans, and widows and orphans of former service men, he said.

Assertions that the bonus loans are responsible for the impending national deficit were characterized as unfair and misleading by the commander.

"The press relates, and a survey by the Legion discloses," Commander O'Neil said, "that the money has gone to pay doctors' bills, rent long overdue, to buy clothing and food for children and sick wives, and particularly to purchase seed for spring crops."

Reverence was paid yesterday to the memory of city employés who lost their lives during the world war, in exercises conducted in the lobby of the city hall.

M. S. Szymczak, city controller, and Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, were the principal speakers. A wreath was hung in the center of the lobby, and the services were held about a tablet inscribed with the names of the heroes.

Bulletins calling attention to the number of Memorial day accidents in the past and requesting the public to drive carefully during the week-end holiday were issued by the Chicago safety council and the national safety council.

POPPY SALES NET $67,140 TOTAL FOR VETERANS' GROUPS

A final audit of the receipts for the sale of poppies last week showed the total to be $67,140, according to a report made yesterday by R. P. O'Reilly, treasurer of the Veterans' Poppy Day association. Although this is about 20 per cent less than the proceeds of the poppy day last year, the sale was regarded as a success by the veterans, O'Reilly said.

"For one thing, we sold even more poppies than on the same day last year," he said. "The good will was there, even though the average amount of the donations was less. But in view of the economic condition of the country and the fact that other charities had led us to believe the deficit would be greater, we are well satisfied and wish to express our appreciation to the public and to the army of taggers."

The Veterans Poppy Day association comprises the G. A. R., Spanish-American war veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and American Legion, coöperating in order to have only one day of poppy sales each year.

BUSCH REPORTS $120,000 SAVING IN CITY LAW OFFICE

Corporation Counsel Busch announced yesterday that he has completed the organization of the city's law department with the exception of four appointments. By eliminating 48 positions that were filled under the last administration he said the department would save $120,000 annually.

Only eight attorneys have been retained on special cases. They are Walter L. Fisher, Allan T. Gilbert, George Mason, and Joseph Sullivan, transit attorneys; Albert H. Veeder, who has agreed to complete two unfinished cases for $750, and Benjamin F. Goldstein, George I. Haight, and Edmund F. Adcock, who are employed in the telephone litigation.

EUROPE TO HONOR U. S. WAR HEROES AT GRAVES TODAY

Gold Star Mothers Will Visit French Cemetery.

PARIS, May 29.—(AP)—The American gold star mothers and war widows now on pilgrimage in France will be the honored guests at the Memorial day commemoration tomorrow at Surenes cemetery, just outside Paris, where lie 1,536 of the A. E. F.'s dead.

Owing to its nearness to the French capital, Suresnes will witness the principal ceremony of the American national holiday, but at all the battlefield burial grounds delegations of Americans and French will decorate the graves and conduct simple and soldierly services.

All Europe to Honor Dead.

Identical services will be held at all the United States military cemeteries in Europe. Those in France include the great resting place at Romagne-Sous-Montfaucon with its 14,198 graves; that at Serignes-es-Nesles, with 6,012 graves; the Thiaucourt cemetery where 4,151 of the A. E. F.'s fallen, mainly in the St. Mihiel offensive, are entombed; the cemetery at Belleau Wood, sacred to the memory of 2,285 doughboys and marines, and that at Bony, in the Aisne department, with 1,832 graves. Not a single grave in the whole country will be overlooked.

The American colony at Paris, with Ambassador Edge at its head, will pay tribute to both the French and American war dead in a brief ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier just before noon.

Prior to that, at the American procathedral of the Holy Trinity, the identical service held on Memorial day of 1918, when the Germans threatened Paris and the city was under bombardment, will be reënacted. Simultaneously, solemn requiem high mass will be sung in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church in the Avenue Hoche.

U. S. Mayors to Participate.

The American mayors, who are touring France, will observe Decoration day tomorrow individually or in small groups, by placing wreaths on the tomb of the unknown soldier and on the graves of American soldiers in the American military cemeteries.

At the Belleau Wood cemetery R. E. Thomason of El Paso will make a speech; at Bony the speaker will be Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans; at Seronges-et-Nesele, Mayor Walter E. Batterson of Hartford, Conn., while Mayor Victor Miller of St. Louis and Mayor Franklin D. Lane of Phoenix, Ariz., will hear Gen. John J. Pershing's address at Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, the largest American military cemetery in France.

Mayors Quarrel Over Medal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 29.—A report that Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, Ore., leader of the American mayors' junket, is slated to receive the legion of honor from the French government precipitated a sharp quarrel among the municipal executives this afternoon. The upshot of the argument was "we are all of equal rank and why should one be chosen for that honor and not the rest."

The mayors were entertained at the French Colonial exposition by Marshal Lyautey, who offered them cocktails and which were relished by all except Mayor John C. Porter of Los Angeles, Cal.

Betty Mary Smith, daughter of the mayor of Kansas City, Mo., presented a bouquet to Marshal Lyautey. The old warrior asked whether Miss Smith was a prohibitionist.

"No," shouted most of the party, and the marshal and little Miss Smith sipped a glass of champaign together. Then she slipped her arms around France's ranking soldier and kissed him.

"It was better than dancing with the prince of Wales," Miss Smith said.

James E. McSweeney Made Chicago Police Secretary

James E. McSweeney, 3852 Jackson boulevard, a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court, was appointed secretary of the police department in an order sent out by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock yesterday. McSweeney is a brother of State Representative John R. McSweeney of the 19th district. He succeeds Herman A. Burkhard, a restaurant owner, who was given a temporary appointment to the position about a year ago. The secretary's duties are to keep the records of the department in his office in the police building at 11th and State streets.

Quarantine Fifteen Pupils in School at Lake Villa

Fifteen pupils at the Allendale school in Lake Villa were placed under quarantine yesterday when one of their classmates was found to be ill of scarlet fever. The boy, Hugo Beerbaum, 12 years old, of Chicago, was taken to the Lake County General hospital in Waukegan. The quarantine was ordered in the cottage where he lived. According to Dr. R. D. Williams and E. L. Bradley, founder and director of the school, no fear exists the disease will spread. There are 100 boys at the school.

Postmaster General and Wife Visit City by Air

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Brown, passed through Chicago yesterday en route from Booneville, Mo., where they attended the graduation ceremonies at Kemper Military academy, to Toledo, O., where they remained last night. Mr. Brown was the principal speaker at the ceremonies in which his nephew was graduated. With Mrs. Brown he arrived in Chicago in an airplane of the American Airways line at two o'clock and departed an hour later, again by air.

REMARRIED

MRS. MARGARET RUPPEL.

The former Mrs. Margaret Gaylord Brunker, whose divorce from Albert R. Brunker, wealthy civic leader and student of Chicago crime, was granted in Reno, Nev., last Monday on charges of desertion, is now Mrs. Frederick H. Ruppel of Pasadena, Cal. Her marriage to Mr. Ruppel, a building contractor, took place in Pasadena on Thursday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gaylord, it was learned here yesterday.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. C. Withington of the Pasadena Neighborhood church. The Ruppels will reside in Pasadena.

Mr. Brunker, who had agreed to his wife's arrangements for the Reno divorce after a property settlement and joint custody of their two children had been provided for, could not be reached yesterday for comment. His attorney, Walter B. Wolf, said he felt sure that Mr. Brunker had never met Mr. Ruppel and did not know anything about him. He said he presumed that the former Mrs. Brunker and Mr. Ruppel had met during her visits to her parents.

Records of the marriage license bureau at Pasadena revealed that Mr. Ruppel and Mrs. Brunker had made application for their marriage license on May 12, before her Reno decree had been entered. She gave her age as 25, he as 33. Mr. Ruppel also had been divorced.

NEW BELMONT TROLLEY FEEDER BUS LINE OPENS

A new trolley bus line was opened last night in Belmont avenue between Central and Pacific avenues, a distance of three miles. The feeder bus line connects with the regular Belmont avenue street car line.

The first car started from the eastern end after M. S. Szymczak, city controller, representing Mayor Anton J. Cermak, cut a ribbon. He spoke before a crowd of more than 1,000. Others present were O. W. Holmes, president of the Northwest federation; State Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe; Thomas Bowler, president of the sanitary district, and Thomas Catino, president of the Belmont-Harlem Improvement association.

Another ceremony followed arrival of the first bus at the western end. C. O. Evenson, general superintendent of the Chicago Surface Lines, spoke to a crowd of 2,000. A street dance will be held at this end tonight to mark the extension under auspices of the Harlem-Belmont Business Men's association.

John Borden's Sister, Artist Husband at Suva

SUVA, Fiji Islands, May 30.—(AP)—The yacht Northern Light arrived here today from California, bringing Zlatko Balokovic, violinist, and his wife, a sister of John Borden, Chicago broker, who are making a world tour on the ship. They will stop in Australia, where Balokovic has concert engagements.

CAPT. MORRISON WILL UPHELD; 15 LOSE $3,000,000

Most of Estate to Build Home for Elderly Men.

Capt. Edward W. Morrison, picturesque figure in Chicago's night life of the gay nineties, who died in 1929 at the age of 93, will have his last wish granted. Probate Judge Henry Horner yesterday ruled that most of Capt. Morrison's $3,000,000 estate must be spent in construction of a home for the aged.

JUDGE HENRY HORNER.

The will of Capt. Morrison who, during his lifetime, was adjudged a spendthrift not capable of administering his own fortune and thus became known as the "millionless millionaire," stipulated that most of his wealth should be spent in providing the home for elderly men. But a number of persons came forward to assert that Capt. Morrison was mentally unsound when he made this will and to contend for a portion of his wealth for themselves.

Judge Upholds the Will.

Judge Horner, however, ruled that the will was valid. Among the claimants disappointed by this decision is Capt. William E. Foulkes, 71 years old, 4216 Langley avenue, who asserted he was the son of Capt. Morrison and Mary Prange, a domestic in the Morrison home.

Judge Horner ruled that Capt. Foulkes had proved Capt. Morrison had a son, but had not proved that he was that son.

Two others involved in the litigation were Mrs. Alice Schenker of Plummond and Mrs. Mary Beers Brown of Dearborn, Mich., sisters, who claimed to be adopted daughters of Capt. Morrison. Judge Horner ruled that the adoption proceedings had not been legal. The two women, under the will, will receive $5,000 each. They had hoped to divide the $3,000,000.

12 Cousins Disappointed.

Other claimants included twelve cousins of Capt. Morrison who had been willed $100,000 in trust to be divided amongst them. They asserted they should have the entire estate. Judge Horner ruled that the $100,000 bequest was all they should receive.

The judge told attorneys that if they discovered any additional evidence before next Tuesday he will allow them to present it. In the absence of any further evidence, however, he will admit the Morrison will to probate, he said.

Mrs. Schenker and Mrs. Brown said they would appeal the ruling.

Lewis F. Jacobson, attorney for the estate, said that the decision insured the construction of the home for the aged specified in the will.

BOYS FACE ARREST FOR SELLING PAPER POLICE SUPPRESSED

Minneapolis, Minn., May 29.—[Special.]—Police tonight were ordered to arrest any newsboy found selling copies of the Public Press, suppressed newspaper.

Arthur Kasherman, editor and publisher, was arrested Saturday on a charge of disorderly conduct when he sold copies of the paper on the street. The paper was suppressed by police on May 11, two days before the Minneapolis primary.

Kasherman, defeated in the mayoralty primaries, has a suit pending hearing in District court now asking an order to prevent further seizures of the paper. Police learned tonight that Thursday newsboys had been selling the paper and orders were issued to arrest those caught.

The hearing on Kasherman's appeal for an order of restraint, brought after 30,000 copies of the Public Press had been seized, is being delayed pending filing of new affidavits by his attorney.

WOMAN SHOOTS HER ESCORT WITH OFFICER'S PISTOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Another shooting with a bootleg liquor aroma today disturbed the calm of the capital city, which President Hoover announced some months ago was to be an example to the nation of law enforcement and observance. The tally now is 11 shootings and seven killings in the last fortnight.

Leonard Hoffman is in Emergency hospital in a critical condition, resulting from a gunshot wound inflicted by Mrs. Tillie Wilson, 23 year old manicurist, with a revolver belonging to a city policeman, about daylight today. According to Mrs. Wilson the policeman whose pistol she employed had been in a drinking party with her and Hoffman. The versions of the affair given by Mrs. Wilson and Charles B. Kimball, the policeman, differ radically.

Accused of Speeding.

Mrs. Wilson said that she and Hoffman were driving in Rhode Island avenue early today, when, as they passed the Twelfth precinct police station, they were stopped by Policeman Kimball, who accused them of speeding.

"While the question of speeding was being discussed the matter of liquor came up and the policeman volunteered that he knew where some good whisky could be had," said Mrs. Wilson.

Reinforced by the policeman, the couple, according to Mrs. Wilson, visited a bootlegger known to the officer of the law and the purchase of a pint of whisky was negotiated. Then, directed by the policeman, the trio drove to a vacant field on the outskirts of the city to indulge in a "drinking party."

Asked Them Not to Follow.

While they were sitting in the car drinking, Mrs. Wilson got out and walked toward a patch of woods in the field, according to her version. She was followed by Hoffman and Kimball. She asked them not to follow her and Kimball returned to the car. Hoffman persisted in following. Thereupon, she returned to the car, still followed by Hoffman.

Policeman Kimball had resumed his seat in the car when she and Hoffman returned, Mrs. Wilson said. She reached into the automobile, seized the policeman's pistol, which was lying on the floor of the car, whirled about, and shot Hoffman in the chest.

According to Policeman Kimball, he found the couple parked in a car in the field at Rhode Island avenue and 12th street, northeast. He peered into the rear window of the car and saw Hoffman at the steering wheel and Mrs. Wilson seated beside him. Both, said Kimball, were under the influence of liquor.

Pistol in Woman's Hand.

After questioning the couple, said Kimball, he decided to take them to the police station. He took Hoffman's place at the steering wheel and Hoffman was preparing to take a rear seat in the car when a pistol gleamed in Mrs. Wilson's hand. There was a shot and Hoffman slumped to the ground. Kimball admitted the shot was fired with his pistol. He said the weapon must have fallen from his holster to the floor of the car as he took the steering wheel.

Hoffman exonerated the policeman, denying that the officer had helped them procure liquor. He said the shooting took place as he and Mrs. Wilson were standing beside the car. Mrs. Wilson seized the weapon and pointed it at Hoffman, who dared her to shoot.

CHARGE BRIBERY TO PROSECUTOR, ALSO 7 OTHERS

Youngstown, O., May 29.—(AP)—A grand jury investigation of alleged graft in public offices here brought indictments today against Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas and seven other prominent citizens and an accusation by the jury that "various crimes and offenses have been committed in connection with unlawful relations" between certain city officials and the Ohio Edison company, large public utility concern.

The indictments against Prosecutor Thomas charged he received and concealed stolen property, blackmailed officials of the Central Savings and Loan company, blackmailed Harry Engle [former city traction commissioner], embezzled public moneys, intimidated an officer, obtained a signature under false pretense, and committed bribery.

Six of the other men indicted were charged with bribery only, in connection with a county land purchase. They were County Commissioner Albert Cooper, former County Commissioners Wade C. Christy and Griffith Jones, former Police Chief K. H. Powell, Thomas Ryan, and Joseph Hannon, the latter two former owners of land sold to the county. Attorney David Shermer was charged with bribing a grand jury witness.

TRAINMEN VOTE TO CUT HOURS TO GIVE 11,000 JOBS

Houston, Tex., May 29.—(AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen late today voted to limit members' working hours so that 11,000 men now out of work may be given employment, President A. F. Whitney announced.

The resolution was announced at the brotherhood's triennial convention here. It limits the working hours of members in yard service to 24 days or 200 hours a month; of members in freight service to 3,500 miles or its equivalent; of members in passenger service to 5,500 miles or its equivalent.

President Whitney said the changed hours and the consequent increase in employment—which he set specifically at 10,850 men—would become effective within 30 days, or as soon as the general brotherhood chairmen for the respective railroads could reach home and arrange conferences with railroad executives.

The resolution is tantamount to an order to all members.

KILLS HERSELF

MAE BLANEY.

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Mae Blaney, 34 years old, cabaret entertainer, who was found dead in her apartment in the Maple Manor hotel, 65 Maple street, with a revolver near her right hand and a crucifix clasped in the left, yesterday returned a verdict of suicide. Mrs. Kathleen Clifford, mother of Mrs. Blaney, testified her daughter was despondent over failure to find employment.

George Harper, also a resident at the hotel in which Miss Blaney lived, said he drove the young woman home from the Club Le Claire, 2651 North Clark street, which he manages, and left her in her room at 5 a. m. She seemed in fair spirits, he said, but was worried over her inability to find work.

Five years ago Miss Blaney was widely known in night club circles. She and her husband, Joseph Lyall, were estranged. She resumed her maiden name and took custody of their son, Jack, 12 years old. Seven months ago she was employed in a loop night club, but has not worked in that period.

ONE YEAR'S DOLES COST GERMANY $1,000,800,000

Jobless Relief Totals 710 Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 28.—The various national social insurance schemes of Germany cost the republic $1,000,800,000 last year, according to figures just made public. The story of the plight of a vast portion of the German people and the efforts of the government is making to relieve them is written into those digits and zeros.

In 1913, eighteen years ago, and before the war, the expenditure for social insurance was only $326,500,000, or between one-fifth and one-sixth as great as last year.

Sickness insurance cost over half a billion dollars, of which the state was called upon to contribute only four millions, the rest being paid by the premiums. One hundred millions went for accident insurance, with no state assistance, and employés insurance, which includes old age pensions, disability, and even marriage dowry benefits for the women accounted for 90 millions, without any government help.

Invalid Insurance Heavy.

Invalid insurance was a heavy expense. Paid premiums ran to 241 millions, and the state added 110 millions more. The special miners' insurance, a class by itself, cost slightly more than 43 millions, of which $7,300,000 was contributed by government sources.

Statistics reveal that the reich dug into its pockets to the extent of $121,300,000 to assist the relief funds.

The largest expenditure, however, was for unemployment relief. It totaled $710,000,000.

Receive Small Sums.

And yet Germany, according to many outside observers, as well as prominent conservative Germans, such as the Reichsbank president, Dr. Hans Luther, in speeches, is expending more on social aid than is absolutely necessary.

Efforts are being made to "rationalize," the insurances and reduce the overhead. Despite the huge payments by the state, insured, and employer, the beneficiaries receive only small sums, which in many cases compel them to subsist on a standard far below normal. But officials hope that their years of experience in social insurances will enable them to work out a better plan soon.

LEA IS NAMED BY IMPEACHERS OF GOV. HORTON

Nashville, Tenn., May 29.—(AP)—An impeachment article against Gov. Henry H. Horton was reported to the Tennessee house today. In it he was charged with conspiring with friends to receive their financial and political support in exchange for influencing the machinery of state for their personal gain.

The article, drawn by a special house committee, named Col. Luke Lea, Nashville newspaper publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, former bank president, as those with whom the governor conspired.

Scott P. Fitzhugh, speaker of the senate, relinquished his chance of becoming governor, in the event Horton were impeached, by resigning the speakership today. Under state laws the speaker succeeds if the governor's office is left vacant.

COURT EXTENDS CAPONE LIBERTY PENDING APPEAL

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday extended the supersedeas bond on which Al Capone is at liberty from his six months sentence to jail for contempt of court. The stay will remain in effect pending the disposition of Capone's appeal, which the government hopes will be some time in June.

Sam Guzik, Capone gangster who pleaded guilty to income tax fraud, will be taken to Leavenworth penitentiary the latter part of next week with the next regular shipment of federal prisoners. He was sentenced to one year and a day in prison.

AERIAL ARMADA TO SWEEP OVER CAPITAL TODAY

Army Planes Massed for Last Day of "War."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The First air division moved into the Washington area today for the final phase of the maneuvers of 1931. Tonight more than 650 fighting army planes were quartered in airdromes from Middletown, Pa., to Langley Field, Va., awaiting the call to mass over the Potomac river tomorrow morning and sweep past the capitol at noon, in the demonstration that will end the "two weeks' war."

President Hoover will be at Valley Forge, but the rest of Washington will be on rooftops, in parks and at the reviewing stand on the new Arlington Memorial bridge to see the greatest air armada this country has ever produced.

275 Planes Fill Field.

Bolling field was headquarters for the air division this afternoon. Squadron after squadron of the yellow-winged destroyers sped in from Long Island and circled down through clouds of dust early in the afternoon. The 275 planes assigned to Bolling field virtually filled the field and some of the transports stopped at Hoover field nearby. Others went to Baltimore and convenient bases, for Washington's airdromes could not take care of such a skyful of fighting craft.

The movement from Long Island was accomplished without serious mishap, the planes swinging away in threes and sixes soon after 11 o'clock and gathering over Rockaway beach for the flight to the capital.

Heat waves beat down on the yellow wings and there was a simmering ground haze that did little to aid the flight. The twenty mile long aerial parade swung out across New York bay, passed over Philadelphia and Baltimore, where great crowds watched from the streets and the tops of tall buildings and then broke up into smaller units as some of the ships headed for Baltimore and Langley landing fields.

Land in Dust Clouds.

Those who flew on into Bolling field saw the capitol's dome sticking up above a tree dotted city and across the Potomac they saw a great dust cloud—Bolling field. As the planes dropped down from the skies the dust grew thicker and three at a time the ships would plunge into the cloud, vanish from sight and finally roll safely to the parking spaces.

After the parade passes over the reviewing stand the armada will swing to the left and fly over Arlington cemetery, where the planes will dip in a salute to the heroes buried there.

After the show tomorrow, in which the mythical enemy will be finally routed, the division will break up to depart immediately to the home stations of the squadrons all over the country.

SEVEN INDICTED FOR SMUGGLING ALIENS INTO U. S.

The federal grand jury for May returned fifty indictments yesterday before Federal Judge John P. Barnes. The jury was discharged by the court, leaving in session the April jury, which is reported to be investigating income tax evasions of Al Capone.

The major batch of indictments named seven defendants in a conspiracy to smuggle aliens into the country on spurious passports.

Those indicated on that charge are Wiktoria Kolodziej, her husband, Thomas, and Miss Karolina Gibala, all of 740 Central street; Paul Zebroski, manager of a steamship agency at 1432 West Chicago avenue; Josefa Haduch, 821 Rose street; Katarzyna Jamoroz, 2429 Winnemac avenue, and Stefania Poczatka, 1112 Huron street.

According to Assistant United States District Attorney Dodd Healy, Misses Haduch, Poczatka, Gibala, and Jamoros were brought into this country on fraudulent passports.

Dr. Maurice J. Rabbins, for 20 years a physician attached to police headquarters, was indicted on eight counts for violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic law.

Most of the other defendants were indicted for violation of the prohibition act.

SEVEN ON TRIAL FOR PLOT TO STIR REVOLT IN ITALY

ROME, May 29.—(AP)—Seven "intellectuals," including college professors and engineers, charged with plotting to overthrow the Fascist government, today pleaded for liberty before the special tribunal for defense of the state which yesterday condemned Michele Schirru, naturalized American citizen, to death.

The defendants are accused of conspiring against the government by spreading propaganda for an armed insurrection. They are alleged to be leaders of the "Justice and Liberty" organization with headquarters in Milan. Three of the six judges sat on the tribunal which sentenced Schirru yesterday. He was executed early today by shooting in the back, being the first American citizen to be sentenced by such a court.

Riccardo Bauer, business man, and Ernesto Rossi, professor of political economy at the University of Bergamo, alleged leaders of the group, admitted formation of the society, but denied charges that they planned the simultaneous discharge of bombs in an attempt to overthrow the Fascists. This testimony was repeated by other defendants, including Pietro Zari, poet and professor of literature, whose father was a good friend of Pope Pius XI, when the latter was librarian at Milan some years ago.

BOOKS

Hundred Pick 100 Books for Adult Readers

Predict List Will Arouse Much Comment.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE American Library association has published a list of one hundred books which is intended as a guide for American readers between 20 and 45 years. It is different from most compilations of the sort because it is not the choice of one person, but the composite choice of one hundred. Nathan G. Goodman, a Philadelphia journalist, sent a questionnaire to one hundred persons whose names he took from "Who's Who," as representative educated Americans, and he asked them to name the 100 books in the order of their importance which they considered should be read by all educated Americans.

When Mr. Goodman received the returns he compiled his list, not under separate headings of history, fiction, biography, poetry, etc., but according to the popularity of the books suggested. The result is a unique reading list of 100 books, from Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography, which is No. 1 on the list, to Burton's translation of the "Arabian Nights," which is No. 100.

The only American whose name appears twice on the list is Carl Sandburg, who is No. 54 with two volumes on "The Prairie Years" of the life of Abraham Lincoln, and No. 93 with his "American Songbag," his compilation of American folk songs and music. John Galsworthy is the only other author to receive two recommendations, and Jane Addams is the only other Chicagoan to be mentioned. Her "Twenty Years at Hull House" received forty-sixth place in the list.

Many readers will be surprised, and hurt, and angry, and be led to public expostulation over the rankings. That will be fine. Anything that creates discussion about books stimulates the reading of them. In the hope that when you see the list relatively ranked you will be led to vociferation about your own choices, I am printing it. The list follows:

For Cuppy Leads You to Wodehouse.

BY WILL CUPPY.

[Author of "How to Be a Hermit."]

P. G. Wodehouse is the name. "Big Money" [Doubleday-Doran] is the book. There, in a nutshell, is my little sermon on the best wit and humor that has been thought, said, and published since along about last New Year's eve—and what a night that turned out to be! And I'm pretty sure that posterity will agree with me; that is, if posterity turns out to have any sense at all.

That is almost as far as a real Wodehouse fan cares to go in touting his favorite author. It is in the best tradition merely to announce that Mr. Wodehouse is out again, trusting the sheep and the goats to fall into their proper lines at the book shops, the idea being that whoever does not know the next step by this time will never learn and shouldn't be nagged; besides, you can't force people to have a good time—or can you?

No harm can come of adding that the plot of "Big Money"—which, by the way, is a full length novel—arises from the chance meeting of the financially desperate John Beresford Conway [the handsome dog!] with the equally destitute Godfrey, Lord Biskerton, son and heir of the sixth earl of Hoddesdon, and proceeds immediately to the more significant aspects of love, engagements, mumps, disguises, aunts, mystery, adventure, and on up. The story, as such, is grand, but it's the Wodehouse style as does it.

Second honors in our personal sweepstakes go to a small but precious volume entitled "Boners" [The Viking Press], a collection of schoolboy examination answers got up, it is alleged, by Alexander Abingdon and illustrated by Dr. Seuss. As always with such tomes, the dross is more abundant than the gold, but the residue is worth any one's dollar and more. I would walk a mile any time to learn that a Blue Stocking is "a stocking that is blue instead of black or brown," that "an epistle is the wife of an apostle," or that "an Indian reservation consists of a mile of land for every five square Indians," or even that the four elements are mustard, pepper, salt, and vinegar. Then go and hunt for a copy of "English as She Is Taught," the classic howler book sponsored by Mark Twain.

Next we have three merry books written by three merry young men connected editorially with the New Yorker, none of whom or which, I predict, will be the victim of any vitriolic attacks by ambitious critics and magazine authors. "The Owl in the Attic and Other Perplexities," [Harpers] by James Thurber, who helped E. B. White write "Is Sex necessary?" last year—enough said. Clients are advised to drop everything and give a look at Mr. Thurber's pet department, wherein are considered the joys and sorrows of such exhibits as a cataleptic hound, a cat with dementia praecox, a stuffed cockatoo, a nonjuggling seal and a fish with ears.

TALKING PICTURE OF TRIALS ASKED FOR HIGH COURTS

Say Appeal Judges Lack Atmosphere of Case.

Peoria, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—A proposal that a sound film record be made of appealable criminal cases for the better guidance of the Supreme court in arriving at its decisions was made in the annual meeting of the Illinois State Bar association which will wind up its two day session at the Hotel Père Marquette today.

E. T. LEE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The idea that the courts should have every assistance that modern science can supply to aid in the performance of their important duties is proposed by Edward T. Lee, dean of the John Marshall Law School of Chicago. Courts of review with only an expressionless printed record before them are deprived of a real picture of the trial, the appearance of the witnesses on the stand, the inflections of their voices, their gibness and their hesitation, their embarrassment when asked certain questions, and many other things which the eyes of the trial judge and jury catch and weigh in deciding the case, he said in support of his idea.

Introduces Resolution.

Dean Lee introduced the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the Illinois State Bar association, having in mind the widespread criticism of decisions of the Supreme court of Illinois in cases involving major crimes, and appreciating the limitations under which such court participates in the administration of justice, and believing that courts should have every assistance that modern science can supply for the more perfect performance of their high duties, is of the opinion that the use of scientific apparatus for recording the pictures and testimony of witnesses in the trial of appealable cases is advisable, to the end that a closer approximation to justice may be obtained on appeal than is possible from the printed and expressionless transcript of the record alone, on which the Supreme court must now base its decision."

"The late John N. Jewell, whom many will recall as one of the great lawyers of his day, representing numerous clients in important cases in all the courts, state and federal, was wont to say to law classes to which he lectured," Dean Lee said in presenting his resolution "that courts of appeal were in about the worst possible position to render justice in cases involving consideration of facts.

Loses Atmosphere of Trial

"For example, he used to say, when a simple case of assault and battery is tried in a police court, the original scene on which the prosecution is based cannot be reproduced even there. The court and jury must depend upon the testimony of the litigants and their witnesses. Even assuming them to be honest, their accounts of what happened can never reproduce every sight and sound, however, material, of the original altercation.

"Should the defendant be convicted and appeal to an Appellate court, the Appellate court will consider the case both on the law and the facts, taking for the facts what is found in the printed record of the case. Obviously the Appellate court is at a greater disadvantage than the trial court in reaching a just decision because it neither sees nor hears the parties nor their witnesses.

"If the Appellate court affrms the conviction and an appeal is taken to the Supreme court of the state, that court will look only into the law and will accept the facts as found by the Appellate court; so the Supreme court is in the worse position of all to decide upon the real merits of the case. The reviewing court neither sees nor hears either litigants or witnesses."

The proposal was referred to the board of governors.

BABY IS KILLED, PARENTS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

An eight months old girl was killed and her parents were injured in a collision of two automobiles at Touhy and North Damen avenues last night. Both machines overturned. The baby was Catherine Van Deventer. With her parents, Raymond and Mary Van Deventer of Milwaukee, she was riding in Damen avenue. At Touhy avenue the car collided with the machine of Miss Lavon Smith, 24 years old, of 1331 Touhy avenue. The Van Deventers were taken to the Rogers Park hospital, where Catherine was pronounced dead. Mrs. Van Deventer suffered a skull fracture. Van Deventer and Miss Smith were bruised.

This death and four others raised the Cook county motor toll to 474 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Daniel Konen, 54 years old, 5540 South Morgan street. Died in St. Bernard's hospital from injuries received on May 25 when a stolen automobile drijen by a Negro struck the horse upon which he was riding in 47th street and knocked him to the pavement. The Negro fled.

John Ellis, 39 years old, 7224 South Peoria street. Killed when the automobile which he was driving was struck by another car at 48th court and 22d avenue, Cicero. Charles Rehky, 2439 South 58th court, Cicero, driver of the other car, was arrested.

Anthony Boltunis, 46 years old, 4346 South Washtenaw avenue. Fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile being driven by Joseph Jirsa, 5114 South Harding avenue, at Kedzie avenue at 42d street.

Mrs. Antoinette Dyczkowski, 66 years old, 1308 Cleaver street. Died at the North Avenue hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday when she was struck by an automobile at Elston avenue and Julian stret. Clarence Dorre, 21 years old, 1629 Florence avenue, Evanston, was the driver.

SWANSON TELLS STATE LAWYERS OF GAIN ON CRIME

Explains Test Cases to Aid Prosecution.

Peoria, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—State's Attorney John A. Swanson addressed the Illinois State Bar association here today on the subject of the progress made under his administration. He discussed the changes in the law brought about by test cases in Cook county.

JOHN SWANSON. [(C.) Melvin Sykes.]

"It has been our effort to remove from procedure some of the obstacle which grew up at a time when they were necessary to the protection of the defendant but which, as the laws have grown more liberal and people have become more civilized, seem to be the outgrowth of folly rather than of wisdom," Mr. Swanson said.

Wants Jury Waiver Amended.

One of the "improvements" mentioned by Mr. Swanson was the decision through which defendants now may waive trial by jury and permit a judge to hear the case. It is desirable, he said, to have the law further amended so the state may object to a bench trial and insist on a jury being called because of the possibility a defendant may sometimes prefer to trust his fate to a friendly judge.

How Cook county combatted the bail bond evil and obtained favorable decisions from the Supreme court was told. A majority of the cases reversed have been due to faulty instructions, Mr. Swanson said, and he has prepared a standard set of instructions which have greatly reduced the number of reversals in Chicago cases.

"Large communities always attract large numbers of criminals," said Prosecutor Swanson in telling of his campaign against the men designated as public enemies. He cited the recognition by the Supreme court of ballistic evidense as a great help in the war against crime.

"Blue Sky" Recoveries Large.

Mr. Swanson was particularly pleased over the accomplishments of his "blue sky" department. In a majority of the cases, he said, the complainant is more interested in recovering money lost through investment in securities not approved by the secretary of state than in prosecution and a hearing is held once a week in his office. The complainant, the respondent, a representative of the secretary of state and a representative of the Investors' Protective bureau are present. Restitutions made during 1930 were listed by Mr. Swanson on this phase of his duties, as follows:

Where respondents admitted liability	$ 727,320
Where respondents paid, but would not admit liability	2,800,000
Approved by the court after prosecutions had been instituted	99,070
Total liabilities	$3,626,990

Mr. Swanson concluded with an appeal to the lawyers to recognize their responsibilities as leaders in their communities.

Officers Elected.

Other officers elected are: June C. Smith, Centralia, first vice president; R. V. Fletcher, Chicago, second vice president; Judge James S. Baldwin, Decatur, third vice president; R. Aland Stephens, Springfield, secretary; Frank L. Trutter, Springfield, treasurer; Howard Castle and John F. Voigt, both of Chicago, members board of governors.

Edward W. Everett of Chicago received the advisory vote for Illinois member of the general council of the American Bar association.

A resolution indorsing Col. Edgar B. Tolman of Chicago to be the next president of the American Bar association was presented by Franklin L. Velde of Pekin and was adopted.

BOMB EXPLOSION DAMAGES CAFE ON 14TH STREET

A bomb explosion early this morning wrecked the front of the restaurant at 900 West 14th street, broke windows a block away, and roused the entire neighborhood. Because the force of the blast was so heavy, Maxwell street police believe the bomb was made of dynamite. The damage was estimated at $1,000.

The damaged restaurant is owned by Sam Israel, who lives upstairs with his family. Another family also lives upstairs. No one was injured. The doorway, windows, and front interior of the lunchroom were ruined and windows across the street and down the block were broken. Israel said he has been in business at the 14th street address for seven years and has never had any trouble.

A powder bomb was exploded at the front entrance of the soft drink place of Stanley Baron, 4300 South Ashland avenue, an hour after the 14th street bombing. The blast blew in the door and shattered windows of the two story frame building. The damage was estimated at $200. Baron and his family were asleep upstairs, but none was injured. The place was bombed on April 13, and that bombing was laid to labor troubles over some repairs.

WIFE NEGLECTS TO PAY HIM ALIMONY; WANTS HER JAILED

Joseph Gantz, 45 years old, yesterday asked Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude to jail his wife, Aniela, 1445 Dixon street, because she had failed to pay him $20 monthly alimony. The judge refused to send the wife to prison, but cautioned her to keep up the alimony payments in the future.

The husband procured the alimony order four months ago. He declared that he had paid for their home, a three flat building which has an income of $135 a month. He was out of work and asked that his wife support him from the income she had. He charged yesterday that he had never received any alimony.

"The taxes and the maintenance cost took it all," Mrs. Gantz replied. Both she and her husband in pending divorce suits charge each other with cruelty.

"I won't send you to jail," decided Judge Trude. "But you must pay your husband $5 a week promptly from now on."

TELLS DEATH OF MRS. SUMMERS' SECOND HUSBAND

New Witness Appears in Poison Cases.

The alleged marriage of Mrs. Margaret Summers to Stanley Korzen, who died seven months after their wedding and less than a year after the death of her first husband, was revealed yesterday by a woman who called on Capt. Thomas Condon at the Hudson avenue police station. Mrs. Summers is being held in the county jail on a charge of having caused the death of four men, including her last husband, Tom Summers, by arsenic poisoning.

STANLEY KORZEN.

The woman who told the story to Capt. Condon gave her name as Mrs. May E. Bonczkowski of 650 North Wood street. She said she was a sister of Korzen. She will be taken to the county jail today to identify Mrs. Summers as the woman she said she knew originally as Mrs. Margaret Fairfax.

A Conflict in Stories.

Mrs. Summers' first husband was James Fairfax, who, she has told the police, died about 17 years ago of tuberculosis.

According to Mrs. Bonczkowski's statement, here brother, Korzen, met Mrs. Fairfax when the latter's husband, who worked with him in a furniture warehouse, was critically ill. Korzen called on his fellow worker, and after his death, married the widow.

Korzen was in good health at the time he met Mrs. Fairfax, Mrs. Bonczkowski arrested. They were married March 6, 1917, according to Mrs. Bonczkowski, who said she was in possession of their marriage license.

In June of the same year Korzen went to Denver, Colo., suffering from what was diagnosed as tuberculosis, and on Oct. 7, 1917, died in his mother's home, at 1315 Wade street, supposedly of tuberculosis.

His mother collected $1,100 in life insurance policies carried by Korzen, the sister said. She did not know whether Korzen's wife was the beneficiary of any other policies, she said.

Woman Tells Experience.

A detective squad last night took Mrs. Stella French, 45 years old, and her husband, Benjamin, to the Hudson avenue station for questioning in connection with the investigation of the charges against Mrs. Summers. The Frenches were found at the home of Mrs. Iola Cannino of 807 Willow street. They were interrogated by Capt. Thomas Condon and Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks.

According to police, Mrs. French said she had lived at the Summers home for eight weeks until two months ago. She recalled drinking some beer on one occasion and becoming ill. Mrs. French also said, according to police, that Mrs. Summers induced her to take out a $500 life insurance policy in which Mrs. Summers was named as the beneficiary. Mrs. French said she left the Summers home to go to St. Louis. On her recently she learned of the inquiry and feared to go to the Summers home to gather her clothing. She then visited a few days at the Cannino residence. Police said they would research the Summers home for beer samples.

SIX CLERGYMEN, 4 LAYMEN GIVEN HONORS BY POPE

Lewis Made Knight for Philanthropy.

Six Chicago clergymen and four laymen are recipients of honors bestowed by Pope Pius XI at the behest of Cardinal Mundelein on his recent visit to Rome, it was announced yesterday at the archdiocesan chancery, Cass and Superior streets. Elevation of the Rev. Robert C. Maguire, chancellor of the archdiocese, to the rank of domestic prelate with the title of right reverend monsignor, had previously been revealed.

Msgr. Maguire was the successor of the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, when the latter was made auxiliary bishop of Chicago and resigned his position as chancellor.

Donor of Hospital Elevated.

Of the nine others honored, probably the most widely known is Francis J. Lewis, chairman of the board of the F. J. Lewis Manufacturing company, and prominent as a philanthropist. Mr. Lewis, who for some years has been a knight of St. Gregory, was made a knight commander of the Order of St. Sylvester, "con placca," in recognition of his efforts in behalf of Catholic charities.

His most recent gift was the Lewis Memorial Maternity hospital at 3001 South Michigan avenue, formerly the Lakota hotel. The hospital, completely equipped, was presented by the donor to Cardinal Mundelein to provide medical and nursing care for mothers of moderate means, filling a long felt need for such an institution.

Made Domestic Prelates.

Two priests acquiring the same rank and title at Msgr. Maguire are the Rev. William Cahill, diocesan consultor and pastor of Our Lady of Mercy church at North Troy and Montrose, and the Very Rev. Msgr. William R. Griffin, pastor of St. Andrew's, at Addison and Paulina. In 1926, in recognition of his efforts during the International Eucharistic congress here, Father Griffin was made a private chamberlain by Pope Pius.

Three priests raised to the post of private chamberlain at this time, with the title of Very Rev. Msgr., are the Rev. P. F. Mahoney, rector of Quigley Preparatory seminary; the Rev. Stanislaus Bona, pastor of St. Casimir church, 22d and Whipple streets, made supervisor of communities of religious women, and the Rev. Bernard Springmeier, pastor of St. George's church, 39th and Wentworth.

Loyola Dean Made Knight.

Dr. L. D. Moorhead, dean of Loyola university school of medicine, the youngest member ever admitted to a fellowship in the American College of Surgeons, becomes a Knight of St. Gregory, the youngest on record. Dr. Moorhead, who is chief of the medical board of the archdiocese, will receive the degree of LL. D. from Creighton university in Omaha on June 4.

Frederick H. Massmann, recently elected president of the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name society, is made a Knight of St. Gregory, and John Straka Sr., president of the National Alliance of Bohemian Catholics, receives the papal decoration of the Cross "Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice."

ALEX. MARSHALL AND WIFE ROBBED OF CASH, JEWELS

Alexander H. Marshall, prominent attorney, living at 120 Beach road, Glencoe, and his wife were held up by four armed men in front of their home early this morning and robbed of $50 in cash and $4,000 worth of jewelry. The Marshalls had been at the Edgewater Beach hotel and had driven home. As they turned into the driveway the four robbers in an automobile pulled alongside. Three of them leaped to the side of the Marshall car and announced: "This is a stickup."

From Mrs. Marshall they took a lavaliere and two rings, and from Marshall they took the cash. Then they compelled Mr. Marshall to drive them to Lunt avenue and the Northwestern tracks in Chicago. Warning the Marshalls to remain at that point for ten minutes, the bandits sped south into the city.

Four Youths Charged with 350 Robberies Bound Over

Four youths accused of 350 apartment burglaries were held to the grand jury in bonds of $50,000 each yesterday by Municipal Judge Samuel Heller. They were Richard Hayden, 17; Edward Ryan, 18; Clarence Fafford, 18, and Roy Provost, 18. Their "fence," who is said to have paid them small sums for property valued at more than $100,000, was also held. He was William Bruce, 6609 Dorchester avenue.

GOVERNOR SAYS CRIME IS FACING THE LEAN YEARS

Public Aroused, He Tells Elgin Kiwanians.

Public opinion in Chicago and elsewhere toward crime and governmental racketeering has swung from apathy to an aroused sentiment which is demanding changed conditions, Gov. Emmerson declared last night in an address before the Kiwanis club at Elgin.

The governor, discussing the crime situation, cited heavy increases in the populations of Illinois penal institutions as evidence that the last few years have been an era in which lawlessness has flourished. But the next few years, he predicted, will bring a turning of the tables with criminals on the defensive before a concerted attack by law enforcement agencies.

Problem for Whole Country.

"Chicago, the wonder city of the western world, has witnessed the evolution of the gangster, and Chicago is not alone," Gov. Emmerson said. "The problem is acute in almost all our larger cities and the ramifications of gangland are encroaching more and more upon our smaller communities.

"Twenty years ago the four state penal institutions of Illinois housed 3,483 men and women. Ten years ago that number had increased to 3,695, a gain of slightly more than 200. Today those four institutions—with the additions that have been constructed—house 8,545 men and women.

"Add to this number the total of those held at the St. Charles School for Boys, the Geneva Training School for Girls, and the State farm at Vandalia and you have the grand total of 10,279 persons being cared for by the state in its pententiaries or delinquency institutions.

The Rise in Appropriations.

"Twenty years ago appropriations to the state for its penal and welfare work amounted to $7,000,000 each biennium. During the last two years appropriations were slightly in excess of $40,000,000.

"We have clothed the gangster in a cloak of romance, rubbed shoulders with him in night clubs; and, while not condoning his activities, have, nevertheless, encouraged him through passiveness.

"Had this spirit of indifference to crime, which is only a sample of indifference to other vital problems of government, continued, we might well have asked ourselves what would be the future of government in the United States.

"However, changing conditions are bringing a renewed sense of personal responsibility. We can see that in the press, in the demand for organized warfare on racketeers, and in the attitude of the man on the street who is taking a new interest in matters of government. America is long suffering, but it will not submit forever to the whims of racketeers either in in gangland or in government."

Gov. Emmerson called attention to the recent efforts of his administration to aid in relieving unemployment through a public building program.

"In the realization of this great program, governmental agencies and private industry have joined hands," he said. "But towering far above private efforts is the governmental aid extended to the unemployed—not in the form of charity, but in employment through public works which will render a service through the years to come."

Rose Engel, 19 years old, of Muskegon, Mich., who jumped in the lake at 51st street when Earl Wyatt, 22, of Detroit, and other friends left without her to drive to Indianapolis for the automobile races, had fresh troubles yesterday. In the Morals court, where she and Earl faced a disorderly conduct charge, made by Hyde Park police following the lake episode, Rose told Judge Samuel Heller that she and Wyatt attempted to obtain a marriage license from the county clerk and failed.

A Michigan law requires notice of intent to marry five days before the ceremony. Residents of that state must abide by the law when they are in Illinois unless they have obtained the parents' consent. Judge Heller wired the girl's parents to ask for their consent, and continued the case until Monday, when he will marry the young couple if the consent is forthcoming. He released them on their own bonds.

DEMAND SEAWAY IMMEDIATELY AS AID TO JOBLESS

Ask Governments to Take Quick Action.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., May 29.—(AP)—Immediate construction of the St. Lawrence waterway as an international undertaking was favored tonight in a resolution passed by delegates to the on to the sea convention. The resolution, approved with pronounced enthusiasm, asked that necessary commissions be appointed immediately to negotiate a treaty between Canada and the United States enabling consummation of the project.

The resolution urges the development of the St. Lawrence project as a means of improving the unemployment situation in both Canada and the United States.

Says U. S. Backs Project.

M. J. Bell, of Minneapolis in an address said no political party in the United States dares to oppose development of the St. Lawrence waterway project.

He said he knew the feeling of 26 states of the western United States and asserted any opposition would be "swamped."

"This convention should make the governments move and move quickly," he concluded. "Whatever resolutions are adopted should be strong ones, and if the United States and Canada got together on the problem an agreement could be reached in 30 days."

The meeting here followed upon conferences held in Fort Arthur yesterday.

Others Approve View.

Other speakers approved the views expressed by Mr. Bell. Commissioner W. S. Moore of Duluth, Minn., said the two governments would welcome any expression of opinion that would show both countries solidly behind the project.

Capt. Sam Wright, lakehead president of the Navigators' association, said the time had come for the people of Canada to get behind the project and shove. As a marine man he spoke in the name of the people living along the shores of the great lakes.

AMERICAN FLYER POSTPONES HOP ACROSS PACIFIC

SAMUSHIRO BEACH, Japan, May 30.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Thomas Ash Jr., American aviator, decided not to start his 4,400 mile nonstop flight to Tacoma, Wash., today because of adverse winds here. His decision was made after his monoplane Pacific had been loaded with 1,020 gallons of gasoline early today.

The problem of getting the monoplane into the air with a ton and a half of fuel aboard is the chief concern of the flyer, who arrived here late yesterday afternoon after an uneventful flight from Tokio.

A section of the beach runway here has been planked for about 200 yards to give him a smooth start. After the plane shoots off the planked section it will taxi along the bare beach for a mile or more. Ash planned to attain a speed of 70 miles an hour before attempting to take the plane into the air.

ZAMORA RETAINS GRIP AS HEAD OF SPAIN'S REPUBLIC

Cabinet Spikes Report He Will Retire.

MADRID, May 29.—(AP)—After one of the longest sessions since the republic was established, the cabinet tonight emphatically denied persistent rumors that Niceto Alcala Zamora would retire as provisional president and be succeeded by Foreign Minister Alejandro Lerroux.

Despite the cabinet's statement that a crisis had been averted, it was generally believed tonight the government still faced a serious situation. There was some speculation in political circles as to whether the government would be able to continue without a change of personnel until the parlimentary election in June.

Some opposition has been expressed to the régime of President Zamora, who represents the "right republican party," on the ground that he is too conservative.

Cabinet Intact; No Resignations.

During its session the cabinet passed a measure designed to outlaw strikes. It provides for compulsory arbitration of all disputes under supervision of the government. Both sides would be equally represented and the decision of the arbitration body must be accepted. Any dissenters trying to foment disorders or to interrupt other workers will be imprisoned immediately.

Meanwhile the peseta dropped further on the exchange to a new low level of 11.28 to the dollar. The government made further efforts to reduce shipment of currency abroad, making new arrests of violators. Finance Minister Indalecio Prieto instructed mortgage banks to restrict mortgages on removable properties and to concede more credit to constructors in an effort to diminish unemployment.

Call 24 Hour Protest Strike.

At the town of Gijon, laborers called a 24 hour cessation of work as a protest against the killing of six persons during disorders at San Sebastian. Similar protests were held in Oviedo. At Seville the Syndicalist organization declared it would not accept any edicts of the labor minister and asked his resignation. This was regarded as a rebellion against Labor Minister Largo Caballero, who ordered all labor organizations to abstain from agitation.

The Vatican today presented a note to the government concerning the recent decree granting liberty of worship, suppressing of obligatory Catholicism of the schools and a more recent decree ordering an inventory of church properties. Papal Nuncio Tedeschini, who delivered the note, said it was couched in "moderate and courteous terms."

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF DEPRESSION.

People who have lost money in the present business reaction do not like to be told that the depression is psychological. A man out of a job, a man with his home foreclosed, a man with the dividends on which he lives or expects to live in his old age reduced or passed, a man with pay rolls to meet out of depleted earnings, is suffering from something more palpable than a state of mind.

Nevertheless, millions of his fellow Americans who are more fortunate are in a state of mind, are suffering from a psychological condition which is not the effect of their own material losses. Gen. Dawes calls this mass pessimism, an excellent term. It is composed of much more than reasoned thought upon the tangible facts of financial losses and business recession. It is very largely unreasoning anxieties and vague fears, and in this respect is a moral reaction from the enthusiasms or comfortable assurances of yesterday. Thus if we were excessive in our self-confidence then, we are equally excessive in our lack of self-confidence now. If we are paying, as we are, for the former, we are paying too high a price in the latter. This is a mood as wide as the world-wide depression, but less justifiable in America than anywhere else. Mr. Paul Mahony of the International Goodrich company did not exaggerate when he said we are victims of "a most damnable kind of psychology," the very root of our present condition. Its influence, moreover, is not as vague as itself, for, as he points out, it has paralyzed rational buying, "an all consuming plague" which is throwing people out of employment or keeping them out, and adding "more and more to the curtailment of industry and commerce at home and abroad."

It is in no disposition to belittle the economic facts of our situation or the practical difficulties in the way of restoration that we insist upon the psychology the reaction has created. But it is essential to the removal of these difficulties and to our restoration, gradual as that must be, that we make intelligent and determined effort to correct the emotional excess of our depression. The repair of our material conditions requires a repair of our morale.

Is this impossible? Must the restoration of our morale wait upon the restoration of our material conditions? That, we believe, is false logic. It is not practical or realistic. The contrary is true. The restoration of our material prosperity might be, we think would be, forced upon us in due time by the automatic action of economic laws upon the enormous resources which the maladjustments of this time have not destroyed. But we are weaklings if we wait for that. Restoration can and should be hastened by a willed restoration of normal American pluck and ambition, of the spirit which through generations of our national existence has sustained them through far worse misfortunes than we have suffered and are suffering at this time.

It is false psychology to call this an impractical demand. If the human spirit, the morale of peoples had depended upon good fortune, we should never have progressed. It is nearer truth to say that progress comes from ill fortune. At any rate it comes from the conquest of ill fortune. It is fairer to say that it comes from a combination of both.

Is it impractical to ask cheerful courage and determination in moments of depression and mischance? Is it futile to expect a deliberate optimism in hard circumstances? The history of our own people, to say nothing of others, answers no. What is happening to us now in this moment of mass pessimism is a weak if natural preoccupation with our past losses and our present difficulties, plus an exaggerated fear of the future. Is it impossible by the exercise of our wills and our common sense to correct this instead of waiting for the automatic return of better conditions? If we know human nature we know it is not. We know we can direct our thought to the elements of our strength and ease to keep it, as too many of us are doing, upon the material difficulties we are confronting. Our forbears did it. We can and it is at once the most practicable and the most essential thing for us to do.

We are not underestimating difficulties. They are complicated and serious. But if we will think of the resources we possess to overcome them we shall find our mood changing very rapidly and the material conditions with it. It is easy to be cynical about the psychology of business depression, but our psychology is at the root of our trouble today, and what is of the very first importance is to realize that our psychology is within our own control. We are making ourselves the victims of our doubts and fears. We can put them under foot and move forward as our ancestors did before us in far worse days than ours.

The United States today possesses the greatest capital resources in its history or in the history of any other country. It has a financial and banking system more solid, as events have proven, and more effective for the support of our commerce and industry than it ever had in past crises. It has the greatest system of industry, the highest organization for the production of wealth in our history. It has, we believe, the best political institutions and the widest distribution of prosperity of any great nation. It has unexhausted natural resources and among these perhaps the greatest is a population of 130,000,000 people of unsurpassed intelligence, character, and ambition.

These are the fundamentals of our situation and they insure the restoration of American prosperity and progress. Do they deserve to be ignored as so many of us are ignoring them today? On the contrary, they should be the solid groundwork of our thought, more than ever now that the maladjustments of the business reaction are obstructing their full operation. And they are not remote generalities which offer no comfort to the man out of a job and looking in vain for work, to the business man oppressed with cares, the railroad man and industrialist, the farmer and mechanic and white collar man fearful of his employment, the home owner, the borrower and the lender. We are not asking any one to deny any reality of their condition. That would be insincere and worse than futile. But it is reasonable to demand of every American, captain or soldier in the ranks, to respect the great realities upon which the power and welfare of the nation, of all the American people, rest securely, to have faith in their support and in that wise faith to work with courage and energy and resourcefulness to overcome our individual difficulties and thus restore our common prosperity.

We have so much confidence in these fundamentals that we believe they will assert themselves in spite of our psychology. But we have it in our power to hasten that process through intelligent faith in them and in ourselves. That is the first duty of each of us today, to ourselves, to each other, a duty that is not sentimental but most practical, a duty each of us can perform, as we perform the duties of patriotism in war.

These, we think, are not inappropriate thoughts for Memorial day. What we commemorate today is not merely the men who died on the battlefield of the republic, but the courage and high hearted devotion which was their undying gift to our country. They faced greater evils and dangers than any we are called upon to face in this hour. They made a greater sacrifice, the highest of all. Their strong hearts are dust, but their example and their heritage is in our keeping. It is not too much to ask of ourselves, on so much easier terms, the courage, the self-mastery, and the faith that shine in their memory.

THE MAYORS ABROAD.

Mr. Stimson should be advised to get the American mayors out of France. The method will not be investigated or protested by any sensible person. Whatever the state department does will be ultra vires, but emergencies do not allow choosers. Mr. Stimson could ask Mr. Adams of the navy department to send the marines after them. Mr. Woodcock, director of prohibition, could send some prohibition agents, but that would be tough on the mayors' families unless the mayors are well insured. Of course the marines then would have to go after the agents and it might be objected in a year of the big deficit that doubling the expense was profligate.

However it is done, the arm of the republic must soon reach out for the mayors. An approach might be made by trying a few cablegrams of varied import. "The chief of police has confessed." "Your connection with the Universal Paving company has been discovered." "The boll weevil is in your cotton." "Your note's overdue at the bank." "Hijackers have been in your cellar." "You are invited to address the state convention of the Anti-Saloon league." But the mayors are probably beyond the reach of suggestion. They would open another case and remark that they should worry.

It could have been perceived in the beginning that it would be a mistake to conduct twenty-one American mayors in a body into France. What they would know as the kick would be too powerful. The naïve native political genius would come out with the second bottle. They would think of God's country, the Acme Sheet Metal works, the Rotary Tuesday lunch, Monday wash day, the old family tooth brush, the peach blossom festival, their boys in college, the Unknown Soldier and Cal Coolidge. They would drape their arms about their French hosts and tell them about it and the French would be bewildered. The mayors would get red in the face and make speeches. They would have another little bottle and sing "Sweet Adeline." They would have twenty-one ideas of what they should do next and none would conform to the program of entertainment.

These sons of freedom should be induced to come home or they should be shanghaied while they are still happy and the French are still indulgent. The American ambassador should settle for the broken glass and be liberal with the tips. And pronto.

Editorial of the Day

A NEW SUPREME COURT!

[New York World-Telegram.]

There are stories which cause more fireworks and get bigger headlines every day, but we are inclined to believe that the new development in the United States Supreme court is just about the biggest Washington news of the decade.

Repeatedly during the last year the three youngest members of the court—Roberts, Hughes, and Stone—have joined with Holmes and Brandeis, turning the old minority into a majority.

To what extent the attitude of the three new members is explained by their admittedly superior intellects, or to what extent their attitude is influenced unconsciously by the higher standards of Supreme court integrity set by public discussion during the last year is a matter of interesting but perhaps fruitless speculation.

Here are some of the new majority's decisions Monday:

In the Yetta Stromberg case it once more exposed California "justice" and threw out that state's red flag law as unconstitutional. There the question was constitutional human rights.

In other cases it refused to be blinded by property rights. It upheld the constitutionality of the Indiana law imposing a graduated tax on chain stores—without, of course, passing on the virtue or evil of the law, which was none of its business.

It upheld the validity of the Boulder dam act. It upheld the Ohio excise tax on public utilities. It upheld an order of the California railroad commission against three western roads refusing to use a union station in Los Angeles.

It declined to review a public utility case against the city of Indianapolis. It threw out an invalid patent on the carbon dioxide method of refrigerating foodstuffs.

Finally, the court upheld the right of the government to refuse oil and gas prospecting permits in the interest of conservation.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By AA.

OR, DO WE?

Are we as American citizens sufficiently interested in the affairs of government down at Washington? Are we? Also, huh? We may think we are showing more or less interest when we figure on how to smoke Old Man Prosperity from his hiding place around the corner. But is that enough? Let us consider what they are talking about right now in the higher government circles in Washington. It is all about the appointment of social secretaries and whether silk hats should be worn at state breakfasts and who walks in front of whom, and, if so, why? Are canes de rigueur at all times, and should one carry a malacca cane when escorting the minister from Panpanqua if the said minister from Panpanqua is carrying a cane that looks like an old mop handle? Should the Third Assistant Secretary of This Department or That at Washington run after the hat that has been blown from the head of an august ambassador, or should he assert his sturdy American independence and say, "Ah, chase it yerself, funny face"? At a dinner in a foreign embassy should an American high dignitary call the attention of the flunky to the fact that his cocktail glass is empty again, or should he remember the 18th amendment and not request a second helping? Should purple spats be worn to a consulate tea or spats of mauve, and should an American ever get chummy enough with a foreign diplomat to say, "Lissen, Old Beeswax, I'm not asking yuh, I'm tellin' yuh"? These are big, serious questions in Washington. Us sovereign voters in the hinterland should ponder them likewise.

MEMORIAL DAY, AT GETTYSBURG.

(TO THE PASSING LEGION.)

O Years—long years—strong years—
Your heavy feet have trampled down this sod.
O Springs—bright springs—young springs—
Your tender feet have trod
So many times, and left sweet blooms behind
Since my young father rose with ashen face,
In sodden blue, and left his blood to grace—
To hallow, for all coming time,
This sacred place.

O Years—long years—strong years—
When love shall bring us back again
To make old covenants anew
With those that sleep—with those that yet remain;
To grasp the oriflamme from tired hands
When shriven souls depart;
To hold it high—to keep it without stain—
That they may know, who lie so still of heart—
(Who gave young years—long years—strong years.)
They did not live—they have not died, in vain.

MABEL GREGG.

MEXICO has made a law punishing by imprisonment anybody playing or singing the national hymn in a barber shop. Nobody would mind if that law were made in the United States regarding "Oh, say, can you see?" But if the law said anything about "Sweet Adeline" or "My Old Kentucky Home" there would be rebellion.

"AND WHY," whys Touring Tess, "does not the hitch-hiker who stands at the side of the road wiggling his thumb for a free ride from some soft-hearted and likewise headed motorist go down to the railroad station and make that same sign at railroad trains?" It's a grand idea, hitch-hikers; you ought to try it, anyhow.

AH, THAT'S THE QUESTION.

Via the Baltimore Sunpapah, via the Christian Herald for those who haven't heard it yet; the rest of you can get started to the country three minutes earlier today. It seems that John Erskine went down to Chattanooga to lecture at the university, and the prexy there, Dr. Alexander Guerry, went in person to the station to meet their distinguished guest. Dr. Guerry had never met Dr. Erskine, and, choosing two eligible looking gents, he stepped up to each of them in turn, asking them politely if they were the visiting author. Neither of them was. Later, when he had Erskine safely captured, he told him about it. "I asked one gentleman if it were Dr. Erskine, and he said emphatically, 'I should say not!'" narrated Dr. Guerry, with chuckles. "I asked a second man, and he said, 'I wish I were.' That shows at least one man has read your books." "Yes, it does," replied Dr. Erskine, "but which one?"

STRANGE!

R. H. L.: A uniformed collector for the unfortunate knocked at the door. "We're helping the unemployed," he said, holding out his tambourine to me. And when I took a dime from it you should have seen the dirty look he gimme.

LINES ON A FLY-LEAF.

Laughs from her silence when new songs are sung.

Somewhere the deserts of Syrtis are death
That all men may savor them before days grow duller—

So with all women: only poets' pages
Dulce loquentem, when passion hottest rages,
A man can face his heart's black wolf with thoughts of Lalage.
Dulce ridentem, Lalagen amabo—

AS IT WAS.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., recently celebrated its fiftieth anniversary. The Evening Dispatch story of conditions as they were in that city does not differ in essentials from the situation that was general in the upper Mississippi valley in that era. "The great bane of the town was ague, and the worst form of it was what was known as 'dumb ague.' There was the barrel to catch the soft rain water, filled with wigglers that soon developed into mosquitoes.

"The sewer system consisted of ditches on both sides of the street, in which the kids could wade and catch bullfrogs and minnies. Lake Michigan was all right to look at or ride on, but to be used as something to bathe in was scarcely thought of except by some boys and, for them, bathing suits were an unknown quantity. It was not considered proper for a woman to go in bathing. The Saturday evening tub in the kitchen was reserved for that formality.

"The treatment of the ague was whisky and quinine and the cost of the former, about two dollars a gallon, made it the more popular remedy. At least, that was the excuse that was sometimes given. The method of treatment was about as follows: You first took a bath, and then got in between sheets that had been soaked in cold water. Then quilts and blankets were piled on and these were topped by a buffalo robe. Meanwhile, the patient was doped with whisky, quinine, boneset or quassia tea, followed with compound cathartic pills. Later, a rubdown was given and the patient was transferred to a dry bed. If the sheets turned green then the 'pizen' had been soaked out of the system. The patient either got better or died, depending largely upon whether the cure worked or not."

Malaria was everywhere in the upper Mississippi valley from the settlement of the country up to about fifty years ago. It may have been that the disease was imported, but once it got in there were plenty of mosquitoes of the right kind to spread it, and plenty of standing water for these mosquitoes to breed in.

All that was needed was some people with ague to infect the mosquitoes. After they became infected there were plenty of people to pass it on to; and those people knew little enough about how to protect themselves against the disease, or how to cure it once they got it. The method of cure they used was crude, uncomfortable, and highly inefficient. Whether they got well or died was dependent more on how badly they were infected. Whether the cure worked or not had but little to do with the recovery. They threw the disease off by main strength and awkwardness. Finally, the price of quinine went down and the price of whisky up, and the combination was broken. Then treatment became more effective.

Meanwhile, the underbrush was being cleared, the land was being drained. All of this worked together to rid the people of malaria. Later, those surface sewer ditches were abolished. Good water supplies were established and typhoid followed malaria into the discard.

SYMPTOMS OF ASTHMA.

R. M. S. writes: What are the symptoms of asthma? Do you think any certain food could cause it? It seems that the patient has difficulty in breathing. This starts in the spring, although she doesn't cough at any time. If it is caused by a certain food, and that is eliminated by the diet, do you think that patient can be cured?

REPLY.

The well known symptom for this well known disorder is the one you mention. Cough is present in some kinds of asthma, but it is not an essential symptom in any kind except bronchial.

There being many kinds of asthma, there are also many causes. Those kinds that result from sensitization to certain foods are cured or prevented by avoiding the foods that cause them.

When a person finds out that he has asthma, he should next find out what kind he has, then the cause or causes and, after that, the remedies. He is ready then to act.

BLISTERS ON THE FEET.

D. E. R. writes: What is the cause of small blisters appearing on the soles of the feet? I pierce them with a sterilized needle, water comes from them, I put iodine on the open sore, and it heals up. This continues on other places of the soles of the feet. They heal up almost in a day or two after they are pierced and the water comes out.

Could this be from improper shoes, or is it a symptom of some disease?

REPLY.

This disease is known as pompholyx. Most cases are due to ringworm.

SIDEWALK PARKING.

Chicago, May 20.—[Friend of the People.]—Perhaps I am wrong, but I have an impression that the sidewalks are intended for the virtually independent use of pedestrians and not for parking of autos. But there are auto stores that take up half the width of walks for the display of their goods. One such case is on North Clark street, which I pass often. M. T.

The captain commanding this district makes the following report: Owner of the garage complained of was interviewed and he admitted that he had an automobile parked on the sidewalk until about May 1, when he was ordered to remove it, which he did, and has not used the sidewalk for that purpose since. The Ford crew will see that he does not park on the sidewalk again.

MUST SHOW BREACH OF FAITH.

Lakewood, O., May 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some time ago I wired my broker [who has power of attorney] to sell stock, the income of which is nearly all upon which I have to depend. He phoned from New York that the stock was O. K. and that he would sell if there was any cause for alarm. In the meantime I noticed in the paper it had gone into the hands of a receiver. I wrote him and he replied he was sorry that through his advice I had lost. As a member of a reliable firm, is he not responsible? N. C. W.

Since you acquiesced in his disregarding your instructions, you would not be in a position to hold him for damages unless you could show additional facts amounting to a breach of good faith.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INDIANA ESTATES.

Chicago, May 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father owned [not jointly] a lot in Griffith, Lake county, Indiana. He died in 1924 and no will was made. Since that time the writer has paid taxes on the property. The only other heirs are my mother and his sister. The latter lives in a foreign country. What procedure is necessary in order to have the title to the property pass to my mother and me as joint tenants? V. C. H.

The distribution of Indiana estates depends in part on the value of the total assets. If the facts are such that the sister has an interest, then it would be necessary either to get her to quitclaim her interest or to file partition proceedings and buy in at the partition sale.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 30, 1915.

BERLIN.—The German reply to the American note sent after the sinking of the Lusitania was signed by Herr von Jagow, the foreign minister, at 11 o'clock last night and delivered to Ambassador Gerard this forenoon for transmission to Washington.

ROME.—The Italian campaign is developing along three well defined lines in the shape of advances toward the Austrian cities of Trent and Trieste and in the province of Carinthia. The most important strategic victory for Italy since the war began was won by the hardy Alpine troops in the Trentino.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. John Timothy Stone paid a tribute to the gallantry of Herbert S. Stone, who lost his life when the Lusitania was torpedoed. At the beginning of his remarks at the memorial services in the Fourth Presbyterian church, Dr. Stone read a dispatch which stated that the late Mr. Stone had lost his life after giving his life preserver to a woman passenger. The theme of Dr. Stone's sermon was built on this dispatch—the fact that Mr. Stone gave his life to save another.

NEW YORK.—The will of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who was drowned in the sinking of the Lusitania, was filed in the surrogate's office. The total value of the estate is estimated at $30,000,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson has completed his ultimatum to th warring factions of Mexico—that unless they compose their differences and establish an orderly government the United States will be compelled to undertake the task of pacifying the country.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

BARTOW, Fla.—Fred Rochelle, a Negro, 35 years old, who yesterday assaulted and then murdered Mrs. Rena Taggart, a white woman, was burned at the stake early today in the presence of a throng of people on the scene of his crime, within 100 yards of the principal thoroughfare of this city. He was taken from the jail by the mob and dragged screaming and praying for mercy to the place. A stake was driven into the ground, to which he was chained, cans of kerosene oil poured upon him, and the match applied. In fifteen minutes the body burned and the crowd dispersed.

BOSTON, Mass.—The trial of the libel suit brought by Mrs. Josephine Curtis Woodbury against Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science, in which damages of $150,000 are asked, was begun today. The feature of the session was the reading to the jury of the answer of Mrs. Eddy to the complaints. She admitted she authorized the message on which the damage claim is based, but denied that the words quoted from Revelation referred to her former friend or any other human being. The most distinguished appearing array of folks who have appeared in the courthouse for a long time crowded the building, but they were disappointed over the fact that Mrs. Eddy, who is 80 years old, was not present.

PARIS.—M. Fournier won the Paris-Bordeaux automobile race, covering 345 miles in 8 hours 44 minutes and 44 seconds.

CHICAGO.—The second annual 100 mile road race of the American Century Wheelmen will be run over the Libertyville-Waukegan course today. The start will be made from the Chicago avenue waterworks at 5:30 a. m. The roads are in excellent condition, although there is considerable dust.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 30, 1881.

CHICAGO.—The Grand Opera house was crowded from parquet to the topmost gallery yesterday with ladies and gentlemen assembled to assist in the memorial services in honor of the patriot dead, conducted under auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic. Among the speakers were the Hon. E. B. Washburn and the Rev. George C. Miln. Other Sunday memorial services were held throughout the city. Today there will be a parade and public business will be to a considerable extent suspended.

VERA CRUZ.—Gen. Grant and his party sailed on the City of Marida for New Orleans.

MADRID.—Miss Emma Thursby sang last night in the opera house before the king and queen, the infantas, and a select court audience. She was warmly applauded and encored.

CHICAGO.—The Hon. John A. Logan returned from Washington.

CHICAGO.—The Lake street cars commenced running yesterday and were pretty well patronized, although that the line was open for travel was not generally known. These cars will relieve Randolph street and it will now be possible for several more thousand people to get a seat going home after business hours.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The Needles revenue bill came from the house divested of its emergency clause. Senators Campbell and Condee opposed a concurrence in the amendment because there was a grave chance of the tax assessment being vitiated by the bill, but it was the old, old story of the country against Cook county. The delegation from the lake shore fought hard, but the amendment was concurred in by a vote of 35 ayes to 6 nays, the half dozen, it is unnecessary to say, being from Cook.

THE KIRKLAND VERDICT.

Chicago, May 27.—The Kirkland decision certainly makes me ashamed of my native state. The verdict is more than a travesty on justice. It is a revelation of the depth to which organized society has sunk. It is a declaration by men that the purity of womanhood no longer matters, for men cannot be consistent if they demand purity of their women and fail to punish adequately those who violate it. It is a signboard so huge that all may read thereon the new pronouncement that rape as a legal fact no longer exists. Rape is merely a word to influence the passions of the low and shock the senses of the decent. This new pronouncement is an invitation to all the low minded youth of the present day to follow Kirkland's example. Where does the safety of our women lie? Not in the keeping of our men, certainly, when juries of men render verdicts like that.

That verdict is testimony that unconsciousness is not proof of an unwilling victim, that resistance resulting in death is not sufficient to clear the silent dead of charges brought by the vile and low who live. It is proof that any charge any one wants to bring against any woman holds. It is proof further of the time honored observation that a woman herself is to blame for any misfortune that may befall her. Being of inferior strength, she has no right to be alone with men. She is legitimate prey if she does. Her only safe refuge is the nunnery. "Be only where men are not," is the only safe code of conduct.

O, Indiana, hide your head. The stars in the heavens, the sun in the sky must be ashamed of the very light they shed on you. Your shame lies not so much in Kirkland, whom all had supposed to be acting without the law, as in the men who defended him and in the men who judged him. SHAMED HOOSIER.

THE WOMAN PAYS.

Chicago, May 27.—The woman gets death and after that her name is dragged through the mud and grime—the man gets freedom. That's life!

CAROL DUNNE.

IN HORROR AND TERROR.

Chicago, May 27.—The verdict at Valparaiso, Ind., is appalling in its implications. From now on there is only a year's imprisonment to protect us from death and worse than death. Not enough to curb the brutal instincts of depraved men. In our horror and terror we long for the quick justice of the southern people.. YOUNG WOMAN.

PASSING OUT THE HONORS.

Chicago, May 27.—After reading the verdict of the Kirkland trial, I suggest, to further the interests of justive, that they award the Distinguished Service Cross to Virgil's companions in public welfare work. CICELY SCHILLER.

A MOTHER'S COMMENT.

Chicago, May 27.—Well, let me, as a mother, tell the whole world that they would need no judges, juries, courtrooms, or audiences of any kind if such a thing should happen to daughters of mine. MOTHER OF TWO DAUGHTERS.

THE DEMANDS OF JUSTICE.

Chicago, May 27.—Arlene had her fling and paid dearly for it. Kirkland shared in the pleasure, but is unwilling to face the consequences. Without Virgil Kirkland, Arlene Draves would not have died. Therefore it is a matter not of the character of those involved nor even of their intentions but purely a matter of exacting proper restitution for the regrettable outcome. Virgil should die because Arlene died. DAVID TOEDT.

THE FEDERAL COUNCIL IN POLITICS.

New York, May 22.—In your editorial of May 17, entitled "Churches in Politics," you make a reference to the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America which is so misleading that I must ask for brief space in your columns for a correction.

You refer to the Federal Council of Churches as "maintaining a lobby at Washington," but the truth is that the Federal Council maintains no lobby at Washington and employs no lobbyist.

Again, you refer to the Federal Council as a "political organization," but the truth is that the Federal Council is nothing of the sort. It never participates in elections in any way, never supports or opposes any candidate for public office and never uses any of the methods of partisan politics. What it does do is to carry on careful research into social and international questions and to make its findings and its point of view widely known. Its one method of procedure is an appeal to the court of public opinion, which is the final source of authority in any democratic government.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE may differ with the Federal Council of Churches at many points, but I am sure that THE TRIBUNE does not want to be in the position of making false statements as to what the Federal Council actually is and does and that you will therefore be glad to publish this letter.

SAMUEL MCCREA CAVERT,

PLACING THE BLAME.

Chicago, May 26.—In all the reams of publicity about the tax muddle in this county and state there seems to be no inclination to put the blame where it belongs. Probably a newspaper could not afford to point out the fact that the general stupidity of the electorate is directly responsible. If all these wailing taxpayers would review their attitudes on questions of public policy for the last ten years, a glimmer of understanding might get through the clouds of despair. Although there is no evidence of improvement in the public's stand on tax problems, the continuation of the slump will force a little hard thinking. It is always well to remember that the quality of democratic government never rises above the group intelligence, and the newspapers are chiefly responsible for the level of such intelligence.

ROBERT W. SHOEMAKER.

A BAD SMELL.

La Grange, Ill., May 27.—Some industry is causing the air to be polluted with a stench that is causing residents in the western suburbs from Riverside to La Grange to take to cover in their homes, closing their windows and in other ways barricading themselves against the pollution of the air. This stench emanates from the vicinity of Summit, somewhere near the intersections of Lawndale and Archer avenues. The stockyards in its worst days could not possibly have caused such stench. Certainly such pollution of the air cannot be healthful, and it should be within the power of the county health authorities to put a stop to the pollution.

J. F. DANIELSON.

RELIGION IN POLITICS.

Chicago, May 17.—It is not denied that there are Protestant influences working in political Washington, but why pick on Protestants? Is it not true that Catholics are just as active when it comes to sidetracking legislation unfavorable to them?

No well informed student of history disputes Catholic political activity in any country they touch, not excepting our own, and yet you never take them to task. H. S. WRIGHT.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. She and her mother lived in a remote section of Paris. Clare attended a school play one evening and was brought home by friends. Her mother heard the car stop in front of the house and Clare's friends bidding her good night, but when she opened the door Clare had vanished.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of great charm, but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmauron.

Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood, about to depart for Africa, has postponed his trip to help Iris.

Iris moves to her aunt's home. When she arrives she learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character, and has taken charge of the search for Clare. Iris has been seeing Clare, unknown to her mother, for some time past, and knows more of the child's life and her friends than Iris.

Alan is refused admittance at the home of the comtesse. Iris sees him secretly and tells him that on account of her aunt's financial assistance she cannot offend her. They plan to meet at Helen Roderick's, the American woman for whom Iris has been working. Alan meets Marcel at Helen's and learns that they are friends, unknown to Iris. He recalls having seen Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily, and hobnobbing with a coarse looking couple. Alan runs across an old friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, and asks his help. They drop in a café, where Alan sees the woman who was one of De Bertincourt's companions in Le Touquet. They go to Tommy's apartment. Tommy shows Alan an apartment opposite, formerly Marcel's but now occupied by Suzanne Marly, an actress. As he is leaving, Alan sees Marcel entering Miss Marly's home. Helen tells Alan that she had dinner with Marcel the night Clare disappeared. Alan receives a wire giving him an extra fortnight's leave in Paris.

Iris receives a letter stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay the sum asked if Marcel and Iris will become reconciled. Marcel interrupts a visit at Helen's of Iris and Alan. He offers to drive them home. He drops Iris off first and accompanies Alan to his hotel room.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

TRICKERY.

De Bertincourt had grown suddenly quiet. His eyes steadied with a look of concentration.

"It is an excellent idea," he replied slowly. "Yes, it might solve our difficulty. Only you, too—are you sure you could do it without being detected?"

"I think so. I would take every precaution." As he spoke Charnwood felt a thrill of excitement over the thought whose guilt might be uncovered. Without Iris' permission he could not go to the commissariat with his story, but armed with the letter as an excuse, there was nothing to stop him from telling all he suspected. If the comtesse were revealed as the culprit, what marvelous luck for all concerned!

Meanwhile De Bertincourt showed himself unexpectedly practical.

"When do you propose doing this, monsieur?" he demanded almost sharply. "Now—this very evening?"

"If your wife consents."

Already the man had leaped up, fired with the project.

"I will go at once and implore my wife to give the letter to us. I know the great respect she has for your discretion. Still, she is in such a panic over this she may refuse. You will wait for me here?"

"Certainly—but if you don't come, I shall quite understand."

clock. "Diable!" he exclaimed, horrified. "It is actually seven o'clock! I must crave your pardon for inflicting myself on you all this long time—but it has been a relief to me, monsieur, and your suggestion gives me fresh hope." Picking up his hat and stick, he left.

He was gone. Charnwood, hearing the lift door clang, found it hard to believe that any of this had really happened. To think he had spent almost an hour here, in his own bedroom, listening to the emotional outpourings of Iris' husband, a man he wanted to hate. Anyhow, he was glad it was over. The strain had tired him.

Uncovering Iris' photograph, he gazed at it in curious perturbation, and so doing, recalled with a start the folded card she had slipped into his hand. He drew it forth and eagerly examined the wavering lines penciled on it, finding a somewhat cryptic message: "Leclerc, Rue Tronchet," and below, evidently written in haste, "St. Julien-le-Pauvre, 11 tomorrow."

The latter must indicate a rendezvous for continuing their conversation, but the other? He puzzled over it for some moments, his mind a blank. Leclerc—Rue Tronchet. . . . Of course! Now he understood. It was the address of the florist shop which she had been on the point of mentioning when her husband's entry put a stop to it.

All his thoughts rushed back to the question of the delivery man and what he might possibly represent. There was nothing in it, he feared, and yet the person had undoubtedly taken a long time to ring the bell. Could the interval have been used for some maneuver? He resolved to investigate the matter immediately. If he hurried he might just make it before De Bertincourt came back. He rushed down, found a taxi, and raced towards the Madeleine, wondering meanwhile if it was really De Bertincourt who had sent those flowers. The comtesse might have done it, using her nephew's name.

He located the shop easily, fifty yards along the Rue Tronchet—a compact, chic affair, its name blazoned in silver script with a small 1, twin bay trees guarding the entrance, and a single jar of gigantic rose colored chrysanthemums decorating the shop window. However—bad luck to it—the place was closed. If only De Bertincourt had not stayed so long! Annoyed and disappointed, he reëntered his taxi and tore back again, half expecting to find his visitor returned with the letter.

"No, monsieur, no one has called," the manager informed him. "But wait—one moment, monsieur! A few minutes ago there was a wire for you, received over the telephone. I took it down myself."

"Over the telephone?" repeated Charnwood, surprised.

"Yes, it was marked urgent, and the operator said the confirmation would follow later. Ah, here it is!"

He produced a slip of paper, at which Charnwood stared in stupefaction. On it was scrawled the following words:

"Royal Pump Court House, Bath, England.—Machinery now working. Imperative you return at once. Pick up Helsinfors Berg tomorrow Thursday without fail. CALDWELL."

After an interval of stunned fury Charnwood dragged a copy of the Times from his overcoat pocket and ran his eye over the shipping list. Yes, there it was—the Helsinfors Berg, a small Scandinavian liner he had hardly heard of, due to touch at Marseilles the following day. No chance of escape—the London office had planned the whole thing out.

Conscious that the manager was eyeing him with partial understanding, he stood irresolute, shaken to the very foundations with resentment and chagrin. This was a positive command which he must either obey or resign his post. The former course meant the almost certain wreckage of his future happiness, the latter would subject him to the stigma of insubordination. Was ever man so miserably trapped?

Since his talk with Iris this afternoon he was more than ever convinced of her need for protection. If the wretched situation had indeed been organized by the comtesse, no one but himself had the least hope of defeating it, since no one else, except Tommy, entertained any doubts of her. With these ruthless orders mocking him, it was not for the hapless Clare that he felt concern. She was a mere pawn in the game. No, it was Iris and himself—De Bertincourt, too, though that did not so much matter—who were being trampled under foot.

He studied the telegram again. The actual name of the Royal Pump House hotel conjured up a picture of his chief lounging in slothful ease whilst he pulled the strings which wrought destruction. If the old man dimly suspected the issues involved, would he have done this harsh and wanton thing? A few days' additional absence could not ruin the great dam.

He was a good sort, Sir Donald Caldwell, a brusque but kindly Scotsman, during the war years associated with Charnwood's father in Whitehall. It suddenly occurred to Charnwood as a last hope to try a personal appeal. He directed the manager to put through a call to Bath, then ascended to his room and began angrily hurling his belongings into his trunk.

The hour was propitious, the lines clear. Within twenty minutes he was summoned to the booth below, where presently he was greeted by a familiar gruff voice.

"Who's that? O, Charnwood!" Sir Donald sounded surprised. "Certainly. What? Only just received my wire? Good God, these damned French are careless! You . . . how's that? Extend your leave a few days longer? I don't follow. Why, man, I told you to take another fortnight. Second telegram? Rubbish, I only sent one. Don't you suppose I know what wires I've sent? The dam's held up, I tell you; no one of a mess. . . Don't argue—some fool must be having a game with you. Better look into it."

Petrified, Charnwood dropped the receiver. The wave of gratified relief which swept over him engulfed every other emotion, but as it receded a question stood out starkly, liked a jazzed bowlder at low tide.

"Some fool having a game!" A deucedly nasty game it was. Who had taken this method of driving him away? For that was what it amounted to. The motive behind it was plain.

Good morning!

There's a word in the English language that I detest; but it seems the only adequate one to describe this picture. "Women of All Nations" is lousy.

The film registers a pitiful attempt to revive the popularity of those two lusty marines, Flagg and Quirt, who had such rousing success in "What Price Glory" and "The Cockeyed World." It's as flat as a pancake and doesn't fall with a dull, sickening thud, because it hasn't even enough body to cause a thud. It is a clumsily moving mass of clap-trap. It is too dull to be offensive.

Through regard for parents' and teachers' associations, censors and, possibly to avoid being pink ticketed, "Women of All Nations" is notably without profanity. Capt. Flagg calls Sergt. Quirt a quince and the sergeant flings "You big custard!" at Flagg. Or, maybe, vice versa. Does it matter?

The hard boiled marines visit Brooklyn, Panama, Scandinavia, and Turkey this time, and, in every port, battle to th' death over dames. Be it said for the latter that they are all pretty ladies. Nice to see Greta Nissen again.

Messrs. McLaglen and Lowe do the best they can with the material at hand. Both are capable actors and hard workers. El Brendel is ever present, performing in his customary sly, silly, suggestive fashion. To me he is the most offensive man on the screen.

If there's a kick or a laugh in "Women of All Natons"—you find it. I couldn't.

QUALITY: Fair.

ACTING: Sincere but far from brilliant.

DIRECTION: Done with a heavy hand.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND, SETS, and SCENERY: Satisfactory.

MUSIC: There isn't much. What there is—isn't much.

STORY: Be sure and get a program for without one the pantomime with its accompanying all-German dialogue is completely incomprehensible to non-Germans. As told on the program the tale is not a very interesting one. It is concerned with the affairs, heart and otherwise, of Wuerzburg students and their acquaintances.

Princess Beatrice, Alfonso's Daughter, Engaged to Cousin

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, May 29.—(AP)—The engagement of Princess Beatrice, daughter of Spain's exiled king, and Don Antonio Alvaro of Orleans, son of the king's cousin, was announced today by a representative of the former monarch. They will be married in November or December, but the announcement did not name the place.

The two young people—the princess is not yet 22 and Don Antonio is a year younger—were reported engaged last March, but the rumor was denied. They had spent much time together and their friends call it a love match.

Don Antonio, like his father, Don Alfonso of Orleans, is an aviation enthusiast and flies his own airplane. The princess has interested herself in nursing and had completed a course at a nursing school in Madrid before her father was overthrown.

Gloomy Dean Visions Utopia for Year 2931

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—No wars, army, navy, or taxes, parliament sitting only two weeks every year, politics no longer a "dirty trade," large families neither approved nor desired, people being not allowed to have children without certificates of bodily and mental fitness, no lawyers, crime rare and never punished by imprisonment, sane dress universal, and sunbathing ad lib. These were some of the high spots in a vision of a remarkable England, a thousand years hence, as pictured by Dean Inge for the benefit of an audience of intellectuals at the Royal Institution in London tonight.

The dean's Utopia may "seem a little frivolous," as he himself admitted in explaining that his reason for describing it was chiefly in self-protection and for the purpose of destroying the "unfounded legend" that he was fond of finding fault with society without suggesting anything better to replace it—or, in other words, that he is the "gloomy dean," as is popularly imagined.

The dean's dream of England in the year 2931 gives the maximum population of Great Britain at 20,000,000—half of the present total.

"The A-1 husband or wife will be as much sought after as wealth and titles are now," he said. "Physical perfections will be cultivated. The rational costume of both sexes will be cheap, becoming and scanty and enable beauty to be recognized in body and limbs as well as in the face. War will be entirely abolished, as well as all tariff walls. Most nations will be nearly self-supporting. Since there will be no wars, no navy, no national debt or foreign politics, no doles or class bribery by taxation, the functions of the central government will be almost nominal. The parliament, meeting a fortnight every year, will be a dignified and elderly senate composed largely of former officials and retired business men. Social prestige will be attached to the family who can show A-1 ancestors on both sides for three generations."

"There will be reformatories for first offenders and if a delinquent is pronounced incorrigibly anti-social he will be privately and painlessly extinguished in a lethal chamber without any publicity or humiliation to his family."

"It is a dream which may be realized if we want it enough," said the dean.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—[Special.]—Billie Dove has taken up flying. She is also busy completing her trousseau. Both interests are involved in her forthcoming marriage to Howard Hughes, producer and oil millionaire. She becomes eligible to marry again on July 3. Hughes is an ardent aviation enthusiast.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio is getting ready to unroll its golden carpet for the arrival of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne on June 6. This famous husband-and-wife dramatic team will do Molnar's story, "The Guardsman," with Sidney Franklin directing.

Jim Musick, full back at the University of Southern California, has joined the movie ranks. He has a minor part in "House Dick," the Jimmy Savo-Natalie Kingston short comedy which Lew Brock is producing for Radio Pictures.

Rita Leroy, R. K. O. actress, went to the Los Angeles dog pound and paid $3.50 to rescue an impounded Russian wolf hound standing over 3 feet high. She got him back for about 3 cents a pound. Then she took the dog to the R. K. O. lot and rented him for $25 a day.

Wesley Ruggles is drawing double pay for filming "Are These Our Children?" Not only will he direct the picture for Radio, but he wrote the story and sold it. Ruggles is known as a canny boy around the studios. He still is drawing checks because he signed up Jack Oakie on that lad's original contract.

Paramount, which already has six mystery plays awaiting the camera, today sought rights for a seventh, Hugh Walpole's London mystery yarn, "A Man with Red Hair." This is the exciting piece that Ben Levy dramatized for a long New York stage run.

Slim Summerville has been ill with ptomaine poisoning, so Universal shifted its schedule so as to shoot first all scenes that Slim is not in.

At Universal City they do not believe the days of music in sound pictures have passed. John Boles has been cast to sing one song in "Strictly Dishonorable." The song is really a part of the story's action, with Boles an Italian opera singer caroling an Italian lullaby that makes the heroine fall in love.

10,000 Attend Opening of Municipal Opera Season at St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—[Special.]—St. Louis tonight opened its Municipal Opera, to write another chapter in the history of a unique civic adventure in providing summer entertainment for the multitude. A brilliant audience of almost ten thousand tonight anxiously eyed the weather, for at curtain time the skies were overcast, for opera in the Municipal theater in the heart of Forest park is opera under the stars. The villain in this romantic adventure in civic entertainment is rain.

Organized in 1919 without a possibility of profit, Municipal Opera was also organized, without capital. Yet in twelve complete seasons it has paid its way and created a $300,000 outdoor theater to house it. It has entertained 4,954,593 people—and 1,621,606 of them free—for every night there are 1,700 free seats.

Tonight sitting in the audience was J. J. Shubert, vice president of the Shubert Theater corporation. He is municipal opera's general productions manager for 1931. The evening saw for the first time a performance on the only open air revolving stage in the world.

Shubert says he would like to head a chain of such summer operas extending across the United States and he has thrown the Shubert resources into Municipal Opera's plan this season, with the result that St. Louis expects to exceed in beauty the productions of last season, which cost more than half a million dollars for twelve weeks.

Presbyterians Nearing Split with Council

Birth Control Attitude Is Rising Issue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29.—[Special.]—The Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., the 143d general assembly of which is meeting here this week, is nearing a break with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Some delegations have made the flat demand that the church sever its connection with the council.

As a result of this feeling and matters of church politics rising tension marked the second day of the assembly. The harmony anticipated in the meeting was first broken yesterday by the injection of Dr. David Deforest Burrell of Williamsport, Pa., as an unexpected opponent for moderatorship to Dr. Lewis S. Mudge.

While Dr. Mudge was elected by a large majority, yet commissioners of the assembly interpret the sudden opposition not only as fundamentalist strategy but also as a protest against the autocracy of the ecclesiastical machinery held to be dominant in the church. The Burrell minority is declared to be the nucleus around which will be developed such strength as will defeat the ecclesiastical machine now in power and reduce the control of the big city churches over Presbyterian affairs.

While assembly leaders are making strenuous efforts to keep contentious subjects from the floor of the sessions, yet birth control and the Presbyterian attitude toward the federal council loom larger and larger as threats against the peace and harmony of the church. An overture demanding repudiation of the federal council's birth control report has been presented by the presbytery of Carlyle, Pa.

The Carlyle delegation asserts this general assembly must declare a loyalty to "Christian principles" in the matter of birth control as well as to deny the federal council's position. The presbytery of Little Rock, Ark., has offered an overture of protest against the federal council, while the presbyteries of Denver, Colo., and Hudson, N. Y., demand that the Presbyterian church sever connection with the federal council.

The report of the administrative committee of the general council of the church presented by former Moderator Kerr this morning tended to pour oil on the troubled waters. Dr. Kerr declared in his unanimously adopted report that "no encyclical or authoritative message can solve social, industrial and moral problems of the day."

Dr. Kerr declared solution of such problems, which include birth control, unemployment, relations of employers and employés, can only be found "through the application of Christian discipleship."

"It is not for us to command or to determine the form or manner by which the spirit shall find expression in our modern world," Dr. Kerr's report stated. "If prosperity in the economic world cannot be legislated into existence, neither can it be done in religion."

Youngstown, O., May 29.—(AP)—The United Presbyterian assembly today voted to retain its affiliation with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The denomination, holding its 73d annual assembly here, rejected a resolution presented by C. M. Neeld, Pittsburgh layman, who opposed a recent statement on birth control made by the federal council.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Time was when a lady got tired of looking at her same old hair style, she went out and bought a new hat. Now she has to go out and buy a new hair style for her hat.

For a time, I understand, there was a mild war between milliners and hairdressers. They couldn't seem to get together for their mutual benefit. But this season they're thicker than thieves. As some one says: "The relation of hair and hat is so important now every one is wearing plain little caps 'way back on the head, that hair literally trims the chapeau." Which, indeed, hair is doing—trimming the hat, coddling the hat, "coying" the hat—and "making" the hat, in many cases.

All of which is in line with the suggestion that we simply can't cling to the style of hair that went with last season's bonnet. Not if we're planning a knockout, with the hat almost off the head.

At the rate things are moving now in the milliner-hairdressing brotherhood it will not surprise me to see hairdressing booths adjoining the millinery sections shortly, where you will buy your hat for a particular coiff, or vice versa. In the meantime, though, you're only asked to study that hair line with eyes on the hat line, not merely on the hair.

A friend just back from Cannes reports that long hair already is showing much more brevity than a year ago. Among that smart, sophisticated group there are born the modes that reach us. And I'm told, too, that the hair is being thinned out mercilessly under the untouched top layer.

It is too bad that that thinning out of the hair underneath the top layer isn't within easier amateur skill. Yet I do think more women who are not in a position to patronize professionals could snip out hair here and there with great value to the head contour.

FRANCES V.: A RUN DOWN system and blood impoverishment are the causes of ridged nails. Build up your constitution.

Sociologist Claims Girls Are Returning to Fainting Fit Era

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Did you happen to notice the prediction in the paper, the other day, that in ten years women would be fainting again?

I was reminded of the sociologist's warning [or promise, should I say?] on reading "Verne's" complaint. One reads between the lines of her letter that she is a forceful, strong minded individual whose dominating attitude toward her husband isn't going to make him, in ten years, a person it would do any good to faint before.

There's no use for a girl to practice the fainting art unless she has a good, strong man audience. A weak one might just faint with her!

Yet, I'd vote "Verne" an excellent example of a wife in need of a fainting fit—just to prove she is nothing but a weak little woman, after all. Meanwhile she exalts the strong man position of her mate.

There are women in this aggressive woman era of ours in whom nothing would be more appealing than a good, old fashioned fainting fit. They're so capable, so right, so cocksure of their judgment that a session with the smelling salts would work wonders in humanising them.

The same sociologist who ventured the "fainting fit" opinion, foresees greatest marital happiness where two persons of creative talent meet. The girl, he believes, should have a talent for thinking up new things for the home. She should be able to decorate the living room in a new way; to think up new things for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

I recall visiting in a certain home on a professional errand. Having an eye for interior decoration, or rather for noting every little detail of a room and carrying away a complete impression, when I returned to that same home four years later and found the living room without even a shift in furniture, not a furniture addition or subtraction, not a change of curtains, even, I thought: "What an unimaginative woman!"

Free Dance Forms Best for Children, Mrs. Bevans Claims

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Enough letters have come in on one subject to make it seem wise to give a general answer here. That subject is dancing for young children.

It is quite natural that parents should ask some of these questions, since most people have not a background of study or knowledge of the art of dancing which would make them understand the place that dancing has in a child's development. The questions that come along are usually: "My little girl loves to dance—can you tell me the name of a good dancing school? She copies the steps she sees on the stage, and I would like her to learn ballet dancing—what do you think?—she is 4 [or 5 or 7]?"

Dancing is one of the oldest and freest of the arts. When children have had no one to imitate, their impulse to dance expresses itself in free bodily movements like skipping, running, leaping, swaying, etc. This should be our clue to the kind of dancing children should have.

There are two kinds of dancing which are right for children. One of these is what we have to call, for want of a better name, rhythmic dancing. Recently I have heard dancers use the term "natural dancing." Various teachers have various ways of teaching rhythmic dancing—some wait for the inspiration to come from the music and what it leads a child to do—other teachers stimulate the imagination by using the thought of wind, flowers, elephants, birds, etc. to produce dance rhythms. Control and dance technique will develop, but the joy the child gets is the most important result.

Simple folk dancing—which is jolly and social and also very free—is the other suitable dance form for children.

I cannot, of course, recommend schools. I can, however, suggest the dancing classes that are held in settlement houses.

Avoid all set, formal, or artificial dancing for your young children.

Miss Fairbanks Is Engaged to Italian Count

BY THALIA

MR. AND MRS. WARREN C. FAIRBANKS of 1500 Lake Shore drive and Indianapolis, Ind., announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith, to Count Ruggero Visconti de Modróne, son of Count Giovanni Visconti de Modrone of Milan, Italy.

Miss Fairbanks is the granddaughter of the late Charles W. Fairbanks who was vice president of the United States under the Taft administration. She studied at Miss Master's school at Dobbs Ferry and spent a year at Miss Nixon's in Florence. She made her debut several years ago, and she and her mother were presented at the Court of St. James's. During the last winter she has been active in the Junior league's children's theater.

Count Visconti is a descendant of the rulers of Lombardy from the early 13th to the 15th century. His ancestors began the famous Milan cathedral and were noted patrons of Milanese art. He has spent the last year or so in Chicago studying American financial and banking methods, and has just returned from a trip to Milan to attend the wedding of his sister, Countess Ida to Count Cavallo of Milan at the Visconti palace.

There are no plans announced for the wedding.

Tell Engagement of Miss Barbara Bullard.

An announcement of interest in Chicago is that being made today by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bullard of Boston of the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Schuyler Van Ingen Colt, son of Mrs. William Edward Colt Jr. of 15 East Division street and the late William Edward Colt Jr. The announcement is to be made at the wedding of Miss Bullard's cousin, Charlotte Kennedy, to take place this afternoon at the Bullards' summer place at Windsor, Vt.

Miss Bullard attended the Brimmer and Barrington schools, spent a year at school in Luasanne, Switzerland, and has traveled extensively in Europe. Mr. Colt spent 5 years at St. George's school at Newport, R. I., and was graduated from Hobart college in Geneva, N. Y., with the class of 1929. He is a member of Sigma Phi fraternity. No plans have been made for the wedding.

Country Clubs Hold Holiday Programs.

Memorial day offers a variety of diversions for those town dwellers who left last night, equipped with golf bags and sports clothes, for a weekend in the country or nearby suburbs. In Lake Forest there will be the opening of the two day flower show at Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's estate today, and the inaugural dinner dance of the Hunt club at Millburn and Onwentsia Country club this evening.

Tomorrow the new Oak Brook clubhouse will be formally opened with the playing of the first match of the season between Oak Brook and Cantigny horsemen. Most of the other country clubs north and west of Chicago are opening officially with dinner dances this evening. Among them are the Chicago Golf, which is also to open its new silver lined swimming pool; Knollwood, which will have a pageant of riders in fancy dress costumes this afternoon; Glenview, Indian Hill, and Shore Acres.

Digest—Mrs. Warren Salisbury and the Kimball Salisburys arrived at Pittsfield, Mass., yesterday for the wedding today of Mrs. "Kim" Salisbury's sister, Miss Ethel Frances Eaton to James Denison Colt. Mrs. "Kim" is to be one of the bridesmaids, and Joy Salisbury and her cousin, Alexander Eaton Simpson, are to be train bearers. Cynthia Wilson, who is the guest of the bride's grandfather, Arthur W. Eaton in Pittsfield, is another Chicagoan among the wedding guests . . . Mrs. Charles H. Swift departed yesterday for Los Angeles to give a concert for the benefit of the unemployed next Thursday . . . Mrs. Melvin Brorby and the Brorby youngsters, Harry and Virginia, went across the lake yesterday to join Mrs. Brorby's father, Mr. Harry Lee Williams, at his summer place near Holland, Mich. Mr. Brorby will go over for week-ends, and Mr. Williams' other daughter, Mrs. Carter Morgan, plans to remain in Chicago for several more weeks before joining them . . . Mrs. Ralph H. James sailed on the Belgenland yesterday afternoon for her annual summer's sojourn in London . . . Mrs. Robert Jeffries of Highland Park has as her house guests Mrs. J. Anthony Blanke of Berkeley, Cal., and Dr. John Punton of Kansas City.

About Visitors, Trips. . . . .

A Prehistoric Needle.

Piecemeal—Mrs. Catherine Bartholomay Osborne and her young son, Nathan, are listed as passengers sailing for Europe today on the S. S. Bremen. . . . The Arts club rooms are to be closed for the summer on June 15 and will be reopened on Oct. 1. . . . Henry Field writes all about "A Prehistoric Needle" in the Field museum's monthly bulletin. The needle, which is a beautiful one fashioned with a flint blade and drilled by a flint borer, is 25,000 years old, was made by a prehistoric Magdalenian craftsman, and is acquired by the museum as a result of the recent Field archaeological expedition to Europe. . . . The Clarence B. Mitchells had as their guests a few days ago Maj. and Mrs. C. C. Mosley of Los Angeles, and they went on some trips on the Mitchell yacht, the "Sea-Bee."

Bright Sayings of the Children

Our little son, aged 4 years, had never seen a mule. Recently when we were out riding through the country he noticed a mule and cried: "Oh, look; there is a horse with a cow's tail." L. S. A.

We were telling little Billy about our vacation trip, and mentioned the fact that on our way there we had been on the train constantly for seventy-two hours.

"That's nothing," he replied, "I was on the train all day once." R. S.

Summer Evenings Favor Dressy Prints

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—There is nothing more satisfying to the feminine soul (not to mention the feminine body and pocketbook) than the printed ensemble. Every woman has found this out by experience, and that is why summer prints are smart perennials. Prophecies usually say: fewer prints; and events invariably prove: more and better prints.

This summer is no exception to the rule, and Paris couturiers are all going in heavily for printed chiffon or georgette ensembles, particularly for afternoon and evening wear. Dressy prints, in direct contrast to those intended for street wear, are cabbage sized leaves or flowers, sometimes featuring several colors, usually on a white ground.

The Molyneux printed chiffon ensemble, sketched today, is delightful for summer evenings, and it is simple enough for late afternoon wear also. It has large flowers printed in vivid green and brown on a white ground. Double box plaited, bell sleeves are the feature of the loose jacket, which is exactly sleeve length. The outside box plait of the upper bell continues into a shoulder yoke. There is a narrow roll collar of the printed chiffon.

The tailored frock achieves a simple, slenderizing line by tricky, diagonally crossed sections. It has a knee length, circular tunic flounce pointed in front to echo the diamond point of the incrustation. The lower skirt is circular and level ankle length. A tailored belt of bright green suede is worn.

Eight Seminarians Will Be Ordained as Catholic Priests Today

Eight young seminarians, the last of their class at St. Mary of the Lake seminary at Mundelein, will be ordained into the Catholic priesthood in a ceremony at 8 o'clock this morning, with Cardinal Mundelein officiating.

Those who will receive holy orders are George Alexander, William Gentleman, Joseph La Marbe, Stanley Jonelis, Thomas Orr, Gerald Morrisey, Joseph Walczak, and John Joseph Murphy. Frater Murphy, as the last named is known at present, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Murphy of 2226 West 109th street. He will celebrate his first mass at 10:15 o'clock tomorrow at St. Barnabas church in Beverly Hills.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Lacks Nurse's Uniform.

"I am the mother of two girls, 14 and 16 years old. My husband deserted me more than a year ago and I have had no work for several months. We are having a struggle getting along and I cannot buy the things we need. I am a nurse, but if I get work I cannot take it because I have no uniforms. If some reader has one or two to give in size 40 and a pair of shoes, size 4½ or 5-E, I would appreciate having them. Mrs. T."

Perhaps another nurse about to discard a slightly worn uniform can come to this woman's rescue. She may be able to secure a few days' work now and then if she is properly attired.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Misplaced a Sign.

Years ago I was employed in a small dry goods store. On the night preceding a sale I was told to distribute signs on the different counters. The next morning the manager called for me, and without a word led me to the hosiery counter.

Mystified, I looked at him for an explanation. He pointed to a sign, one of which I had placed there the day before. It read: "Absolutely guaranteed to run." I got no further. I had placed the sign meant for the alarm clocks at the hosiery counter. M. R. N.

Food Talk.

Mrs. M. K. wants us to print some good menus for midnight luncheons. A famous hostess, when giving her views about serving refreshments, once said, "When in doubt serve a dainty, piquant salad, an assortment of tasty sandwiches, and either a cup of piping hot clear coffee or a pot of a delicious brew of tea."

The type of food to be served at a midnight luncheon should depend upon the activities that are to follow and on how long it has been since food was last eaten. For those who are to retire within an hour after the lunch the food should be light and easily digested. Of course, if it has been five or six hours since the last meal, guests are sure to feel hungry enough to eat heartily. The desire of the hostess is to have foods that are more or less partylike. So I shall recommend two kinds of luncheons—one light and the other substantial.

Sandwiches are always satisfying to the keenest appetites and they can be made dainty and attractive to appeal to those who are not so hungry. One of the nicest features about sandwiches is that they can be made a few hours ahead of time. Salads are always appreciated. And so are beverages, hot or cold, depending upon the weather. Desserts should always be light and easily digested. One may have a frozen dessert in the refrigerator or an ice cream bought and a nice sauce, either a fruit or a cooked sauce like chocolate or butterscotch prepared for it. A home baked cake or delicious cookies may also be served with the beverage.

END MORTGAGE BOND EVIL, PLEA TO LEGISLATURE

State Securities Official Writes Assemblymen.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Urging passage of six bills designed to eliminate the first mortgage bond evil, David H. Jackson, in charge of the securities department of the secretary of state's office, today sent a letter to each member of the 57th general assembly.

The bills have not been advanced far, most of them being still in committee. Mr. Jackson gives a full explanation of each in his communication.

"During the last two years," he states, "the securities department has been trying to work out a program of legislation to amend the securities law and has tried to limit the proposed changes so that they would not be at all revolutionary, but would make the law a little more workable and would simply remove some of the worst handicaps under which the department is now suffering.

Describes Each Bill.

"As a part of this program the department has worked with several senators and members of the house at their request and as a result six bills have been prepared and introduced."

At this point the letter begins a detailed description of the provisions of each bill, which are summarized below:

House bill 496—This limits the real estate bonds that are exempt from the operation of the securities law to those who do not exceed 60 per cent of the value of the property, and also provides that sworn appraisals must be filed with the secretary of state and gives him the right prescribed forms and to make further investigation if he is not satisfied with the appraisal that is filed. This bill is intended and no doubt will cure the mortgage bond evils as they have existed in the past, if two companion bills are also passed.

Class B Securities.

House bill 501—This bill amends section 5 of the securities act regarding class B securities. In the past sales of securities by banks and trust companies have been exempted, and this exemption was put in, no doubt, at the time when the banks and trust companies were not in the securities business.

Senate bill 502—This bill removes the exemption extended to the Chicago curb two years ago. As the law stands today, any building corporation in Chicago can list its common stock on the Chicago curb, and after it has so listed its stock it can then issue preferred stock or bonds without the interference of anybody, and that transaction would be exempted from our law.

Senate bill 521—This strikes the requirement that there shall be placed on the advertising matter of class D securities the slogan, "These are speculative securities," for we believe that sharpshooter salesman actually use it as an argument to sell.

Ask Annual Examination.

House bill 504—This removes any doubt of the exemption of first mortgage bonds if they exceed 60 per cent bonds.

House bill 750—This bill requires the secretary of state to make at least one annual examination of the affairs of all the brokers and dealers for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not they are solvent. Bucket shops would have hard work carrying on their business.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Just Another Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—William F. Schilling of Minnesota was reappointed to the federal farm board by President Hoover today. Two additional vacancies in the board will come in June when Charles C. Teague, vice chairman of the board, and Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member, will retire. Mr. Teague's letter of resignation has been received at the White House and it will be accepted within the next few days.

W. F. SCHILLING. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Mr. Teague expects to spend several weeks in the east before returning to his home at Santa Paulo, Cal. Mr. McKelvie is now in London, where he attended the international wheat conference.

Another appointment made by the President today was that of Frederick M. Felker as director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the commerce department.

Mr. Felker spent a year and a half in the commerce department, aiding in the development of contacts between the department of commerce and business and trade. He organized the commodity divisions set up by Mr. Hoover and assisted in the establishment of the simplified practice division.

HOME FOR SICK CHILDREN GETS SO. PARK SITE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson today allowed house bill 508—the Schnackenberg bill permitting the rebuilding of the La Rabida sanitarium for convalescent children in Jackson park, Chicago—to become a law without his signature.

The building will occupy the promontory overlooking the lake at 63d street, the site it occupied from the close of the 1893 world's fair until it was burned several years ago. It will cost $300,000 and the money has been raised by a group of Chicago women and several prominent men, including George F. Getz, George W. Dixon and Judge Henry Horner. It will treat children suffering from heart ailments.

"I have grave doubts as to the wisdom of this measure," said Gov. Emmerson. "Park districts are authorized to be created for a specific purpose; to provide for the public a place of resort for rest, recreation, and amusement. Parks are not intended as sites for hospitals or buildings of any character except those incidental to park purposes.

"It seems to me incongruous that any of this land should be devoted to any other purpose. This is not in disparagement of the institution seeking a location in this territory by this bill. It, like churches and schools, and many other hospitals, is engaged in a worthy work and by the terms of this bill is required to be entirely charitable.

"I am reluctant to interfere with this public service, particularly as a similar institution was formerly located in this park. But I feel that the further extension of this principle would be unforunate and that there should be no further diversion of park property from its logical and original purpose."

AGOA'S WIDOW FACES WEBER AT KILLING INQUEST

Benjamin J. Weber, business agent of the window washers' union, was confronted by the widow of the man he is charged with slaying at the inquest yesterday into the shooting of Daniel Agoa, 38 years old, 729 North Le Claire avenue, secretary of the Chicago Window and Building Cleaners Contracting association.

"You're satisfied now, aren't you?" screamed Mrs. Agoa at the business agent. She then testified that her husband had come home last Tuesday night and told her that Weber had beaten him and threatened him with further violence.

Two witnesses testified that they saw Weber shoot Agoa in front of Child's restaurant at 400 South State street. Deputy Coroner Jacob Schewel continued the inquest until June 2 so that more witnesses to the shooting might be summoned.

A HORSE SAVES BOY FROM BEING KILLED BY BULL

Minonk, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Joseph Fehring, 10 years old, lies in a Streator hospital with a crushed leg, but he is happy to know that his faithful horse Happy saved his life.

The boy was on his horse driving cattle from the pasture when a bull rushed at them and in the impact of animal bodies the boy's right leg was crushed. The horse balked, throwing young Fehring. Then the horse stopped and when he saw the bull make for the boy dashed back and stood over the lad until the bull scampered away.

HOLD UP POKER GAME; 1 KILLED; CONSTABLE SHOT

Lake Park, Minn., May 30 (Saturday).—(AP)—Helmer Anderson of Audobon, 35 years old, was shot and killed and Severt Ebeltoft, town constable and Becker county deputy sheriff, probably fatally wounded, when two masked men held up a poker game here early today. The two were shot when they walked into the residence of Alvin Aure while six men in a poker game were being held up.

Anderson was shot when he came in the back door, while Constable Ebeltoft, hearing the shots, collided with the two bandits, masked, as they came through the door. Ebeltoft is not expected to live.

SEABURY HOLDS SIXTEEN GOTHAM LAWYERS "UNFIT"

Says They Trafficked in Women's Court.

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Referee Samuel Seabury today filed a report with the Appellate division condemning in strong terms the "ring" of attorneys which trafficked in Women's court, and charging sixteen with "professional misconduct," rendering them unfit to continue as members of the bar.

Fourteen of the lawyers, including Assemblyman Henry O. Kahan, are charged with having given bribes to former Acting Assistant District Attorney John C. Weston in Women's court, who also is accused of misconduct.

Albert B. Kurtz is charged with splitting a fee and entering into a corrupt bargain with Joseph Wolfman, bogus attorney, while deputy assistant district attorney assigned to West Side Magistrate's court.

Referee Seabury makes no specific recommendations of disbarment, submitting the report to the court "for such action as to it may seem just and proper."

The report names the lawyers as follows: John C. Weston, Abraham Karp, Mark Alter, Emanuel Busch, Philip Rusgo, Joseph Aronstein, Joseph A. Butler, James J. Mayer, Henry O. Kahan, Kevie Frankel, Robert J. Fitzsimmons, Samuel Goldstein, William J. McAuliffe, George Hirsch, Joseph Weber, and Albert B. Kurtz.

This is the second report filed by Mr. Seabury in two days. Last night he recommended the removal of Magistrate Jean Norris, in a document which declared the woman judge was unfit to hold judicial office.

WATCHFUL FRIEND ANNOYS GIRL AND LANDS IN COURT

Miss Inez Swartz, 25 years old, 336 West 65th street, appeared before Judge Freeman L. Fairbanks in the Grand Crossing court yesterday. She complained of the watchfulness of Joseph George, 36 years old, 5065 Blackstone avenue, whom her mother in Waverly, O., had delegated to look after her.

"He follows me night and day," Miss Swartz said. "He is on my heels like a regular detective or watch dog, and even takes down the license numbers of automobiles when I go out with friends."

The judge ordered George to stop following the girl, saying she was old enough to guard herself. Ten minutes after they left the courtroom the two reappeared, this time with George in the arms of a policeman. Miss Swartz charged that George had threatened to "get even with her." Judge Fairbanks assigned the case to the jury court, promising to appear as a witness for the girl.

CAUGHT TRYING TO SELL STOLEN CHICAGO BONDS

Detroit, Mich., May 29.—[Special.]—Pointed out by a broker as he emerged from the Dime Bank building, Oscar Bloom was seized by detectives today with $13,500 worth of stolen securities in his possession, police reported.

Bloom was locked up on charges of offering stolen bonds for sale. According to the police, the securities are first mortgages on New York and Chicago apartment houses and were among $100,000 worth of bonds stolen in Chicago two weeks ago.

Bloom's arrest came about through the broadcast of the bonds' serial numbers. He made several efforts to sell the bonds in brokerage houses today, leaving the offices each time a few minutes before the arrival of detectives.

Bloom, who said he was a salesman, denied knowing the bonds had been stolen. He insisted a man had given them to him to sell.

Fred Practices With Rifle; Girl Gets Bullet in Leg

Fred Richards, 26 years old, indulged in a little target practice with a small rifle in an alley near his home at 5642 South Morgan street last night. About the same time Miss Mary Anderson, 20 years old, of 5626 Aberdeen street, walked into range and was struck by a bullet in the left leg. Richards was arrested. Miss Anderson received medical aid at the German Deaconess hospital.

ROOSEVELT GOES WEST TAGGED BY CRAIN DILEMMA

Stands to Lose Either Way He Decides.

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is starting west over the week-end on an important political mission bearing directly on his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President, and leaving behind for the moment a complex and troublesome problem, the solution of which will be equally vital to his future.

The governor heads into the middle west and with a warning ringing in his ears that he cannot afford to remove District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain and thereby risk a break with Tammany. Mr. Roosevelt has been told several times since returning from France last Wednesday that the verdict in Tammany Hall is that the "incompetency" and "misfeasance" charges against Crain have not been proved and that ouster of the district attorney will be viewed by the organization as a distinctly unfriendly act.

Tammany's decision, now that the evidence is all in, is that the Crain case now resolves itself into politics rather than the determination of a question of official merit. While Crain's record may not be a hundred per cent, Tammany holds that he does not deserve the stigma of removal.

Likely to Lose Either Way.

The decision in this perplexing situation is of almost inestimable importance to the governor. Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for the nomination for President is based on his presumptive ability to carry New York state, as he has already done twice with a plurality record. He cannot hope to carry New York if he breaks with Tammany, it is generally admitted. His candidacy must suffer severely in other sections of the country, where Tammany is hated, if the impression goes abroad that he has surrendered to Tammany in the Crain case. Whichever way the decision goes the governor has the worst end of it.

If Commissioner Seabury makes a clean cut demand for removal of the district attorney, that may ease the way for the governor but will hardly change the political aspects of the case. Tammany expects Seabury to deal harshly with Crain. Should Mr. Seabury present his findings without specific recommendations, indicating official neglect and incompetency but nothing worse, the decision would rest wholly with the governor, without any prop to lean on.

While no one has the faintest idea of the governor's views on this subject, the belief still holds in Tammany that Roosevelt will give Crain the benefit of every doubt and not resort to removal if an easier way out is open.

Decision Awaits His Return.

The decision in the Crain case will be reached shortly after the governor returns from his middle western visit. The Seabury report will be ready within a few days and when he returns it is expected that the first order of business on the governor's calendar will be the district attorney's fate.

After attending the conference of governors at French Lick next week Mr. Roosevelt will go into Ohio, where several conferences have been arranged with the leaders of that state. He will meet groups of Democratic politicians in Cincinnati and Columbus, including Gov. George White, Senator Buckley, W. A. Julian, national committeeman and state committeeman.

DEATH OF OHIO REPRESENTATIVE 5TH SINCE FALL

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The death of Representative Charles A. Mooney [Dem., O.] at Cleveland today was the fifth in the house of the Seventy-second congress which was elected last November, but is not scheduled to assemble for the first time until next December. Mr. Mooney was prominently identified with the fight against the diversion of Lake Michigan water for the sanitation of Chicago.

The organization of the new house may be determined by deaths of members and unfilled vacancies at the time the Seventy-second congress meets. The election returned 218 Republicans, 216 Democrats, and one Farmer-Labor member. As a result of the deaths of Representative Nicholas Longworth [Rep., O.], Henry Allen Cooper [Rep., Wis.], James B. Aswell [Dem., La.], Matthew V. O'Malley [Dem., N. Y.], and Mr. Mooney the division now stands Republicans 216, Democrats 213, Farmer-Labor 1, vacancies 5.

BRITAIN FINISHES ITS DEPOSITIONS AGAINST FACTOR

John [Jake the Barber] Factor won a respite from his daily court appearances yesterday after counsel for the British crown had concluded the reading of depositions on which Great Britain bases its demand for extradition of the alleged swindler.

United States Commissioner Walker allowed the defense until June 8 to file printed objections to the depositions, at which time the commissioner will set a date for arguments on the objections. Then, if they are admitted into evidence, the defense will proceed. Meanwhile Factor is in custody of the United States marshal's office.

Depositions read yesterday declared that Factor paid $330,000 for huge allotments of stock in two allegedly fake African copper mining companies and that the commission agent received $36,000 for swinging the deal. Senator Otis F. Glenn, chief of defense counsel, said he understood Factor paid about $500,000 for the companies and cited this as evidence of their worth.

Four bucket shop operators who employed Factor's alleged tactics of stock selling came to grief in London yesterday when the judge advised the jury that the facts and law warranted a verdict of guilty.

150,000 TO SEE 500 MILE AUTOMOBILE RACE TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS GASOLINE DERBY DRAWS 40 CARS

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—More than 150,000 auto race fans are assembling here today to watch forty machines whirl around a two and a half mile brick oval tomorrow in the annual Memorial day event sponsored by the American Automobile association.

At the Speedway, just outside of the city, there's a string of cars waiting in line for favored parking spaces near the rail when the gates are opened to the public in the morning. Behind the gates, workmen with brushes and hose are scrubbing the bricks that tomorrow will be stained with hot oil, tire rubber and possibly some blood.

Two Killed in Trials.

Yes, blood—because there's no little risk in skidding around the banked turns at 100 miles an hour. Two men were killed last year when their machine slammed into the concrete wall that curbs the track. Two men were killed a few days ago in the qualifying dashes, the races against a stop watch for positions at the start of tomorrow's event.

However, the attraction for the spectators is not supposed to be possibility of accidents. The race is intended to be a speed contest in the interest of testing materials and supplies for the automobile industry, a proving ground for tires, shock absorbers, steering gears, valves, lubricants, fuels and so forth. If an axle breaks and two or three cars pile up, it proves that the design or material in the crossbar was not strong enough.

With good weather and good luck the track record of 101.13 miles an hour average for 500 miles is expected to be broken this year. The record was established in 1925 by Peter de Paolo. Last year, Billy Arnold of Chicago, the winner, was within sixty-nine hundreths of a mile per hour of this average.

Permit More Carburetors.

The maximum piston displacement, 366 cubic inches, is the same under this year's rules as last. But this year the rules permit one carburetor for each two cylinders instead of one for each four cylinders, which was the 1930 regulation.

The additional fueling device is credited with the higher speeds made in the qualifying races this year. All but two of the forty cars that have won the right to start tomorrow have circled the track faster than 100 miles an hour. One of these has a Diesel motor, the first of these oil burners ever to participate in this race. It was clocked at 96.871 miles an hour and, although others cars, gas driven, made better time, it was permitted to start under a special ruling that took into account the claim that it will gain on the others because it will have to make fewer stops for fuel.

All Look Alike.

Outwardly, there is not a great deal of difference in the appearance of the brightly painted little racers that will face the barrier at 11 o'clock [Chicago time] in the morning. Each is low slung, without fenders of course, and with a small cockpit just big enough for the driver and his mechanic.

A closer examination shows that some have eight cylinders, some six, some sixteen and some four; some have rear drive and some front drive, and so forth. In addition to the $100,000 in prizes the winners will benefit from the advertising value of the victory to the equipment and supplies that are used.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 29.—Two score outboard motorboat drivers tonight are making final preparations to push off tomorrow morning at 8:30 central standard time in the 90 mile marathon to Navy pier, Chicago, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. These contestants, several of whom are nationally known, tonight are extremely interested in the weather forecast. That is the principal topic of conversation at the Milwaukee Yacht club and the Knickerbocker hotel, race headquarters.

Many of these drivers are old rivals Others, including several women, are making their first start in a distance race. The veterans know from experience the possible speeds of their boats and the tactics each will use in the rush along the north shore in the morning. Their chances of victory rest largely on racing luck. Motor trouble is the specter which may rise up even in the final mile to halt a victorious drive.

Fair Weather Predicted.

Then, too, the weather is a factor which may determine success or failure. The prediction of fair weather with moderate southwest winds was hailed with delight. Under such driving conditions records for the distance are almost certain to be broken.

The class B boats will leave in the morning at 8:30. They will be followed by class C at 8:50, class D at 9 and class E and over at 9:10. There are two divisions in the Marathon, displacement and racing. All displacement boats are handicapped to finish at noon Chicago daylight saving time. The racing boats, barring mishap or exceptionally rough water, should finish at 11:30 tomorrow morning.

Mahoney to Start Race.

The Milwaukee committee, which had charge of arrangements for the start of the marathon, consists of Mrs. H. H. Raab, Commodore J. A. Mahoney, George Boyer, Nels Telander, Fred Mikkelson, and Ken Dunlap. Commodore Mahoney will fire the gun in the morning which will send the tiny motors on the way.

It's Hard to Stop a Habit Such as Mack's Winning Ways

BY ARCH WARD.

Last Sunday they opened a six game series with the Yankees, their closest rivals in the American league race. They were only two and a half games ahead. When they had concluded their competition Thursday night the Yankees were six and a half games from first place, two games behind the second place Senators.

CONNIE MACK.

The Yankees, as you probably have heard, are managed by Joe McCarthy. Mack met a team coached by McCarthy once before—let's see, wasn't it in the post-season battle a year or two ago?

Something will have to be done about keeping the 69 year old Mr. McGillicuddy in his place. By the time he is 100 there will be no living with him. He is becoming a menace to the younger group of pilots, a group that looks decidedly childish trying to keep pace with him.

SOLVING LABOR PROBLEM.

One of these days you will read that enough men have been found to take over the work carried by the late Knute Rockne. Jess Harper and Heartly Anderson have been chosen to replace him as athletic director and football coach at Notre Dame and A. A. Stagg is going to look after Rockne's literary efforts.

Stagg recently signed to do some syndicate work on midwest football. He has agreed to write 15 articles during the 1931 season and the same number in 1932. Convinced that All-American and All-Western teams are the bunk, he refused to be a party to the selection of mythical elevens.

"No man who is honest with himself can pick the eleven best players in any section," Stagg said. "I have steadfastly clung to that opinion and no amount of money would change my stand."

If a few enterprising gentlemen will step forth to fill Rockne's speaking engagements, take over his work in the brokerage office and movie studios and serve on a thousand and one committees, the situation will be fairly well in hand.

ALL QUIET IN BIG TEN.

Intercollegiate competition in the Western conference is finished for the season of 1930-'31 save for a few scattering baseball games and tennis matches. It has been one of the calmest years in the organization's history.

Mr. Stagg, who has been a leader in the conference since its founding, had this to say last night in retrospect:

"I know of no time when there has been a finer feeling among the Big Ten schools. There is a better understanding among the coaches and athletic directors than ever before.

"The Iowa incident of 1929 has had a wholesome effect. Athletics have been cleaned up around the league. Iowa again is in good standing with all the schools and I think it will be a long time before such severe discipline will have to be dealt out again."

So much for Mr. Stagg.

ITALIANS MAY FIGHT HERE.

Chicago Stadium, which closed its 1930-'31 professional boxing program with the Lawless-Jones match last week, may take a fling at amateur bouts before the season is officially interred.

Representatives of the Italian amateur team, which recently fought an A. A. U. group to a 4 to 4 score in New York, are looking for an opportunity to show off the boys in Chicago. Sydney Strotz and Nate Lewis are willing to engage a team of Chicago amateurs to meet the Italians, if the latter will come on a percentage basis.

The foreign boxers are expected to accept, as they are not paid for their services. Traveling expenses are all they get.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM DEFEATS ARGENTINA, 3-1

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The United States advanced one step nearer to the coveted Davis cup today when its doubles team defeated Argentina, 3 sets to 1, in the third match of the inter-American zone tennis finals being played at the Chevy Chase club. Frank H. Shields and Sidney Wood defeated Adriano Zappa and Lucilo del Castillo, doubles champions of the Argentine, by a score of 6-4, 8-6, 2-6, 6-2.

ASCETICISM IN SPORTS TRAINING DEFEATS ITSELF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—The exact nature of their offense has not been stated, but four members of the Yale varsity rowing squad have been set on the beach for violation of the training regulations and will not be taken to New London to row against Harvard. In withholding the bill of particulars, the athletic office at New Haven may have one of two objectives, to spare the accused young men needless public humiliation for their crimes or to protect itself from ridicule for exaggerating some trifling misdemeanor, such as the smoking of a cigaret or indulgence in a few cocktails of ale.

I know that the cigaret and the ale crock are generally forbidden to college athletes who are supposed to be in strict training for some major event, but it is hard to reconcile this ascetic code of conduct with the idea that sport is fun or with the experience of certain athletes of great distinction who did not find it necessary to keep themselves under glass while training.

Champagne to Avoid Staleness.

James J. Corbett, who certainly was a mighty man in his prime, wrote, either personally or vicariously, in the story of his life and battles that when he found himself going stale in training his custom was to drink an amount of champagne to take the edge off and relax. How much champagne he drank I do not recall, and I am not even sure that Mr. Corbett pinned himself down on that subject. One does not mind one's P's and Q's when drinking champagne and if one did count them there would be no relaxation in it.

When a man sits down to relax in the presence of wine he must give the wine a chance, and if he keeps reminding himself "I will relax to a certain extent and no more" the mental hazard involved in tabulating the glasses and the halves and thirds of glasses, for it is bad form to empty a champagne glass, is sufficient to offset the benefit derived. A man who goes to a party saying that his doctor or his wife says he may have just three drinks and not another drop always wears a haunted expression and has no fun.

English Athletes Smoke.

The English track athletes, who come to this country from time to time always are good for a little box on the sport pages, done in a slightly scandalized tone of voice, dealing with the fact that some of them smoke pipes or cigarets after their workouts and would show a decent respect for a few saucers of ale if given a chance.

Indeed, it has not been long since it was the general practice of trainers in this country to let the oarsmen down a little in the evening after their work with a ration of ale supplied at the expense of the athletic funds. It would have been indiscreet to say so while he was still connected with the military academy, for some statesman in Washington might have demanded a congressional investigation of this treason to the constitution, but Frank Wandle, the former trainer of the West Point football teams, used to pine for ale for some of his players and, ale being forbidden, gave them sugar instead. Ale, said he, would have built up the young men who were being drawn too fine, and Mr. Wandle is recognized as one of the best athletic trainers in the United States.

Sugar Turns to Alcohol.

It was Mr. Wandle's theory that sugar quickly turned to alcohol in the human interior and he served it judiciously to his athletes between halves and during the periods of time out to stimulate them. Rather oddly, it was from Southern Methodist university that Mr. Wandle received the sugar prescription. He offered to give

Satin Spar Wins, Fattens Coast Fans' Slim Bankrolls

BY FRENCH LANE.

WILLARD MACK.

Several from the golden coast had attempted to emulate the late Lucky Baldwin, but they failed to pull out of the bag any horses like Emperor of Norfolk, Rey El Santa Anita, and others Lucky Baldwin brought across the Rockies every year to old Washington Park.

The defeats of Nevada Queen and Gold Rush this week cost the Californians a merry penny. Enough come back money for these two, all from native sons, was wagered in the mutuels to have grubstaked thousands of miners in the good old days of '49.

But the Californians finally had their laugh. It came in the running of the Washington Boulevard handicap. And they got their thin bankrolls fattened out again until they looked something like the sort of bankrolls a Californian is supposed to carry around.

They won their bet on Satin Spar, a 4 year old son of White Satin-Ulrand. Satin Spar is owned by Willard Mack, the playwright, author, and actor. Willard isn't a native son, but he told all the native sons to back this sprinter, which was a sensation among the horses racing along the Pacific slope last winter.

Satin Spar won and the Californians collected at nice juicy odds. They got $25.10 for every two dollars invested when Satin Spar got up in the last couple of jumps and beat the odds-on favorite, Don Leon, from Kentucky, by a neck. Just a nose back of Don Leon came Brown Wisdom, which loomed up as an almost certain winner a sixteenth of a mile from the finish line.

It was a game race Willard Mack's horse ran, for as the field hit the lower bend Betty Derr was leading, Brown Wisdom was running second, Cayuga was finding his racing legs and was third, Don Leon was lumbering around in fourth place, and last of 'em all was Satin Spar.

Then the fun began. Brown Wisdom raced up and whipped Betty Derr. Satin Spar galloped up in electric speed and was soon second. Don Leon, with clear sailing in the middle of the pack, was making his final desperate challenge.

Forty strides from the finish line Brown Wisdom was leading. Don Leon then passed Brown Wisdom. Up came Satin Spar to pass both of them in the final struggle.

Californians were to be found everywhere in the crowd as the cashiers began to pay off. First time anybody had seen 'em around the cashiers since the meeting opened. But old Lucky Baldwin never put one over that pleased the golden coasters any more than Satin Spar's triumph did yesterday.

You've often heard of that fellow who's been around the race tracks since Hickory Jim was a 2 year old. Found one near the Washington Park paddock yesterday who claims to have watched Old Hickory win the Snow Ball handicap at Clifton Park, N. J., on a cold Christmas day many, many years ago. He was Henry T. Batcheller, agent for the Three D's stable, now in his 80th year, and he claims Old Hickory Jim was 21 years old when he won that handicap. Batcheller has turned 80, but looks 20 years younger.

Pick the Winners

TWO $5,000 stakes will feature Washington Park's holiday racing program. One is the $5,000 Debutante stakes for 2 year old fillies. The other is the R. M. Sweitzer handicap at a mile and an eighth. The fields in the order of post positions follow:

Pirates Trade Hemsley to Cubs for Earl Grace

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29.—[Special.]—Manager Hornsby of the Chicago Cubs announced after this afternoon's game with the Pittsburgh Pirates that a trade had been effected through which Catcher Ralston Hemsley goes to the Cubs in exchange for Catcher Earl Grace.

RALSTON HEMSLEY

Until the unlooked for development of Eddie Phillips this year, Hemsley was the Pirates' first string catcher, and for two years previous to this year was rated one of the best catchers in the majors.

Recently he incurred the enmity of the Pirate management for overstaying a leave of absence, an offense for which he was suspended. While it is known that the lad is inclined to stay up very late reading and smoking, it was said the Cubs expect their disciplinary system to be effective.

Grace caught in two double headers as the only relief Hartnett has had this year. Last year Earl was with the Reading club. In 1929 he was with the Cubs until well toward midseason.

Sox, Browns Halted by Rain; Play 2 Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox were unable to add to or break up their three game winning streak yesterday. Rain, which deluged the park about 2 o'clock, prevented them from making an effort of any kind but the layoff occasioned no regrets as they will have plenty on their hands this afternoon. They are scheduled for two games with the St. Louis Browns, starting at 1:30.

If a game had been possible yesterday Tommy Thomas would have pitched, but the washout merely delayed his appearance for twenty-four hours. He will be used in the first game of the twin bill today. In the afterpiece it will be either Frasier or Faber, the choice depending on the flip of a coin, which Boss Bush will toss at the necessary moment. The Browns have Coffman, Collins and Blaeholder available for the holiday affair.

The Sox are billed for another meeting with the Browns tomorrow. Then they have time off until Monday noon, when they board a fast train for Philadelphia. The original plan was to leave for the east tomorrow evening, but Bush figured no purpose could be served by reaching Philadelphia before necessary, so he switched to the other arrangement.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29.—Our Cubs scored four unearned runs in ten innings this afternoon to win from the Pittsburgh Pirates, who made three runs, all of which were predicated on bases on balls.

Off hand you might think that a contest in which all the winners' runs were unearned and all the losers' tallies were born of pitching wildness was a rather sloppy ball game. But the affair this afternoon was no such thing. On the contrary the spectacle afforded many of the fine elements of suspense and delivering in the pinch, right up to the minute the verdict was decided when Moore drove in Jurges from second with two out in the tenth.

The victory went to Charley Root, his fifth of the season and his second of the week gained in a relief rôle. Pat Malone held the Pirates to three runs and six hits in the first seven innings, but gave way to Cuyler as a pinch batter in a vain effort to get Grimm home from third after the Cub first baseman had tripled with one out in the eighth.

Pirates Also Are Cousins.

Today's victory was the seventh for the Cubs in the ten games they have played with the Pirates. The Cubs have won eighteen games this year, the aforementioned seven from the Pirates and eight from the Cincinnati Reds, which makes the Pirates almost as loyal cousins as the Reds. In addition to the games won from the Pirates and Reds the Cubs have beaten the Cards, the Braves, and the Phillies once each.

Half of the Cub runs today were scored by Bill Jurges and each time he got on through a fumble by Grantham. In the seventh a two base error by Traynor paved the way for two runs, but the actual scoring was effected when, with the Cubs trailing 2 to 1 and two were out and the bases full, Stephenson singled to center. Incidentally, Stevie made three hits and brought his batting average for the five games of the current road trip to .565.

Jurges' first run came in the second inning after one was out. After reaching first on Grantham's juggling act, Bill went to third on Grimm's single and scored on Malone's long fly to P. Waner.

Passes Give Pirates Lead.

In the third, however, the Pirates took a 2 to 1 lead. Malone walked Kremer and L. Waner. Kremer went to third while Grantham was forcing L. Waner. P. Waner then got the second of series of three hits, a single past Grimm, Kremer scoring and Grantham going to third. Traynor caromed a hot one off Malone's shins, but Hornsby recovered in time to throw out Pie at first, Grantham scoring. Malone threw out Comorosky.

The score became 3 to 2 in favor of the Cubs in the following manner: Malone singled after one was out in the seventh and Moore supplied the second out with a foul to Suhr. English's grounder ascended Traynor's

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—[Special.]—Old Tom Zachary, old as the sod over which he trod to relieve a faltering Boston pitcher late this afternoon, saved a ball game for the Braves at the Phillies park. The final score was 5 to 3.

Three on base, one out and Chuck Klein at bat. Klein popped to Sheely. Arlett next. On the eighth straight hook Arlett grounded to Maguire and the game was over. Score:

Veterans Express Thanks for Timely Golden Gloves Aid

A letter expressing the thanks of destitute former service men and their families for the aid they received last winter from the Golden Gloves fund was received by THE TRIBUNE yesterday from William A. Schlupp, superintendent of veterans' relief for the Cook county bureau of public welfare.

"Permit me at this time to express to you the most hearty thanks of our organization and that of the many families of former service men who have been greatly benefited and relieved to a great extent in their destitute circumstances during the last winter by the kind generosity of Col. R. R. McCormick in providing a portion of the Golden Gloves fund to be used for payment of the rent, gas, and electric bills, and your kind cooperation. It is impossible to give you the true expression in these words of the great amount of good this fund has done for these particular families. Were it possible for you to witness the conditions under which the majority of them have lived during the last winter I am sure it would be hardly possible for you to believe the dire circumstances these former heroes of 1917 and 1918 have fallen into, in many cases due to their physical handicap suffered from injuries during the war.

"In most cases the average man has submitted numerous appeals for our office to secure work for them, as they would much rather have work than appeal for charity—which they have done with a great deal of reluctance. You and I both know that the last winter has been an exceptionally hard one as far as employment is concerned, and we hope that this situation will change somewhat, so that these men may be able to take care of themselves during the coming year.

"Naturally it was with a great deal of dismay when we were informed that the fund had been exhausted. It had been, as we may term it, 'an ace in the hole' all winter and had been very much of a standby, but nevertheless we want you to feel that these families and ourselves more than appreciate what you have done and trust that in some way we can reciprocate in the future.

"Again thanking you for your kind cooperation, I am,

"Very truly yours,

"WM. A. SCHLUPP."

me a personal demonstration of the alcohol effect of sugar, but I declined, not wishing to take my alcohol, in any guise, under clinical conditions. Later, however, I went into the diner and guzzled four lumps of sugar without experiencing any exhilaration and concluded that either Mr. Wandle and S. M. U. were overoptimistic or I was a two-sugar-bowl man myself.

Mr. A. A. Stagg recently told me an incident of long ago at Yale which typifies the extreme idea. He had taken a prominent part in a ball game against Harvard and Yale had won, so the undergraduates, who were much more enthusiastic than the undergraduates are today, put him and some others up on their shoulders and swept along toward New Haven. They let Mr. Stagg down after a while and he romped along with the jubilant crowd and right up to the bar of a large saloon where a friend of his exclaimed, "Come on, Stagg; have a drink."

Close Call That Time.

Mr. Stagg had never taken a drink and he refused, but his friend insisted and presently held a glass of beer up close to his face. Mr. Stagg did not say that he faltered morally in that instant, but I inferred that he did waver inwardly for just one fateful second because he said, seriously, in introducing the incident, "I had a close call that time."

I didn't think it was such a dangerous situation, though. He might have made a good friend and certainly the beer never could have made a toper of A. A. Stagg.

Mr. Stagg and Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, contemporaries and great men both in the development of the American athletic plan, are brother prohibitionists, too, and extremists in the matter of self-discipline and abstinence in training and out. But they are distinguished because they are not typical and it is asking much of young men who are adventurous enough to go into the hard competition for places on the big teams to expect them to live by their austere rules. In addition to which it has never been shown that total abstinence from tobacco, from liquor, and from such minor poisons as pastry and cake is any better than natural living and moderate indulgence.

It seems very unnecessary, considering the success of athletes who lived a little bit as they went along, and I doubt that a young man, even a perfect specimen, can be compensated for the legitimate fun that he is missing, merely by standing before his mirror twice a day and remarking to himself, "My, what a beautiful torso I have, and what a fine pulse."

LONDOS BEATS BRONOWICZ IN ONE FALL MATCH

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois athlete, and Kola Kwariani, Russia, wrestled to a 30 minute draw in the semi-windup.

OHIO STATE STAR LEADS BIG TEN GOLF WITH 154

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 29.—[Special.]—A near par 18 holes of golf this afternoon pushed Johnny Florio of Columbus, star of the Ohio state team, into the lead for the Western Conference golf championship.

After taking 80 on the morning round, Florio went into the lead for the first 36 holes this afternoon by covering the rolling University of Michigan course in 74, two over par. He nosed out Royston of Michigan by one stroke on the 36 holes.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: I wonder how many former pupils are living now who attended the old Dearborn school on Madison street, opposite McVicker's, before the fire of 1871? I was there in 1870 when Alice Barnard was principal. Among other pupils were Herman Hefter, Myron L. Pearce, son of the proprietor of the Adams house on Lake street; Gus Wunderle, son of a tailor on Wells, north of Madison, and many others.

The fire of 1871, however, scattered most of those families or so reduced their circumstances that they sought other neighborhoods.—N. C. Cary.

In a recent Wake appeared a story of the Chicago parade celebrating German victory in the war against France in 1871. I think the writer's memory erred in several details. I marched in that parade and here is my version:

The procession covered the entire business district and then proceeded north on Clark, west on Fullerton to Halsted where "Wright's grove" was situated and where the actual celebration took place. Ogden's grove was not known until about 15 years later.

Strict instructions were issued by the management of the parade that no banners bearing the word "Victory" or alluding to the celebration as such were to be displayed. Instead, the celebration was known, announced and conducted strictly as a "Peace Jubilee."

The indemnity exacted from France by Germany was so ridiculously small that France paid it within about three weeks on condition that all German troops vacate French territory upon payment of the indemnity, which they did.—Armin Seitz.

The Soldier's Tomb.

Dear Wake: My mother sang this song for me when I was a little boy and it was my favorite. I never was successful in learning the name of the author, and even the War library at Washington, D. C., failed me in my quest. Here are the words to the best of her memory, which I think are suitable for Memorial day:

Karl C. Bradner.

Whispering oak branches wave,
Home of the true and the brave.

All of your conflicts are o'er,
Deep is the sleep that has found you,
Trumpets shall rouse you no more.

Sweet and serene are your slumbers,
Hundreds which no man can number,
Tears of great gratitude shed.

Never shall morn's bright breaking
Enter your chambers of gloom,
Till the last trumpet awaking
Sounds through the depth of your tomb.

Open Chicago Yacht Racing Season Today

Chicago's lake front will present a nautical appearance today when sailing boats and power craft from the various clubs in the neighborhood inaugurate the local season with a series of club races.

COMMODORE T. M. DUNLAP.

At 10 o'clock this morning a cannon fired by Commodore T. M. Dunlap of the Jackson Park Yacht club will boom from the deck of the flagship Fame, opening the 35th season of the south side club.

The Chicago Yacht club will begin its fifty-sixth year with similar ceremonies at Belmont harbor at 1 o'clock. The Columbia and Sheridan Shore Yacht clubs also will hold opening day programs.

Boats of every class are entered in the opening day race at Jackson park. The O'Rourke brothers' Q boat, Intruder, will defend the Bessie Bennett Skippers' cup, awarded annually to the boat making the best corrected time in the initial race.

More than 35 vessels of various ratings will engage in the Chicago Yacht club race over a triangular course of 14 nautical miles. A special race for the cruising division will be run from Belmont harbor to the Rogers park spar buoy and return.

The Columbia Yacht club will hold a 10 mile race over the club course at the foot of Randolph street. The club is making preparations for its first open event, the fortieth annual Michigan City race, which will be run on June 20.

Tippecanoe River Country Good Bet for Fishermen

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen starting out this morning for a little outing over the week end have several possible jaunts which involve either a lake or a stream for recreation. If one is traveling by car and just wants to explore a little while searching out a spot for a tent we suggest hitting for the Tippecanoe river in Indiana.

The Tippecanoe is one of those prairie rivers that meanders through Indiana, now running rather rapidly through a short rapids and then slowing down in deeper stretches of water. Start at the town of Winamac and then go southward on the good highway that runs fairly close to the river.

You'll find some lovely country [especially 'way down the river below Lake Freeman] and occasional spots where you can pitch a tent. By all means wander through the little town of Pulaski, which is on the river and once had a wonderful future as a thriving prairie town. Some distance below that town you'll see some real rapids where later in the season the small mouth bass fishermen will do their stuff.

Briefly, here are the Indiana fishing regulations: June 16 is the opening day on large and small mouth bass, silver or white bass, bluegills, crappies, rock bass, wall eyes, sunfish, bluegills, and pickerel. All other species, for example, catfish and perch, no closed season.

If you want a lovely float down an Indiana small mouth bass stream later in the season we suggest that you take this week-end and strike out for the town of Plymouth, which is on the Yellow river.

GOVERNOR OF FLORIDA VETOES STATE RACE BILL

Malone got rid of Kremer and L. Waner in the Pirate half of the seventh, but he walked Grantham and the score was tied when P. Waner shot a triple to the fence in deep left center. Traynor ended the inning with a pop to English.

Grimm's Triple Wasted.

After Jurges had been thrown out in the eighth, Grimm tripled to left center. Cuyler batted for Malone and popped to Grantham. Moore flied to P. Waner. The Cubs tried to break through in the ninth. Stevie singled with two out and Wilson walked but Hartnett was called out on strikes.

Root's only strain in three innings came with two out in the ninth. Kremer walked with one out and L. Waner popped to English. Hornsby then made a great stop of Grantham's grounder near first, but first base was left uncovered and Hornsby had no place to throw the ball, so it went for a hit. The threat ended when Stevie pulled down P. Waner's drive.

And here's the detail of the Cubs' victory maneuvers in the tenth inning. Jurges was safe on Grantham's error and moved up on Grimm's sacrifice. He paused while Root fanned and came home with the bacon when Moore knocked a single to center, Johnny's first hit in three games. Moore stole second, but English ended the Cubs' batting efforts for the day with a fly to Comorosky.

The Cubs will play two games tomorrow, one will start at 10:30 and the other at 3 o'clock. Sweetland has been designated to pitch the morning game, with Brame as his probable opponent.

Cleveland Nine Turns Back Detroit, 9 to 2

Detroit, Mich., May 29.—The Detroit Tigers today lost, 9 to 2, to the Cleveland Indians to make it an even dozen losses in 14 starts.

The Indians made four runs in the first inning, due to a pair of walks off Tom Bridges, an error by Johnson, Tiger rightfielder, a triple by Vosmik, and a double by Sewell. During this time Kamm stole two bases. Later in the game he added a couple more. Bridges gave way to Waite Hoyt in the fourth inning, but the Indians found him for six more hits. Clinton Brown, on the mound for Cleveland, allowed eight hits. Score:

2 MARKS FALL AS STANFORD TOPS TRACK TRIALS

Wykoff and Boyle Better Intercollegiate Marks.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—[By Associated Press.]—Shortly after the mighty air armada of the American army had roared in dazzling formation over the premises this afternoon, the track and field forces of the far west swept Franklin field with a succession of performances, forecasting their triumph over the east for the tenth time in eleven years.

Qualifying tests in eleven of the fifteen events making up the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championships, marked by two record shattering performances, satisfied a handful of onlookers that the champion Southern California team and Stanford will have the battle for team honors tomorrow all to themselves.

Led by the rangy Ben Eastman, who lived up to his advance notices by qualifying easily in the 440 and 880 yard runs, Stanford overcame two heart breaking setbacks to capture 16 qualifying places and lead the pack.

Monopolize Field Events.

The Indians monopolized the field events, qualifying four men in the discus and three in the shot put. Their chances of beating Southern California tomorrow were jolted by the elimination of Capt. Roger Smith in the hurdles and Hector Dyer, the 220 yard champion. These two stars failed to recover from leg injuries.

Southern California, paced by flying Frank Wykoff, who set a new 100 yard dash record of :9.6 in his semi-final heat, collected 13 qualifying places. The Trojans placed in ten of the eleven preliminary events.

Yale, with seven qualifiers, and Pennsylvania, with six, led the eastern teams, who apparently will have to be contented tomorrow with a battle among themselves for third place. Harvard, although qualifying only three men today, will be in this group, along with Cornell, but the eastern strength appeared too scattered to offer much resistance to the far western rush.

Pennsylvania's star broad jumper, Lemoine Boyle, outdid himself in the trials with a record leap of 25 feet 1¼ inches, as he accounted for the day's second record performance. This added only ¼ of an inch to the former mark of 25 feet ⅞ inch, set by Jesse Hill of Southern California in 1929.

Runs Fast Quarter Mile.

Eastman, Stanford's bespectacled sophomore, was started in both middle distance runs by an eleventh hour decision, prompted by his brilliant quarter mile trial in 48.3 seconds, eased up. The rangy, blond youngster will make his bid tomorrow to beat the world's record of 47.4 seconds, set by Ted Meredith of Pennsylvania in the I. C. A. A. A. meet of 1916. Without apparent effort, Eastman also won his 880 yard heat, in 1:58.3.

LANE TECH NINE MEETS CLEVELAND PREP TEAM TODAY

Lane Tech, 1930 baseball champion of the Chicago Public High School league, and Shaw High school, winner of the Cleveland, O., title last year, will play the first of a two game series this afternoon at Wrigley field. The final game is scheduled for next Friday at Cleveland.

Shaw has won the Cleveland championship eight times. Among the players on the Shaw squad is Walter Peckinpaugh, 15 year old son of Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland Indians, who will be at third base.

JAMESTOWN TO OPEN TITLE QUEST IN WITHERS TODAY

The Field

Archers Aweich....R. Workman... 5-2
My Broom .....F. Coltiletti...15-1
Commuter .....E. Barnes.....50-1
Nerstone .....G. Rose.....10-1
Polydorus .....J. Meek 8-1
Surf Board.....C. Kurtsinger... 5-2
Sea Meadow.....E. Watters 20-1
Ladder .....L. Schaeffer....20-1
Jamestown .....L. McAtee 6-5
Clock Tower.....F. Walls 4-1

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Opposed by nine of the east's crack milers, George D. Widener's Jamestown, winner of the 1930 juvenile title, opens his campaign to supplant Twenty Grand as the nation's leading three year old in the fifty-sixth running of the Withers at Belmont park tomorrow.

Although he has faced the barrier only once and that in a cheap condition affair on Wednesday, the big bay son of St. James, which won six of his seven starts as a two year old, stands out as the only colt capable of challenging Twenty Grand for the three year old championship.

Twenty Grand Out of Race.

Jamestown will not match strides with Twenty Grand until the Belmont stakes, June 13, but tomorrow's race will go a long way toward determining the Widener ace's chance of defeating the Kentucky Derby winner from the Greentree stable. Although Trainer James Rowe decided to withhold his star for the mile and one-half Belmont, he has nominated two of his fleetest — Surf Board and Anchors Aweigh—to dispute the mile test with Jamestown.

With the promise of a fast track and midsummer weather, Jamestown will go to the post the even money favorite, with the Greentree entry the second choice at 5 to 2 or better.

New Track Record Probable.

The track record of 1:35 is held by Jack High, another member of the Widener stable, but it would not be surprising to see a fifth of a second clipped off the mark tomorrow.

In his debut Jamestown did not show any too much speed from the barrier but at the end Pony McAtee had him covering the ground like a fleet hare.

Outboards Dash Ninety Miles Today

The safety committee, which is composed of Capt. Nedeau, Ken Dunlap and George Boyer, will determine which boats will be permitted to start. The final word given by these men will be based on weather conditions. Obviously some of the smaller craft could not expect to finish in a heavy sea.

Here Are Regulations.

No boat will be permitted to take to the water in the morning for final tuning up before 6 o'clock. The general regulations of the safety committee follow:

Runabouts using D, E and F motors must be approximately 14 feet in length and have a 50 inch beam. Runabouts having C motors must be approximately 12 feet in length, and B motors require at least an 11 foot length.

Racing boats and step planes must comply with the rules of the National Outboard association racing commission. For B and C motors the minimum weight is 150 pounds. Minimum weight for D, E and F motors is 190 pounds. All weights are without equipment.

No loose equipment, including gas and oil cans, will be permitted. Each boat must carry a fire extinguisher, life preserver and a whistle for use in case of fog.

Must Carry Cards.

Disqualified boats will not be permitted to start. Each driver accepted for the marathon will receive a card in the morning which must be submitted at the finish to qualify for one of the 12 prizes awarded by THE TRIBUNE and a finish badge. Luncheon will be tendered the drivers tomorrow afternon at the St. Clair hotel, Chicago, when the trophies will be presented.

While interest centers tomorrow on the outboard motorboats, the regatta Sunday at Navy pier, comprising 14 speed races, promises more speed and a greater entry than any power boat regatta ever held in Chicago. Inboard boats, from the 50 h. p. runabouts to the 300 h. p. class, are scheduled to race over the 2½ mile course north of Navy pier starting at 1 o'clock.

A naval parade of cruisers will add color to the regatta. The best dressed boat will receive a cup, and a committee of members of the Lake Michigan Yachting association will pick the winner.

Race For McDonald Trophy.

The outboards also will have their share in the naval holiday. These tiny racers will engage in class competition and then will unite in contest for the Eugene F. McDonald Jr. trophy, emblematic of the amateur championship of the central states.

DRAKE TO PLAY HAWAII.

Honolulu, May 29.—(AP)—Drake university of Des Moines, Ia., radioed today acceptance of an invitation to play the University of Hawaii football team in Honolulu Dec. 26.

Conference Baseball Race Nears Climax

The Big Ten baseball championship will be at stake today when Chicago and Illinois, the two leaders, go into action. The Chicago-Indiana game, scheduled for yesterday, was rained out and will be played at 10:30 this morning on the Midway. Illinois and Northwestern will clash at Roycemore field in Evanston at 3 o'clock.

Defeat for either Illinois or Chicago would eliminate them from further championship consideration, each having won eight and lost two. If both teams lose Chicago would have a chance to gain an advantage in percentage by defeating Wisconsin next week. Today's game is the final for both Illinois and Northwestern.

Four of the leading pitchers of the conference will be in action in the two games. Chicago will depend on Lefty Henshaw, sophomore ace, to subdue the Hoosiers. Veller, also a southpaw, will do the flinging for Indiana. In the game at Evanston the Illini will probably start Mills, who upset Northwestern in the first game of the season. Buck Fyfe, veteran right hander, is the Wildcats' choice.

Five Northwestern players will terminate their college careers in today's game. They are Capt. Larry Oliphant, Jack Dempsey, Don Schuett, Lee Hunley, and Buck Fyfe. Illini players who play their last game are Witte, Tryban, Steurnagel, Hazzard, Rosenfield, and Fencl, outfielder.

SIX GAMES ON SEMI-PRO LEAGUE PROGRAM TODAY

Six games will be played this afternoon in the Chicago Semipro Baseball league, with the game between Grover Cleveland Alexander's House of David nine and the Logan Squares featuring. The Mills and the Colored All-Stars will play a twin bill at Mills stadium.

Chicago Firemen at Rockford.
Colored All-Stars at Mills Stadium (two games).
House of David at Logan Square.

Harridge, New A.L. Prexy, Receives Congratulations

William Harridge, elected president of the American league at a meeting held in Cleveland on Wednesday, yesterday was buried under flowers and telegrams which were unloaded at headquarters in the Straus building.

The congratulatory tokens came from coast to coast, most of them from baseball men who in the last eighteen years had known him as secretary to Ban Johnson, and later as American league secretary.

"I didn't seek the position and in fact didn't expect it, so I am too overwhelmed to do any talking," was all Harridge could say as he peered out from behind a bower of roses, peonies, carnations and other flowers unidentified.

The new president's only thought for the present is to pep up the umpiring staff, which, since the season opened, has been charged with a lack of hustle.

REXINGER WILL PLAY DENNISON FOR BIG 10 TITLE

Columbus, O., May 29.—[Special.]—Scott Rexinger, Chicago university tennis star and defending champion of the Big Ten tennis singles title, will meet Carl L. Dennison, Ohio State, for the 1931 championship tomorrow. Rain, which repeatedly halted the play today, prevented the playoff of the doubles semi-finals. These will be played tomorrow morning.

Rexinger, seeded No. 1, easily defeated Charles Britzius, Minnesota, in the third round in two straight sets. Scores were 6-3, 6-2. In the semi-finals Rexinger, in the best three out of five sets, allowed Bert Riel, Northwestern star, only four games in the three sets played. Scores were 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

Playing in faultless form and displaying a brilliant brand of recovery shots, Dennison, seeded No. 4, disposed of H. C. Yutzy, Minnesota, in four sets.

Ohio's doubles team of Dennison and James defeated Rexinger and Ries, representing Chicago, in the first and only set, 6-3. In the meantime, Northwestern, represented by Riel and Dodge, were holding Yutzy and Britzius, Minnesota, to three games each. Play was halted when a rainstorm broke.

In the second round of singles, Riel, Northwestern, beat Colbert Ryan, Michigan, in straight sets, 6-4, 8-6.

Hogs scored a mild recovery on yesterday's session and the extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c at $6.25 and $5.80, respectively. Cattle showed little change on light supplies, while the market for sheep and lambs was very erratic, best kinds selling to better advantage, while sharp price cuts were recorded in plain quality stock.

Uneven gains of 5@15c were scored in hogs, but plain kinds finished barely steady when larger houses refused to follow at the early strength. The clearance was good, however, and only 2,000 were estimated left at the close. With the exception of yesterday's market, the trend in hog prices has been sharply lower all week.

Prevailing prices are 90c to $1.00 lower than during the middle of last week. Supplies are increasing, which is usual around June 1. In spite of the fact that this week's total is for only five days, it is second largest since April 4. Offerings include a larger number of packing sows and weights are getting heavier. The week's estimate at 241 lbs., stands heaviest since April 4. The general average price of hogs this week declined 50c at $6.00.

Light weight hogs for next Monday's delivery were bid $6.25 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but there were no offers to sell at that figure. June light were offered at $6.75 and bid $6.00. September offers were at $7.65 in the light hog class. Mediums for September were offered at $7.50 and bid $6.50, while September heavy grades were offered at $7.00 and bid $6.50.

The meager supply of 2,000 cattle on the market yesterday changed hands at about steady prices, although the trade was slow and buyers as indifferent as usual. Prevailing quotations are mostly $1.00 lower than they were in the middle of last week and the trade is still in an unhealthy condition and unable to cope with even moderate supplies. The best steers available yesterday sold at $7.35, the bulk of medium to good grades going at $6.00@6.75.

Best Lambs in Demand.

Best grades of strong weight lambs are in good demand at firm prices, while others have to be peddled and thin light weight stock sacrificed at sharply lower prices. The latter kinds have been accumulating on the wholesale market lately and the kinds that sell at $3.00@5.00 on a "forced basis" are practically worthless according to buyers.

Strong weight shorn lambs are quick sellers at $8.00@8.65. Best springers bring $10.00@10.50. Wool lambs were neglected lately. Aged sheep are selling about as low as any time on record.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 17,000 cattle, 45,000 hogs and 14,000 sheep, against 17,838 cattle, 44,018 hogs and 13,715 sheep, a week ago and 18,159 cattle, 46,839 hogs and 10,080 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 41,000 cattle, 135,000 hogs and 60,000 sheep, against 50,972 cattle, 152,705 hogs and 75,120 sheep, a year ago and 45,938 cattle, 148,825 hogs and 59,386 sheep two years ago.

Cotton Acreage Reduced; Crop Under Last Year's

Cotton acreage in the United States for this year's harvest is estimated at 42,474,000 acres by Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician. This is a reduction of 7.3 per cent from last year's harvest. Condition May 25 was 70.6 per cent of normal, compared with 69.7 a year ago and 70.1 as the average for the past five years. On this basis a crop of 12,500,000 bales is indicated. Last year's crop was 14,500,000 bales estimated in May, and final returns were 13,933,000 bales.

ASSERT ADVANCE NOW NECESSARY IN COMMODITIES

Foreign Trade Men Eye Future.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—An advance in commodity prices is an essential necessity of the present economic situation, the chief factor of which is "profitless merchandising," according to a declaration adopted unanimously yesterday afternoon by the eighteenth convention of the National Foreign Trade council at the end of its three day meeting.

The declaration, adopted in accordance with the custom of setting down annually a statement or policy for the ensuing year, paralleled closely the keynote speech of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation and president of the council. It was approved at the last session of the convention, which was termed by Mr. Farrell a "most successful meeting," attended by more than 2,200 delegates with seventy-one registered from Hawaii and eighty-four foreign countries.

The tariff, which had a thorough airing at the sessions, was not mentioned in the declaration, which concluded with an expression of faith that there was no doubt that the United States had in itself the power to lead in world trade recovery.

Business Volume Rises.

"The most significant fact in the status of the international trade of the world is that the volume of merchandise sales about equals that of a few years ago when business was enjoying substantial prosperity. But price levels have fallen to the point where profit has been largely eliminated. The chief factor of the present situation is profitless merchandising.

"An essential necessity of the present economic situation is an advance in commodity prices. When prices are falling, buyers tend to withdraw from the market. It is rising prices that stimulate buying and consumption and a return of prosperous times. Anything, therefore, which tends to postpone recovery in commodity prices, more especially those influences which are unfair and uneconomic in character should be discontinued.

Advises Cooperation.

At the final meeting Eugene P. Thomas, vice president of the United States Steel corporation, warned that America's position in foreign trade could not be maintained unless bankers and exporters cooperated to direct the effects of our loans abroad. To avoid having American capital abroad used for purposes that would be detrimental rather than helpful to American enterprise he proposed the formation of a board of banking and industrial interests to scrutinize closely the problems besetting the American exporter who is in competition with industries abroad that have some form of export credit guarantee or insurance.

George W. Leman, assistant secretary of the Irving Trust company, discussed a plan whereby the United States government alone might attempt to stabilize the silver market.

The plan provides that this country might buy about thirty years' supply of 200,000,000 ounces of silver from India with some of our gold surplus. This could be used as a reserve for our actual currency needs and to prevent too sharp a rise in silver prices that might result later from a shortage.

According to Wallace Thompson, editor of Ingeniera International, an authority on foreign trade advertising, who addressed the export advertising group, curtailment of advertising by American concerns in South America has left that field once more wide open and vulnerable "to the drive of such supersalesmen as the heir to the British throne."

COUNTY ADDS 29 ACRES TO FOREST PRESERVE PARKS

Cook county's forest preserve system was enlarged yesterday by the addition of 29 and a half acres. Two parcels of nine acres each were purchased in the Tinley Park district in Bremen township, being located north of 167th street and east of Central avenue. One parcel was acquired from Fred A. and Edward Siekman for $5,850 and the other from Henry and John Fergel for a like amount.

Then, ten and a half acres were purchased in the Wheeling park district in Wheeling township from Otto W. Schmidt for $47,500. This addition is located north of Dundee road and between Portwine road and the Des Plaines river. Yesterday's purchase brings the acreage added to the county's forest parks so far this year to about 250 acres.

Chicago's construction program for the first five months of 1931 is still maintaining a lead over the corresponding period of last year, according to E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers association. The 1931 building valuation for the first five months amounted to $40,390,650, while for the like period of 1930 the valuation was recorded at $31,843,200.

Mr. Craig stated that lack of public confidence in building for investment purposes has proved to be an unfavorable factor in the plans of Chicago builders to stimulate construction. He also said the indifference of bankers is another deterrent.

INVITE LEADERS TO LIVE STOCK MEETING HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Following the sweeping declines which have occurred in live stock and meat prices, bringing cattle and hogs to the lowest levels reached in twenty years or more, it was announced yesterday that a constructive meeting of agricultural leaders, railroad presidents, prominent bankers, packers, and retailers of meat, live stock commission men, Board of Trade executives, and others whose businesses touch agriculture, had been called for Wednesday, June 3, in Chicago.

Plans will be discussed to bring to the attention of the consuming public in some spectacular way the information that live stock and live stock products can be obtained at greatly reduced prices. Invitations to attend also have been extended to the secretary and other officials of the United States department of agriculture and to a representative of the federal farm board.

Those interested in the meeting are not talking depression, it was said. They see in the present levels an opportunity to increase the demand.

ADOPT PLAN FOR CONVERSION OF AUSTRALIAN DEBT

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 29.—(AP)—The conference of commonwealth and state premiers today tentatively adopted a plan for a forty year loan for conversion of Australia's internal debt. The stock is to bear 4 per cent interest and an additional flat rate income tax of 25 per cent will be levied on securities that are not converted.

Reduction of interest will be applicable to all internal securities and interminable stock.

"We have been told that financial institutions holding practically half the bonds are willing to convert," said Prime Minister James Scullin.

The announcement that the big conversion operation had been approved by the premiers resulted in a heavy disturbance on the Sydney stock exchange. Commonwealth bond values were substantially down, the fall reaching 5 per cent in one instance. On the Melbourne stock exchange declines ranged from one-quarter of one per cent to two per cent.

RESERVE BANK NOTES GAINS IN MIDWEST TRADE

Sales of Department Stores Improve.

Commodity and security markets throughout the north will be closed today in observance of Memorial day. Banks and business houses will also be closed.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Trade in the middle west is continuing to improve gradually, according to the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Particularly encouraging is the record of department stores, which appear to be doing a larger volume of business than a year ago if the decline in merchandise prices be considered.

"Wholesale trade in April expanded further in most reporting groups," the review says. "The gains over March of 4, 7½, and 4 per cent shown in drug, dry goods, and shoe sales, respectively, were contrary to seasonal trend, while in hardware the increase of 26 per cent was considerably larger than usual. Declines from a year ago in drugs, dry goods, hardware, and electrical supplies were smaller than had been recorded in the corresponding comparison for March.

"For the year through April, however, sales data compared unfavorably with the same four months of 1930, the grocery trade declining 10½ per cent, drugs 13½ per cent, dry goods 24 per cent, hardware 26 per cent, shoes 22 per cent, and electrical supplies 34½ per cent. Prices, which continue a downward trend, are partly responsible for the losses shown.

Increase 16 Per Cent.

"Sales during April of 107 reporting department stores in the seventh district increased 16 per cent over the preceding month, or in about the same amount as did March trade over February. The later date of Easter in 1930, however, made a more favorable showing for April of that year, so that sales this April totaled 12 per cent smaller and for the first four months of 1931 were 10 per cent less than in the same period of 1930. In the comparison with March this year, sales by department stores in Chicago gained 13 per cent.

"The retail shoe trade again expanded seasonally in April, sales of reporting dealers and department stores totaling 18 per cent larger than in March. As compared with last April, however, sales were 16 per cent smaller, bringing the total for the year to date to 8 per cent below the corresponding period of 1930.

"The gain of 17½ per cent shown for April over the preceding month in the retail furniture trade was somewhat smaller than usual for the season, that in the previous four years averaging 23 per cent."

Retail Demand Picks Up.

Warmer weather has given impetus to retail demand accompanied by a slightly improved business sentiment, the weekly trade reviews report.

"Improvement in trade volume continues to trail improvement in trade sentiment," Dun's review says. "There is less of the hopeless attitude in facing the future, but gains for the week in any direction were too slight to gauge a trend. Discounting seasonal activity, which has brightened the aspect of several industries, business in general reflects firm and stable underlying conditions. Retail demand has broadened, following the turn to warmer weather."

"Retail trade throughout the country, though somewhat spotty, about held its own from the preceding week when some advance was noted," Bradstreet's review says. "Reports from 40 leading centers show considerable pessimism, but, on the whole, a slightly improved business sentiment. This is due partly to hope for the future and partly to better adjustment of conditions. Although further slackening in wholesale and jobbing is not apparent, this branch of business is plainly much at a standstill. Industry also shows few signs of awakening. Here and there bright spots appear, but the general atmosphere is drab."

Finds Newsprint Situation Sermon on Overproduction

BY SCRUTATOR.

The history of the Canadian newsprint industry in the last two decades is a good illustration of what happens when production capacity is geared up out of proportion to demand.

At present the newsprint business is overbuilt and overfinanced. Its problem is not merely that of a surplus of goods produced. More serious than that, there is a surplus of facilities for manufacturing those goods. And these facilities have been capitalized on the expectation of a greater demand than exists.

In 1900 all the newspapers in the United States could be printed on about 750,000 tons of paper. Ten years later the requirements were 1,250,000 tons and in 1920 slightly more than 2,000,000 tons. In 1928 requirements were 3,500,000.

Supply Less Than Demand.

During the war the supply of newsprint was much less than the demand. Prices shot skyward. Mills became highly profitable and the public became interested in paper mill securities. Investors liked the idea of their owning vast forests and controlling water power. This combination attracted a big following.

An so prosperity smiled on the business of financing and building paper mills. The speed with which they were being put up created the impression abroad that there would not be enough forests to meet the demand. More money poured in and there ensued a race to acquire forest lands.

The Canadian provincial governments owning these lands acted according to the established principle of conservatism invented by Pinchot and required the building of mills to utilize the forests. This extended the tide of prosperity into the building trades.

Then the pendulum began swinging the other way. Paper companies found that there were more mills than the demand justified. Paper became a drug on the market. Prices receded to the cost of producing paper in a fully loaded mill. But most of the mills were operating at half capacity.

During the last year or two expenses have been cut to the bone. Staffs have been curtailed and wages and salaries reduced. The mills have been buying from settlers or pulpwood operators at extremely low prices and they have been "eating out of the pile"; that is, using wood from storage reserves.

Despite these drastic steps few Canadian companies were able to do much more than cover fixed charges last year, and this year they will probably have to reduce expenses still further to make as good a showing.

From 1919 to 1928 while United States production increased from 1,375,000 tons to 1,414,952 tons the Canadian production leaped from 808,000 to 2,581,102.

Surplus Unavoidable.

Consumption has not gone back to wartime levels. Canadian output last year was 2,498,060 tons, greater than any previous year except 1929. But producing capacity is so much greater than demand that a surplus is unavoidable. And a surplus is a tail that wags the dog. It creates a buyer's market and demoralizes prices.

The contract price at the mill of $50 per ton, established May 1, 1931, compares with $62 in the latter part of 1928, $70 in 1925, and $73 in 1924. Back in 1920 the demand was so great that some lots were sold in the open market as high as $270 per ton. Federal trade commission reports show that during the year an average price of $102.76 was maintained.

STOCKHOLDERS PLACE APPROVAL ON MERGER WITH ALLIS-CHALMERS

Laporte, Ind., May 29. — Ratification by Advance Rumely Corporation stockholders of the proposed acquisition of the Laporte concern by the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company of Milwaukee was given today at a special stockholders' meeting here. President Finley P. Mount of Advance Rumely announced that 145,873 shares of stock were voted, representing more than three-quarters of the stock eligible for voting. Only two-thirds was needed. Allis-Chalmers will take over operations of the Laporte plant on Monday. The contract, already drawn up, will be signed in Milwaukee on Monday and at the Advance Rumely offices in Chicago on Tuesday.

President Mount said it would take three years for Advance Rumely to wind up its affairs, this period being provided for in the contract. Under the terms of the contract Allis-Chalmers takes over all Rumely property with certain exceptions, notably the Battle Creek, Mich., plant and its receivables as well as its debts and other obligations. Allis-Chalmers is to turn over not to exceed 114,500 shares of its capital stock, the amount to be determined by the success of the collections on the receivables during the next three years. Allis-Chalmers thus acquires the Rumely combine harvester and the widespread Rumely sales organization, the principal agencies it sought.

195 April Wage Cuts Average 10.1 Per Cent

April wage cuts in 195 establishments in forty-seven industries reported to the bureau of labor statistics, averaged 10.1 per cent and affected 22,543 employes. In March 175 establishments in thirty-eight industries reported wage cuts of 10.3 per cent to 22,502 workers.

The Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper company has made a further cut in wages of 10 per cent, effective June 15, affecting underground and surface workers receiving in excess of $3.25 per day and a reduction of 15 per cent in salaries in excess of $200 per month.

Spanish Peseta Drops to New Low Levels

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Spanish pesetas declined sharply today and reached successive new low levels on reports that a decree had been issued ordering Spanish holders of English pounds to convert them into pesetas. The cable rate for pesetas at the lowest point was 8.8 cents, but it recovered partially to close at 8.94 cents which represented a net loss for the day of about one-sixth of a cent.

EARLY GAINS ARE WIPED OUT IN CHICAGO TRADING

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

An evening up in commitments by traders made for irregular price movements on the Chicago exchange yesterday. An early advance in prices caused short covering which failed to hold because of the pronounced weakness in New York stocks. Early gains were erased in the majority of cases and a number of issues were selling below Thursday's final prices when the final gong halted trading.

Business was light throughout the day. The impending holiday induced traders to cover short positions early in the day and there was no trading incentive during the remainder of the session. The sharp decline in New York failed to bring out any important liquidation, however.

Price Spreads Narrow.

Price spreads were narrow in most shares. The Insull stocks were up in the morning but reacted with the rest of the list. Edison touched 230 but held at that price and was quoted a fraction higher on the final transaction.

The sharpest break which occurred in the list was in Cherry-Burrell common stock, which dropped 4 points from its previously quoted price following the announcement of the omission of the regular quarterly dividend and publication of the firm's six months' earnings statement. Some further selling also appeared in Quaker Oats, which dipped 3 points to a close of 122½.

Stockholders of the Saxet company have been notified that a special meeting will be held June 10 to vote on a proposal to change the name of the company to the Republic Gas corporation. An increasing proportion of the company's earnings will be derived from the sale of natural gas, O. R. Seagrave, chairman of the board, said in explaining the proposed change.

Stock Values Ease.

As measured a compilation of market values of 50 representative stocks the Chicago market values showed a depreciation of $115,567,958, or 5.45 per cent. The tabulation made by Paul H. Davis & Co., shows the market value of the 50 stocks at the close yesterday was $2,002,455,264, as compared with $2,118,023,222 at the close of the preceding week. Compared with values on May 30, 1930, the same stocks showed a shrinkage of $1,625,978,570, or 44.81 per cent.

Extend Credit Aid to National Bank of Austria

BASEL, Switzerland, May 29.—(AP)—The Bank for International Settlements announced today that, as a means of improving the situation created in Austria by difficulties in the Kredit Anstadt, an arrangement has been concluded by which the ten largest central banks and the world bank will place at the disposition of the National Bank of Austria credits for use when needed.

Adverse Dividend Actions Nearing Thousand Mark

New York, May 29.—Action on dividends by corporations meeting in May brought to a total of more than 900 the dividends omitted or reduced since Jan. 1.

During this month seventy-five stocks suffered the definite loss of dividends due to be declared at this time and twelve more virtually lost their dividend standing by the decision of directors to defer action. Sixty-seven dividends were reduced and one extra dividend was omitted.

Since Jan. 1 490 dividends have been passed and sixty-five deferred, a total of 543 stocks no longer on dividend basis. Reductions have been voted on 373 dividends, including a few extras of a regular nature, making a grand total of 916 omitted, deferred, or reduced.

140 Increased Payments.

Against this unfavorable record increased dividends (including cash extras) have been declared on 140 stocks, initial dividends paid on 82, and dividends resumed on 21.

Special dividend actions in the month of May included 2 extra dividends in stock, 1 adjustment dividend, and 7 liquidating dividends.

The Erie railroad joined today the growing list of carriers whose dividends had either been reduced or omitted in the last month when the board announced that no dividend action had been taken on the second preferred stock, semi-annual payment on which was due at this time.

Directors, however, declared a dividend of 2 per cent out of 1930 earnings on the first preferred stock, payable June 30 to holders of record June 15. A year ago the board voted the full 4 per cent dividend requirement for the year on both classes of preferred stock, payable in semi-annual installments. Dividends on the preferred issues were resumed in 1929 after a lapse of twenty years.

Vote to Defer Action.

Directors of the Autocar company voted today to defer action on the quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the cumulative preferred stock "in order to maintain liquid resources in the face of the adverse business conditions."

Dividend action on the $7 cumulative preferred stock of United Business Publishers' corporation, a subsidiary, voted the regular quarterly on the $7 preferred but omitted the common dividend.

The United States Distributing company decided today to omit the semi-annual dividend of $3.50 a share on the preferred. Harriman Investors' Fund, Inc., has declared a quarterly dividend of $1, payable June 1 to stock of record May 29. This fund was established by interests connected with the Harriman National Bank and Trust company. Parke, Davis & Co. have declared the usual extra dividend of 10 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable June 30 to stock of record June 19.

LIVESTOCK ASSN. FOR MARKETING IS FORMED HERE

An Illinois live stock farmers' cooperative marketing association for handling live stock was formed in Chicago yesterday to function as a unit of the National Live Stock Marketing association, created by the federal farm board last July.

Samuel Sorrells, Raymond, Illinois, was elected president; Sam McCluggage of Peoria, vice president; G. F. Tullock, Rockford, treasurer, and Ray E. Miller of Chicago secretary. The corporation is designed, according to an announcement by Mr. Miller yesterday, to coördinate all shipping and cooperative marketing associations in the state.

Development of concentration points to which live stock may be shipped and held for favorable sales direct to packers and avoidance of market gluts were listed as the association's purposes. The Illinois Agricultural association, the state farm bureau, is back of the new agency, it was declared.

Norge Corp. Reports Big Gain in Chicago Sales

Electrical refrigerator sales in Chicago of the Norge corporation for May have already shown a 94 per cent increase over April, John H. Knapp, vice president, said at a meeting of the company's distributors yesterday at the Stevens hotel. "Unfilled orders at the present time are greater than the total shipments made by the company so far this year," Mr. Knapp declared. With the company's plant already operating at capacity, plans are being made to double production, he added.

AUTO CHAMBER NOTE OPPOSES TRUCK CONTROL

New York, May 29.—(AP)—A memorandum opposing any proposition for the regulation of interstate truck operation has been filed with the interstate commerce commission by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

In announcing the action today the organization said that while it did not oppose regulation of interstate buses, it "is not optimistic" concerning the success of such regulation.

Opposition to truck regulation was based on arguments that such regulation is not in the interest of or desired by shippers or the general public, that governmental interference with private business should not be extended, and that instead of relieving railroads of competitive difficulties, such regulation would react to injury of rail carriers.

"Motor truck transportation is subject to the most effective possible regulation, that of sharp competition," the memorandum said. "Under these conditions it has developed with increasing service and satisfaction to the shipping public."

Electric Household Utilities.

Electric Household Utilities corporation [formerly Hurley Machine company] was incorporated in 1906. It manufactures electric washing machines and vacuum cleaners, electric ironing machines, health lamps, and air purifiers. Distribution is effected through retail distributors, public utility companies, and its own chain of forty stores. General Electric company is reported to own about one-third of the outstanding shares.

Net income for 1930 was $1,234,191, or $3 per share on 411,418 common shares [par $10], against net income of $1,828,591, or $4.52 per share on 404,154 shares in 1929. Net income in 1928 was $918,498 and in 1927 $101,731. The large gain reported in 1929 was attributed to an increased demand for new model washing machines and ironing machines and the introduction of new products.

The balance sheet of December 31, 1930, indicated a strong current position. Current assets were $5,912,696, and current liabilities were $1,218,132. Cash and marketable securities were $2,067,027. Working capital was $4,694,564, against $4,503,498 the year before.

The common is on an annual dividend basis of $2 per share, payable 50 cents quarterly April 25, etc.

Shell Union Oil.

Would appreciate your opinion of Shell Union Oil 5 per cent debentures, due 1949.—Mrs. H. K. L.

Prior to 1930 Shell Union Oil corporation's earnings were substantial and covered interest requirements by wide margins. In 1929 fixed charges were co ered 4.69 times, against 5.95 times in 1928 and 6.79 times in 1927.

Reflecting the adverse conditions in the oil industry, only 22 per cent of fixed charges was earned in 1930. For the first quarter of 1931 net loss after depreciation, depletion, etc., but before interest charges, was $8,346,845. Interest charges totaled $1,563,692. Deficit after dividends for the period was $1[illegible],3,472. For the like period of 1930 net loss after all charges except interest was $1,576,517. Interest charges were $1,578,491.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—An outburst of heavy selling in the dairy stocks knocked the share market off its pins again after an early morning rally, and the end of the month found the list shorn for additional losses of 1 to 5 points or more.

The reason for the break in the food issues was something of a mystery. There were rumors of short competition and price cutting in the ice cream field and reports of heavy selling for Canadian sources, but neither development seemed to explain completely the sudden disfavor of the shares. Borden company was the butt of much of the liquidation, breaking nearly 5 points as one big block after another of the shares was knocked down at steadily receding prices. National Dairy Products lost more than three points, General Foods, 2, and Standard Brands an other issues of the group gave way without a struggle.

Rail Shares Lower.

The selling quickly spread to the rails and then to the rest of the list. Leading carriers were carried down to new lows for five years or longer on losses running from 1 to 4 points or worse. New York Central was down five points at one time to the lowest figure it has touched in nine years. Selling of this oldtime favorite was accompanied by talk that the line's newly inaugurated $6 dividend was in danger. Rock Island preferred issues broke wide open, the 6 per cent taking a tumble for 32 points and the 7 per cent shares breaking 20 points.

Chesapeake and Ohio took the count for about 4 points when its shareholders learned that the dividend had been cut from $2.50 to $2 without any announcement having been made either in the newspapers or via the ticker. Baltimore and Ohio sunk more than 5 "necessitious" type. Norfolk and Western, New Haven, Atchison, Erie, and in fact the whole list was under pressure for most of the session. Canadian Pacific was about the only share of the divison to offer any worthwhile resistance to the decline.

Selling in Copper.

Copper company shares met a steady stream of selling through most of the day, with several prominent issues, notably Anaconda and Kennecott, yielding to new low levels for the bear movement. The situation in the actual metal market, with copper priced at 8½ cents, a new minimum figure, and not far above the cost of production for many companies, was in itself ample explanation for the weakness in that quarter of the list. The deferred meeting of Kennecott directors to act on the dividend will probably take place the beginning of the new week and undoubtedly the belief that the present $2 annual rate is not likely to be maintained was a factor in the selling which came into that issue.

United States Steel common yielded to below 90 on a break of nearly 3 points from its forenoon high, and the spectacle of this veteran "blue chip" in such lowly straits helped to further demoralize sentiment in the late afternoon dealings. Just before the finish, however, enough buying appeared to boost the stock back to 91, the same level it closed at last night.

Auburn Drops 17 Points.

Auburn Auto had one of its sporadic sinking spells, breaking about 17 points to a new low for the movement. It, too, rallied a bit in time for roll call, closing at 157½, off 12. The year's high on this erratic performer was 295½, attained during the February rise. Other motor stocks were in disfavor, General Motors dipping to 34 on a loss of nearly 2 points, and Studebaker giving up more than a point.

Public utilities were no better than the average market and the oils just trailed along. Standard of New York recorded a new low for the year.

REALTORS ASK HOOVER TO CALL TAX CONFERENCE

Would Adjust Revenue to Ability to Pay.

BY AL CHASE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., May 29.—Realtors closed their annual convention in this city today with an appeal to Uncle Sam for help in an attempt to settle the tax muddle into which national, state, and local governments seem to have become involved.

Resolutions were adopted by the National Association of Real Estate Boards late this afternoon that President Hoover be asked to call a national tax conference. The realtors urge that the federal, state, and local governments be asked to participate, so that means may be devised for coördinating the functional operations of the government and securing efficiency and economy in services performed and to adjust the revenue system to more nearly meet the ability of the citizens to pay.

Upward Trend Alarming.

The resolutions call attention to the fact that the realtors view with increasing alarm the steady upward trend in government costs and increasing taxes. They point out that the aggregate expenditures of national, state, and local governments have increased more rapidly than either the national wealth or the income of its citizens, and that the federal government faces a current operating deficit of over one billion dollars.

The realtors also call attention to the fact that there is little effort on the part of the various governments to curtail their expenditures, restrict their activities or coördinate their functions so that greater economy and efficiency may be secured, at the same time minimizing taxes.

A proposed amendment that there be brought before the contemplated tax congress the question of prohibition in its relation to taxation was voted down after a close vote.

Chicago Extends Invitation.

Resolutions were adopted requesting the coöperation of the federal government in the establishment of a housing and city planning institute to be centrally located. One of the last features of the convention was the hearty invitation extended by Louis R. Beardslee of Chicago, one of the new directors, that the national sessions of 1933 be held in that city.

The Chicago Real Estate board several weeks ago adopted a resolution that the convention be held there. Mr. Beardslee also read a letter of invitation from Mayor Cermak. The national directors will act on the invitation in 1932.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—With a continued good inquiry from refiners and operators influenced by the more reasonable weather, raw sugar gained another 3 of a cent today, closing at 3.25c for spots. Except for a little irregularity at the start raw futures were higher, reflecting the section of the spot market and the more favorable London cables, with final prices showing net gains of 5 to 7 points. Approximate sales were 50,300 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
September	1.25	1.30	1.24	1.29	1.24
December	1.34	1.38	1.33	1.38	1.32
January	1.36	1.40	1.34	1.38	1.32
March	1.42	1.45	1.40	1.45	1.34
May	1.47	1.50	1.46	1.50	1.47

The firmer ruling of raws led to a little more active inquiry for refined, but the demand was only for immediate or nearby requirements. Prices were unchanged at 4.30c for fine granulated.
